BULLET AIMED AT PREMIER OF SPAIN MISSES

Reporter's Pistol Jams; Berenguer's Brother Seizes Assailant.

PRISONER CALLS ACT BLOODLESS PROTEST

Quit Job to Feel Free in Carrying Out Plan to "Save" Spain.

STATESMAN REMAINS CALM UNDER ORDEAL

"Don't Make Much of This," He Tells Assembled Newspapermen.

Madrid, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A newspaper reporter resigned his job today and then, armed with a pistol, went to the office of Premier Berenguer and fired a shot over the premier's head.

The reporter, Joaquin Lliso, denied he had intended to shoot the premier, declaring he wanted only to shoot at him as a protest against conditions in Spain.

His pistol jammed after the first shot and he was promptly saved by the premier's brother, Luis, his private secretary, who was at the premier's side when the shot was fired.

Berenguer, who had been about to hold a conference with assembled newspapermen, asked Lliso, with perfect composure:

"Well, why did you do that?"

Premier Keeps Calm.

"I came here," replied Lliso, "to make a bloodless but energetic protest against the social regime represented by your government."

Berenguer turned to the group of newspapermen and said:

"I am all right. Don't make much out of this, boys. It isn't anything. I am unhurt and he is only a poor, foolish fellow."

The premier then went upstairs where he presided at a meeting of his cabinet, as if nothing had happened.

At police headquarters, Lliso told Chief Mola:

Says He Opposes Killing.

"My act was a protest against the political and social conditions which exist at present in Spain and which, if continued, will carry Spain to chaos. Everything goes bad in Spain. I did not care to kill Berenguer, as my philosophy causes me to oppose killing.

"I also did not care to kill because I entered the building as a newspaper reporter and would not want to cast shame upon my brethern of the press. It was for the purpose of preventing reporters as a class from being subjected to humiliation that I resigned this morning from El Sol, and thus was not a reporter when I shot.

"I alone am personally responsible, with no confidants or accomplices."

Grilled and Locked Up.

Nervous, trembling and at times talking vaguely and incoherently, Lliso was examined an hour and a half and then locked up.

He is about 40 years old, speaks several languages and is regarded as a student of foreign politics. Friends said he had been worrying recently about his personal finances and police were investigating reports that he is mentally unbalanced.

Chief Mola said he was undecided whether Lliso had intended to kill the premier or only frighten him.

The shooting occurred in the salon of the Palace of Ministers, on the walls of which hang the pictures of four assassinated premiers.

The newspaper El Sol, of Madrid, on which Lliso had been employed for ten years, immediately sent a message to Berenguer expressing regret and condemning the deed.

Girl Shot on Boat; Man, 70, Is Held

Surgeons Operate to Save Former Business High Student, Wounded.

A 70-year-old man was being held by police last night in connection with the mysterious shooting on a houseboat of an attractive blonde girl described as a former student of Business High School. Surgeons at Emergency were preparing, at press time, to operate in an effort to save the life of Virginia Ann Clark, shot near the heart with what is believed to have been a .22-caliber rifle.

Two soldiers eating in a lunchroom at Hoover Field rushed to a launch anchored in the Little River upon being summoned by Mrs. Isabel Rose Clark, mother of the victim. Mother and daughter make their home all year round on the boat.

Third Precinct police, called to the scene, took into custody James Purdy, 70, whose boat is anchored about 25 feet from the Clark houseboat, after bloodstained lingerie was said to have been found in his craft.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The striking feature of the annual message of the President is its sanity and restraint. It fits the occasion because it includes so little about which there is any reason for partisan controversy. Evidently there is full recognition that under present conditions the country does not need the injection of contentious subjects into legislative consideration so much as it needs an undisturbed opportunity for recuperation.

Of course, suggestions are made for such relief for the sufferers from drought and unemployment as can reasonably be expected from the National Government through long established policies of public works and seed loans. But the message carefully recognizes that the main work of the short session is to pass the appropriation bill. Both parties agree to that. While there may be slight differences over particular items, there is no reason for political bickering or delay in securing this necessary legislation.

The President has shown the utmost candor and good faith in accepting the offer of the opposition to cooperate in securing the legislation required to conduct the Government. If factional disputes are to be sought for they will have to come from some source outside his annual mesage.

BUREAUS' BUDGETS SLASHED BY WOOD

BITTER CLASH FORESEEN

President Hoover's annual message to Congress was just a little scrap of paper to be torn up and tossed to the willful winds, figuratively speaking, if the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations bill report, submitted to the House yesterday by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee, is a criterion of what Congress is going to do this session.

Tossing aside President Hoover's program to pay Government employes next year a part of the salaries specified for their jobs under the classification law, Representative Wood cut Treasury-Postoffice estimates by $1,175,000 in personal items alone.

The actual slash in the projected amount of salaries was only a part of the attack launched by Mr. Wood, who was chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee in the last election, on the President's program for treatment of Government personnel.

Mr. Wood proposed an amendment, the full significance of which escaped members of the House in their hasty preliminary consideration yesterday, but which is certain to raise a storm before consideration of the bill is completed.

"No appropriation available during the fiscal year, 1932," Mr. Wood said in his amendment, "shall be used during such fiscal year to increase the compensation of any position within the grade to which such position has been allocated under the classification act of 1923, as amended, nor to increase the compensation of any position in the field service the pay of which is adjustable to correspond, so far as may be practicable, to the rates established by such as amended for the departmental service in the District of Columbia."

The effect of this action by Mr. Wood's committee not only is to sweep aside President's Hoover's recommendations as to pay of Government employes but it also would halt the natural functioning of the classification law within the limits of the restricted appropriations provide.

Mr. Wood's action caused something like consternation among Federal employes and, although his attitude had been forecast in the course of the secreta hearings on the estimates of

BRITISH TO PROTEST SOVIET BROADCASTS

HELD BREACH OF PLEDGE

London, Dec. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons here this afternoon that he has just made another protest to the government of Soviet Russia on the grounds of violation of its pledge against conducting anti-British propaganda.

The protest was occasioned by a broadcast from a Moscow wireless station last night sent out in English and picked up here.

At question time in the House Commander Locker-Lampson asked Henderson whether a broadcast from Moscow inciting British workmen to revolution was a breach of the Soviet government's pledge and what steps the government intended taking in the matter. The foreign secretary replied:

"My department did not receive the full text of this wireless address until after 1 o'clock this afternoon, but in the short time at my disposal for its examination I have come to the conclusion that while it does not constitute incitement to revolution, as suggested in the question, it is, nevertheless, in my opinion, a departure from the undertaking given by the Soviet government in regard to propaganda.

"In these circumstances I am instructing the ambassador at Moscow to address a protest to the Soviet government."

The Broadcast in question was a special program for Great Britain from a Moscow station which the announcer styled "The Great Trade Union Station of U. S. S. R." (Union

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—W. Kingsland Macy, of Bayshore, Long Island, was elected chairman of the New York Republican State committee today, succeeding William J. Maier.

Macy is 40 and a comparative newcomer in State politics. He came into State political prominence in 1928 as one of the first leaders to take a stand for Hoover for President. He has been a frequent critic of the Democratic administration and also of leaders in his own party, whom he has charged with inefficiency. He has never committed himself on the prohibition issue.

SENATE HEADS PUT HOWELL'S BILL ON SHELF

Steering Committee Decides Dry Measure Must Await Next Session.

LEADERS ARE AFRAID IT WOULD CAUSE JAM

ACTION DISREGARDS PRESIDENT'S DESIRES

Home-Raid Controversy Has No Chance Unless Dry Flood Gates Open.

The "home-raid" prohibition enforcement bill for the District sponsored by Senator Robert E. Howell (Republican), of Nebraka, has been eliminated from consideration by the Senate at this session unless there are unforeseen developments.

The elimination was accomplished by the Republican steering committee of the Senate, it was disclosed yesterday by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, vice chairman of the steering committee.

The Howell District home raid bill has been definitely eliminated as a subject for prolonged debate and verbal fireworks which might upset the working schedule of the Senate, Senator Vandenberg said.

Many Reasons for Action.

Decision to keep the Howell home-raid bill from the Senate floor was based on many other considerations than the opinions of members of the steering committee as to its worth and propriety.

Leaders of the majority party see enough difficulties ahead in the present short session to get through the necessary legislation which will obviate necessity for an extra session of the new Congress soon after the present Congress dies in March.

Introduction of the Howell bill for local prohibition enforcement, Senate leaders believe, would be the signal for a general fight over prohibition, the confines of which would spread far beyond the District line and become a national battle. Especially is this so in view of the tonic of victory drunk by the opponents of the prohibition law from the returns of the national election last month.

President Disregarded.

Not even the declaration of President Hoover, in his annual message to Congress, that Congress should enact a local enforcement law dissuaded the steering committee. They turned thumbs down on the proposal, and thumbs will be kept down until there is a material change in the situation.

If Congress should pass all its relief measures and the supply bills and find time on its hands before adjournment of the present session then the Howell home-raid and other bills can have their chance. If there is an extra session then the Howell bill can take its course in that. The disposition isn't so much to stop a vote on

$180,000,000 DEFICIT IS SEEN BY PRESIDENT

Hoover Budget Message Says Taxes Must Be Increased in 1932.

FEDERAL FINANCES SOUPND, VIEW HELD

$520,000,000 SUM IN BUILDING PROGRAM

$56,000,000 to Be Spent in Next 8 Months; Amount for Dry Work Raised.

(Associated Press.)

A deficit lies ahead and tax rates must be increased, but still, President Hoover yesterday told Congress, the Government's finances are in a thoroughly sound condition.

The deficit he estimated at $180,000,000 and he said, in his annual message transmitting the budget, that the 1 per cent income tax reduction granted a year ago could not be continued.

But he submitted a balanced budget for the fiscal year 1932 and a statement that rigid economy in legislation would give the Nation a surplus of $30,600,000 for that period.

A "heavy decrease in probable income and the necessity to increase public works" and aid employment, he said, do "not warrant continuation" of the tax reduction.

The Chief Executive found no cause for concern in the impending deficit. It amounts, he said, to less than 5 per cent of the total Government expenditure.

Balanced Budget Presented.

"When we stop to consider that we are progressively amortizing our public debt and that a balanced budget is being presented for 1932, even after drastic writing down of expected revenue," his message ran, "I believe it will be agreed that our Government finances are in a sound condition."

Although asserting appropriations to relieve unemployment and help farmers of the drought area would tend to increase the deficit as estimated, he expressed the opinion these needs could be met without undue danger.

The President was emphatic in warning Congress against extravagant appropriations. Strict economy must be observed, he said, if the narrow surplus estimated for next year is to be realized and a deficit for that period avoided.

A total of $3,932,842,000 was requested to finance the Government through the next fiscal year. He recommended increases over current appropriations of $109,620,000 for veterans, $51,500,000 for Federal-aid roads, $10,330,000 for public buildings, $2,480,660 for prohibition enforcement, and $35,000,000 for the Shipping Board's construction loan fund.

Decrease in Tax Refunds.

The decreases were $92,000,000 for tax refunds, $33,697,000 for national

RELIEF LEGISLATION GIVEN PREFERMENT

Group Agrees to Prevent Tying Up Slate With Disputed Ideas.

DROUGHT PROJECTS ALREADY INTRODUCED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate Republican steering committee yesterday denied the request of Senator Norris for a preferred place on the calendar for the Shipstead anti-injunction bill but at the same time agreed not to seek to block his efforts to bring the measure up on the floor.

The committee also agreed upon a policy of not letting any controversial measures get ahead of the relief legislation some of which is expected to be ready by Monday, when the committee will meet again to determine the order in which it will be taken up by the Senate. Several bills have been introduced to carry out the President's recommendations for drought relief and additional appropriations for public building and Federal road aid.

With the Senate now in recess until Monday committees are expected to whip them into shape for consideration.

Generally Observed Rule.

Denial of Norris' request for a preferred place for the antiinjunction bill was not because of the conflict between the Progressives and regulars but because of a generally observed rule of the committee not to give preferred status to any measure which has been adversely reported by the committee which originally considered it.

As a matter of fact the discussion between Norris and his fellow senators was most cordial and his conciliatory mood was reciprocated by the committee. He was, indeed, inclined to agree with the steering committee as to the intent of its rule.

He intends to make an effort to bring the bill up on the floor, he made plain, and the committee agreed to explain at the time that its refusal to give it a preferred place was without prejudice to consideration of the bill.

Progressives Insist on Action.

The measure is one of three which the Progressives are insisting must be acted upon at this session or an extra session held. The debenture and Muscle Shoals are the other two.

After all is said and done it is quite likely that the debenture will die a natural death. At least it must originate in the House or be tacked on as an amendment by the Senate to some measure to which it would be germane. The obstacles in the way of its successful passage, however, are so numerous as to make it seem hopeless.

Undoubtedly there will be a vote or some kind of action on Muscle Shoals, though whether it will be satisfactory or acceptable to Norris is a matter yet to be determined. A compromise is being worked out, but it is questionable whether it will get anywhere.

Changing Sentiment Reported.

In the meantime there is reported to be a changing sentiment toward the original Norris bill among the Southern Democrats in the House. They have heretofors been the bulwark of Norris' strength in that body. There have been developments, it is reported, to cause them to lose interest in the cheap fertilizer possibilities of the project, and losing this interest,

BELGIAN ENVOY HERE TO BE TRANSFERRED

SUCCESSOR IS APPROVED

Prince Albert de Ligne, cousin of King Albert of Belgium, and for the last three and a half years his country's ambassador to the United States, will be transferred from Washington early next month.

The American Government, it is understood, already has approved the name of the Belgian diplomat who will succeed him, but his identity will not become known until an official announcement is given out in Brussels. Among those mentioned for the post is Paul May, now the Belgian Ambassador to Brazil.

Prince de Ligne and his family, which consists of Princess de Ligne and two daughters, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Antoinette, always have been prominent in diplomatic society here.

A year or so ago Princess de Ligne decided that the princesses had spent too great a part of their lives amid sunshine and roses; that it was time they realized that there was also misery and suffering in the world.

And so she had them enrolled in the Gray Ladies, a Red Cross organization at Walter Reed Hospital, which has never forgotten the disabled.

The princesses, who were educated largely in England and who, consequently, speak excellent English, have become deeply interested in the work of the Gray Ladies and are very popular among the wounded veterans at the hospital.

Prince de Ligne has been in the diplomatic service of his country for 35 years. Where he will go from here has not been made known, but it is expected that he will be assigned to one of the European capitals.

KEECH WILL SCAN POWER RATE CUT

People's Counsel Insists Earnings Must Be Held to 7½ Per Cent.

NEW SCHEDULE READY

The Potomac Electric Power Co. this morning will submit its new schedule of rates for 1931 to the Public Utilities Commission. While the rates are expected to be even lower than the schedule now in effect and will probably be among the lowest in the country, Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, will raise an objection if the rates permit the company to earn more than a 7½ per cent net operating income.

The Public Utilities Commission will require a week or ten days to check the new schedule and to hear the people's counsel before making an announcement of the new rates. The final schedule will likely be a compromise of the two extremes.

The present domestic rate for electricity is 4.7 cents per kilowatt hour. In the schedule to be submitted today, this is expected to be cut to at least 4.4 cents and maybe lower for the new year. The reduction is based upon the public's half of excess of earnings last year, which was $830,000.

Following the announcement that the rates were to be submitted, Mr. Keech last week filed a lengthy statement with the commission in which he said that he would oppose any schedule which did not take into account the increase in business during the year. This, he said, has amounted to about 13 per cent every year.

"A rate which permits a utility to earn over 10 per cent annually is not reasonable," he said.

If the commission can not keep the earnings of the company down

'Give Early' Is Slogan For Christmas Fund

Many Children Depend Upon Donors to Fill Their Stockings.

Would you feel better on Christmas morning of you knew some child in Washington would have a really merry Christmas because of the toy or the sack of candy your money furnished?

There are a lot of folks in the Capital who apparently would. They have already contributed to The Washington Post's Christmas Toy Fund, which was created to see that every boy and girl in the city has some little gift to make him or her happy.

The fund is growing rapidly, but it can stand a lot more cash. Every dollar added to the total means one more smile on a child's face Christmas morning, and no cause is more worthy than bringing joy to the youngsters.

If your contribution is small, don't worry about it. Every little bit helps and it doesn't take much to buy a pretty, brand-new toy for a child. And if there is some particular child or group of children in your neighborhood that you' d like to help, just put a note in with your contribution and The Post will see that your money goes to help your choice of needy children.

Send in the names and addresses of the child or children you wish to have toys and knick-nacks for Christmas. If you can, tell The Post just what sort of toys these children have been requesting of the parents who are un-

Missing Man Reappears After Hunt Lasting Week

Studley Found as Police Search Fails; Loss of Memory Blamed; Report of Return Withheld Because of Nerve Condition.

William L. Studley, well-to-do Washingtonian, for whom an intensive search has been conducted since November 23, when he disappeared from the Pennsylvania Station in New York City, has been returned to his home, 1302 Eighteenth street northwest.

Mr. Studley was found by friends in New York City on Sunday, a week after his disappearance. Mrs. Studley says her husband is under the doctor's care, following a complete nervous breakdown. News of his return was withheld because of his highly nervous condition, it was stated.

His whereabouts were a mystery for a week. Mr. Studley attended the Yale-Harvard football game at New Haven and wired to his family here on November 23, saying he would arrive in this city that night. When he failed to arrive his relatives enlisted the aid of police, fearing foul play.

Police departments and radio stations on the Atlantic Seaboard were asked to aid in the search. On Sunday police abandoned their hunt, however, when they learned he had stopped at a Boston Hotel.

His disappearance was ascribed by the family to loss of memory, caused by nervousness. Mr. Studley is a retired business man from Providence, R. I.

Mystery Surrounds Injury Of Woman at Apartment

Mrs. Catherine Silbee Taken From Fashionable Jefferson With Ugly Wound in Temple and Police Are Ordered From Building.

With blood streaming from an ugly gash in her temple, a middle-aged woman, giving her name as Mrs. Catherine Silbee, was taken from the fashionable Jefferson Apartment at Sixteenth and M streets, yesterday, amid confusion enhanced by the arrival of nine policemen, the fire rescue squad and the Emergency Hospital ambulance.

The woman told hospital authorities that she had fallen from bed and cut herself on a water glass, a tale corroborated by a woman companion who refused to reveal her name. The police report read: "About 3 o'clock Catherine Silbee, white, 37, living at Apartment 408 of the Jefferson, Sixteenth and M streets, fell out of bed, cutting her head on a glass lamp shade. She was given first aid by No. 1 Rescue Squad, and later removed to Emergency Hospital and treated by Dr. Del Grego for deep laceration of the scalp, and was detained at the hospital. Not serious."

Confusion and reticence on the part of principals shrouded the incident in mystery, and headquarters detectives were assigned to the investigation last night. Mrs. Sam W. Small, jr., an employe at the apartment, ordered the police and rescue squad from the building, but finally admitted a physician and several policemen to the woman's apartment.

At the hospital, the injured woman they are said to be getting lukewarm toward the proposition of the power plant.

Some observers are willing to predict, indeed, that the original Norris bill could not now pass in the House even on a free and unfettered ballot, under which circumstances it has heretofore been believed it would pass.

However, it occupies a preferred status in both houses, and the debenture must yet be initiated. So the request for preferred status on the anti-injunction was the only test so far as to how far the Senate Republican managers were prepared to go for harmony. They would not break their rule, which was possible, of course, but on the other hand, Norris seemed to be satisfied with their stand.

Senate Rests Until Monday.

The Senate now has the contentious Parker bus bill before it and a host of nominations to consider, including that of W. N. Doak, as Secretary of Labor, the tariff commissioners, Federal power commissioners and countless others.

They must be gone over by committees, however, and the bus bill is a long-drawn-out discussion, so the Senate decided it would just rest until Monday without risking any diversions from the relief legislation.

There is a growing belief that the world court protocols will get onto the Senate floor the latter part of the session, after the relief and supply bills are out of the way, although there is some basis for the opinion that all of this talk about speeding the matter out of committee is more with a view to dissuading the President from submitting it than anything else.

Aroused, the National Federation of Federal Employes addressed a two-page letter to all members of the House last night. It was signed by Luther C. Steward, president, and Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer.

"The employes feel," the latter said, "a sense of unfair discrimination, and the further withholding of increases contemplated by existing law is recognized by administrators as having a serious tendency to undermine morale.

"We ask your support for the elimination of Section 4 (which is the Wood amendment quoted above), of the bills as proposed by the committee, and for the restoration to the bill of the salary items as carried in the estimates submitted by the Bureau of the Budget."

Doubts That They Work.

Behind the Wood amendment lies the expressed belief of the congressional election campaign committee that Government workers do not work.

"The fact of the business is," he said in the course of the executive hearings on the estimates, "that one of the principal vocations of men in the Government services is to keep from doing anything."

Later, when Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills was before the committee, Mr. Wood took issue with him, reciting a story about "when we had so many clerks in the departments they were falling over each other." Gen. Herbert Lord, then director of finance, agreed that the number should be reduced.

But Gen. Lord, Mr. Wood declared, according to the record of the hearing, "said there could be no reduction in his office."

Merely Standing Around.

Later when Mr. Wood and other members of Congress went to Gen. Lord's office, they found clerks standing and sitting around doing nothing and some soldiers on guard. When the latter were informed that the visitors were a delegation from the House of Representatives, Mr. Wood said, they "went down the corridors shouting 'everybody get busy; there is a committee of Congress here.'"

In the course of the hearings Mr. Wood told Frank Birgfeld, chief clerk of the Treasury Department, that "this is not a good time to take on additional expense" when Mr. Birgfeld tried to justify an item for an increased number of watchmen for the Treasury, so that the watchmen would not have to work seven days a week.

A good bit of the heat and verbal fireworks have been eliminated from the published report of the hearing, the record having been edited. Mr. Mills is understood to have engaged in a heated controversy with Mr. Wood, but only a hint of what was said appears in the record.

Responding to the importunities of executive officials that their employes felt they should get the salaries specified by Congress under the classification law, Mr Wood declared that it was highly probable none of them would resign from the "splendid positions" and he did not know that any would suffer whether they got the increases or not.

One Stands to Lose 40.

One of the bureaus hit by the action of Mr. Wood's committee will lose 40 employes, although the present staff is working overtime to keep abreast of their tasks.

Under the cuts made by Mr. Wood, employes of the customs service will lose $613,000 which the Budget Bureau and the President approved. Other major losses include: Public buildings, affecting mostly custodians, among the lowest paid Government employes, $139,000; Internal Revenue, $154,140; Public Health, another low-paid service, including hospital internes, nurses and others, $140,000, and there will be a loss from the estimates of $100,000 affecting employes in the District.

Earl H. Barber Coming To Take District Post

Word was received yesterday that Earl H. Barber, chief engineer of the light and power division of the Massachusetts Public Utilities Department for ten years, had resigned to take over the post of consulting engineer for the District of Columbia.

Mr. Barber, whose appointment was announced some time ago, will make the special survey provided for last summer in an appropriation of $35,000 to determine the advisability of the District operating its own power plant.

Marietta, Ohio, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—As the St. Louis-New York express of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad sped across the Ohio River bridge into Parkersburg, W. Va., today, Engineer Wallace Williams, 65, of Chillicothe, Ohio, died at the throttle.

Denver Conner, of Chillicothe, fireman, saw Williams collapse as the train approached the Parkersburg yards and holding the dying engineer with one arm, brought the train to a stop with the other.

Identification of Torso Is Disproved by Police

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A comparison of finger prints left the identity of the murder victim whose dismembered torso and legs were found on opposite sides of Manhattan ten days ago as much of a mystery as ever tonight, after a woman had partly identified the body as that of her husband.

The woman, Mrs. James Collins, of Jamaica, Queens, said her husband disappeared the day before the torso and legs were found, and identified the body as his from a scar on the victim's leg. Detectives compared finger prints of her husband with finger prints taken from the body, but they did not tally.

Democratic Critic Says Program Should Have Been Begun Earlier.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national executive committee, said in a statement last night that everybody must applaud President Hoover's recommendations to Congress, for measures "to assist the unemployed and to extend what assistance may be given to distressed industry, whether commercial or agricultural."

"It may be that these measures should not be scrutinized too critically, for time is the essential element in the effectiveness of what is to be done," Shouse said. "It is perhaps less important that something should be wasted than that further delay should intervene to halt the relief so desperately needed.

"Even so, it is inevitable that the question should be asked why these presidential suggestions were not produced for Congress many months ago. * * * Had it not been for his procrastination, the expedients he now suggests would have been inaugurated six months ago."

Syracuse Graduates Honor Dean of School

Dr. Leebrick discussed recent expansions at the university and outlined contemplated improvements. Officers of the local alumnae association are: Miss Carlotta Veltenheimer, president; Miss Gertrude Bergman, vice president; Mrs. W. A. Erskine, secretary, and Mrs. A. T. Davenport, treasurer. The alumni officers are: W. A. Erskine, president; H. G. Barott, secretary, and Henry W. Austin, treasurer.

HOWELL RAID BILL SHELVED BY LEADERS

the measure as it is to avoid opening the floodgates of oratory on prohibition. Of course, if something else brings up the question of prohibition enforcement and the floodgates are opened anyway, then the Howell bill will be just another chip on the flood, and so far as the steering committee program is concerned it can come up for whatever action it may warrant.

$2,480,000 Increase Asked for Dry Work

(Associated Press.)

That prohibition violators might be hunted more effectively than ever, President Hoover called upon Congress yesterday for an additional $2,480,000 to be used next year.

The total appropriation recommended in his budget message was $11,530,000, as compared with $9,050,000 set aside for enforcing the dry laws in the year ending June 30.

The increase sought reflects Prohibition Director Woodcock's request that 500 agents be added, which would lengthen his force 25 per cent. If obtained, $1,614,000 would go for new personnel and $356,000 for travel expenses. The remainder is wanted for miscellaneous items.

G. O. SMITH NAMED POWER BOARD HEAD

GREEN EXPLAINS VIEWS

George Otis Smith, who, as assistant geologist, geologist and director of the United States Geological Survey, has been a resident of Washington for more than 30 years, was selected by President Hoover to head the new Federal Power Commission late yesterday.

The nomination of Mr. Smith was one of more than 100 which the President sent to the Senate in the course of the day.

Heading the first list sent down was the name of William N. Doak, of Virginia, the President's choice for Secretary of Labor to succeed James J. Davis, now United States senator from Pennsylvania.

No Fight Planned.

Whatever fears there might have been that a serious fight would be made on Doak's nomination—and there was none at the White House—disappeared last night when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced that his organization would not oppose Doak's confirmation.

Green called at the White House last week and tried to head off the appointment of Doak. He said he felt that the office belonged to the American Federation of Labor. Doak is a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which is not affiliated with Green's organization.

"After the President made his decision," Green said last night, "we accepted it as final. He is entitled to exercise his judgment in the selection of his Cabinet. We never entertained the slightest thought of opposing the confirmation of his appointment."

Contests Forecast.

That some of the nominations sent to the Capitol yesterday are going to be fought, however, is a certainty. This was evident from the remarks made by certain Democrats and independent Republicans.

These members are prepared to investigate particularly the men named yesterday to serve on the new Tariff and Power Commissions.

The nomination of Eugene Meyer, jr., of New York, to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board, also is likely to be opposed, but the indications are that in the end it will be confirmed by a comfortable margin.

Henry P Fletcher, chairman of the Tariff Commission, is from Pennsylvania, the same State that produced Senator Joe Grundy, arch-high tariff advocate, and it is for that reason the Progressives are suspicious of him.

Board Is at Work.

The others nominated for places on the Tariff Commission yesterday were Edgar B. Brossard (Republican), of Utah, and Alfred P. Dennis (Democrat), of Maryland, both of whom were members of the old commission, and John Lee Coulter (Republican), of North Dakota; Thomas W. Page (Democrat), of Virginia, and Lincoln Dixon (Democrat), of Indiana.

All six members were appointed before Congress convened, and have been at work under recess appointments for several weeks.

Of the five men nominated yesterday for the Power Commission, three had been given recess appointments—Ralph B. Williamson, of Washington; Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, and Claude L. Draper, of Wyoming.

The two new appointees were Mr. Smith, whose voting residence is in Maine, and Frank R. McNinch, of North Carolina.

Committees Get Nominations.

The nominations for the Tariff Commission were referred to the Senate finance committee, and those for the Power Commission to the interstate commerce committee.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, said that he would ask for a "thorough investigation" of the new Tariff Commission members, while Senator Joe Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, said that "due consideration" would be given the nominations for the Power Commission.

Other nominations sent to the Capitol yesterday by President Hoover were as follows:

J. Ruben Clark, jr., of New York, Ambassador to Mexico; Hoffman Philip, of New York, Minister to Norway; Nicholas Roosevelt, of New York, Minister to Hungary; J. Butler Wright, of Wyoming, Minister to Uruguay, and Charles E. Mitchell, of West Virginia, consul general to Liberia.

Several changes in the foreign service were made by the President. Included were appointment of Jay Walker and Felix Cole of Washington as secretaries in the foreign service. Carlton Hurst, of Washington, was named a consul, as were Rufus H. Lane, jr., of Virginia, and George Tait, of Virginia.

Promotions included, from class two to one, were: John Campbell White, Maryland; three to two, Felix Cole, Washington; four to three, W. Roderick Dorsey, Maryland, Ernest L. Ives, Va.; Wilbur Keblinger, Virginia; five to four, Parker W. Buhrman, Virginia; Benjamin Muse, Virginia; Clarence J. Spiker, Washington; six to five, Leonard G. Dawson, Virginia; H. Freeman Matthews, Maryland; seven to six, Herbert S. Bursley, Washington; Leon H. Ellis, Washington; Lynn W. Franklin, Maryland; William W. Heard, Maryland; David C. Berger, Virginia; eight to seven, Ralph A. Bernstein, Washington; unclassified to eight, Carlton Hurst, Washington; Rufus H. Lane, jr., Virginia; George Tait, Virginia, and unclassified, Jay Walker, of Washington.

Charles D. Mahaffie, of Washington, D. C., for two terms on the Interstate Commerce Commission, one expiring at the end of this month, and the other in 1937, and Frank McNanamy, also of this city, for a term expiring in 1937.

Named to Farm Board.

Floyd R. Harrison, of this city, Federal Farm Loan Board.

James Walter Clift, of Michigan, examiner in chief of the Patent Office.

Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, to be chief of staff of the Army.

Californians Back Allen Ban.

San Francisco, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The California joint immigration committee today indorsed proposals of Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, to suspend immigration to America for a two-year period from all countries, including the Philippines.

American Notables Named To Intellectual Council

Many World Figures Chosen by Stimson for Group Which Will Bring Brains of Pan-American Nations Into Closer Contact.

The formation of what inevitably will become known as the American "brain trust," got under way yesterday when Secretary of State Stimson announced that 55 Americans had consented to service on the National Council for Intellectual Cooperation.

This council, together with similar councils in the 20 republics south of the Rio Grande, will constitute the Inter-American Institute of Intellectual Cooperation.

The institute, so the State Department said yesterday, will "mobilize the intelligence and culture of the three Americas."

Lindbergh to Serve.

Of the 55 Americans who have consented to serve on the United States council each is a leader in his or her particular field. Thus, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will represent the science of seronautics; Homer St. Gaudens, of the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, will represent the fine arts; Dr. Walter Damrosch, of New York, music, and so on. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, will head the council.

Of the 55 Americans who accepted a place in the "brain trust" yesterday, 16 are residents of Washington. They are as follows:

Dr. Arthur P. Woods, director of scientific work, Department of Agriculture; Dr. A. V. Kidder, Carnegie Institution of Washington; Dr. H. G. Moulton, director, Institute of Economics; Dr. William John Cooper, Commissioner of Education; Miss Bess Goodykoontz, Assistant Commissioner of Education; Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads and chairman of the Highway Education Board; Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society; Prof. Henry Grattan Doyle, George Washington University; Dr. James Brown Scott, president of the American Institute of International Law and secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon General, the Public Health Service; Laurence Vail Coleman, director of the American Association of Museums; Dr. John C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington; Dr. Charles G. Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Dr. Vernon Kellogg, secretary of the National Research Council; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau, and Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters.

Others to Serve.

Other intellectuals who have consented to serve are Frank R. Watson, American Institute of Architects, Philadelphia; Fiske Kimball, director, Philadelphia Museum; Dr. Edwin Walter Kemmerer, Princeton University; Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia University, New York City; Prof. W. Carson Ryan, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa.; Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching, New York City; Dr. Stephen Duggan, director, Institute of International Education, New York City; Dr. Ellen F. Pendleton, president Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.; Dr. Ada L. Comstock, president Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass.; Calvin W. Rice, secretary American Society of Mechanical Engineers, New York City; Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director American Geographical Society, of New York; Dr. H. Foster Bain, secretary American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, New York City; Dr. C. K. Leith, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.; Dr. William Spence Robertson, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, University of California, Berkeley, Calif.; Prof. A. Coester, Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; Dr. Roscoe Pound, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Carl H. Mott, civic bureau of music and art, Los Angeles, Calif.; Dr. John Dewey, Columbia University, New York City.

Many College Heads.

Dr. William Ernest Hocking, Harvard University; Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, Columbia University; Dr. William B. Monro, Harvard University; Dr. David P. Barrows, University of California; Dr. Lewis M. Y.; Dr. Karl Taylor Compton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.; Dr. Thomas Barbour, Harvard University; Dr. Frank M. Chapman, American Museum of Natural History, New York City; Dr. William Fielding Ogburn, University of Chicago; Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The 21 councils which make up the Inter-American Institute, the State Department said, "will promote such policies as the interchange of students and research workers, the removal of prejudiced statements from geographies and histories, ways and means of making available to all the information resources of the different countries, not overlooking the discovery of the monuments and remains of early American civilization, the establishment of museums for educational and historical exhibitions, and the publication of bulletins for the exchange of such information."

Plans for the creation of the Inter-American Institute were first discussed at the meeting of the sixth international conference of American States, held in Havana two years ago. The council of the institute, which will be made up of representatives from the councils of the 21 republics, will have quarters in the Palace of the American Institute of International Law in Havana.

SENATORS ADVISE HOUSE ON SHOALS

Suggest That Conferees Report Deadlock and Ask for Instructions.

INSIST ON STANDING PAT

(Associated Press.)

Senate conferees flatly refused yesterday to recede from the Norris resolution for Government operation of Muscle Shoals and left to the House the next step in breaking the deadlock which grips this legislation.

They suggested the House conferees report a deadlock and as instructions that would clear the way for a vote on the Norris plan.

This suggestion the representatives of the House took under consideration, to be decided next week when two absentees, Wurzbach (Republican), Texas, and Quin (Democrat), Mississippi, return to the Capitol.

The House, which approved leasing Muscle Shoals to private interests, has never voted on the Norris plan. Its author, Senator Norris, independent Republican, Nebraska, is insistent that such a ballot be taken as part of the short session program.

Chairman Ransley, of the House conference committee, said Wurzbach and Quin were expected Monday. The conferees will determine then whether to accede to the Senate demand.

"We are just as far apart as the poles," Ransley said. "Apparently they will not recede, and despite the fact the House passed the leasing bill by a large majority insist we go back for instructions."

In view of the desire of all concerned to dispose of the problem at the short session, there appeared a growing feeling that the House would vote on the Government operation plan.

Chairman McNary, of the conference committee, said he would call it together again as soon as the House members have reached an agreement, probably Tuesday.

Wheat Market Crisis Past, Expert Asserts

Chicago, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—O. C. Stine, of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics, today said the crisis in the wheat market was past and the world's consumption of that cereal probably would improve soon. He addressed the Natonal Association of Marketing Officials on the world wheat situation.

Stine said he did not think "the dumping of Rusian wheat on the market was done with any ntention ot purposely hurt the United States market. Russia had an unusually hevay wheat crop this year. There were 84,000,000 acres of wheat in Russia this year, which is more than they ever produced before, he said.

President of Colombia Honored by Testimonial

Bogota, Colombia, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A testimonial dedicated to President Enrique Olaya Herrera, by President Hoover, Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, and former diplomatic colleagues of Senor Olaya Herrera in Wishington, will be presented shortly by Mariano Laos, Peruvian journalist, who arrived here by air today.

The testimonial will commemorate President Olaya's visit to the United States as president-elect of Colombia.

BILL BEFORE HOUSE FOR 40-HOUR WEEK

Would Cover All Employes of Both Government and District.

HELD MODEL FOR STATES

A 40-hour week for Federal employes is provided in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative James M. Fitzpatrick (Democrat), New York.

"While public improvements will bring temporary relief in certain sections of our country," Mr. Fitzpatrick said, "in my opinion fewer hours per day and shorter weeks is the only solution of unemployment in the United States to compete with the great inventions that have brought on mass production, which is greatly responsible for the present unemployment situation.

"I realize that the Federal Government has no power to regulate the hours of labor throughout the country, as that is up to the States. However, it can regulate the hours of Federal employes.

"For that reason I am introducing my bill; and if the administration intends to improve unemployment conditions, this will be a step in that direction."

The measure provides that the 40-hour week shall be effective 60 days after enactment and that the reduced work week shall be effective throughout the year and apply to "all laborers and civil employes of the Federal Government and the District of Columbia, whether on an hourly, per diem, per annum, piecework, or other basis," without reduction of salary.

Existing annual and sick leave rights are specifically reserved. A clause provides that where employes work on holidays they shall be given other time off.

Aim to Run Fair For Charity Only

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 3.—The city council received a proposal last night from business and professional men through N. B. Munson, of the Petersburg bar, to the effect that the Petersburg Fair Association reorganize, retaining the present directors and electing new ones, and that hereafter all annual agricultural fairs be operated solely for the many charitable institutions in the city.

All profits from the fairs are to be turned over to any institution the council designates, but the plan favors turning over the larger part of the profits to the Family Service League.

The city owns 51 per cent of the stock of the association and therefore controls its policies. Under this proposal there would be only one charity drive annually, instead of several, as now. The council took the matter under advisement.

NYE RESUMES PROBE ON DAVIS EXPENSES

TO QUESTION VAUCLAIN

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds committee, over whose protest James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, was given his seat in the Senate, yesterday picked up the trail of Davis-Brown primary expenditures, which it dropped last May, and reported it had found a total thus far of $641,274.

This, Chairman Nye said, was $272,312 more than the amount reported to his committee by campaign managers for Davis and Francis Shunk Brown, the unsuccessful Pennsylvania gubernatorial primary candidate. The additions were accounted for by investigators Nye sent to Harrisburg last Sunday.

In the light of the newly discovered campaign cost, Nye would not say what his next step would be. He has pointed out, however, that his committee can not initiate steps to eject Davis, but can only report its findings to the Senate for its action.

Reads Old Resolution.

While the committee was hearing two witnesses yesterday Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, read on the Senate floor, without comment, a resolution adopted by the Senate eight years ago, in seating Senator Newberry, of Michigan. The resolution expressed "severe condemnation" for the expenditure of $195,000 in that campaign.

Before making its final report to the Senate, the Nye committee wishes to examine Samuel Vauclain, treasurer of one of the four Davis-Brown campaign committees.

The committee will hear fourteen witnesses in New York tomorrow, on the New Jersey primary and election expenses, and may decide to hear Vauclain there at the same time.

Some Reports Missing.

Nye said $19,500 of the additional $272,000 found by his committee represented funds reported received by county campaign treasurers from the Vauclain organization, but for which no accounting was made by Vauclain.

Campaign treasurers in more than 25 counties made no report at all, he added, although they were required to report all expenditures over $50.

DEFICIT IS FORESEEN IN BUDGET MESSAGE

defense, and $22,000,000 for interest on the national debt.

Total receipts for 1932, exclusive of postal revenues, were estimated at $4,085,119,000 and total expenditures at $4,054,519,000. Receipts for the current year were set at $3,834,865,000 and expenditures at $4,014,941,000.

The President likewise opposed attempts to meet the impending deficit by reduction of the statutory redemption of the public debt, now amounting to $440,000,000 per annum. He continued:

"When we recollect that our budget has yielded large surpluses for the last 11 years, which have enabled us to retire the public debt, in addition to retirements required by law, to the extent of nearly $3,500,000,000, we can confidently look forward to the restoration of such surpluses with the general recovery of the economic situation, and thus the absorption of any temporary borrowing that may be necessary.

Money for Unemployed.

"It will probably be necessary for Congress to appropriate additional money for expenditure within the present fiscal year in order to increase employment and to provide for the drought situation. * * * While this will operate to increase the amount of the deficit as above estimated, I believe such increase can be accommodated by the methods indicated. On the other hand, no appropriations should be made for such purposes which look beyond such action as will ameliorate the immediate situation during the next six months."

"This is not a time when we can afford to embark upon any new or enlarged ventures of government," he emphasized. "It will tax our every resource to expend in directions providing employment during the next few months upon already authorized projects.

"I realize that, naturally, there will be before the Congress this session many legislative matters involving additions to our estimated expenditures for 1932, and the plea of unemployment will be advanced as reasons for many new ventures, but no reasonable view of the outlook warrants such pleas as apply to expenditures in the 1932 budget. I have full faith that in acting upon these matters the Congress will give due consideration to our financial outlook. I am satisfied that in the absence of further legislation imposing any considerable burden upon our 1932 finances we can close that year with a balanced budget.

Public Building Program.

Referring to the $520,000,000 public building program, the President said 535 projects have been authorized at limits of cost aggregating $378,560,000. Total actual expenditures on the program to last October amounted to $77,027,625, and another $56,000,000 is scheduled to be spent during the next eight months.

The budget called for a total of $60,000,000 for this item during 1932. In addition to this, $16,500,000 will be left from the current year, making a total of $76,500,000 available next year.

The estimates for national defense called for a total of $689,084,000, with a decrease of $751,000 for the War Department and of $32,946,000 for the Navy.

Holiday of Parliaments Urged by Owen Young

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Owen D. Young, international banker, whose flare for finance helped put Europe back on its feet after the war, declared at a dinner in his honor tonight for a "holiday of parliaments."

That he said, would be a better solution of the conflict everywhere in the world between politics and economics, than the suggested holiday of armaments.

5-YEAR EXCLUSION OF ALIENS SOUGHT

House Group Will Consider Measure Advanced to Aid Jobless.

SPONSORED BY JOHNSON

(Associated Press.)

A five-year ban on immigration will be considered today by the House immigration committee as an unemployment relief measure.

Moving to carry out President Hoover's suggestion for further limitation on immigrants who might displace American workers or become public charges, Chairman Johnson called the committee together after introducing a resolution to effect the embargo.

Other measures also may come up today. President Hoover's message to Congress stressed the need for exhaustive reexamination of the entire subject and Mr. Johnson has said discussion of any proposal will open the general subject.

The Johnson resolution is similar to that sponsored by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, except that the senator would lay the ban for only two years.

Canada and Latin-American countries would be affected by the Johnson resolution, and it would restrict Philippine immigration to Hawaii, except in cases certified by the Commissioner of Labor.

Hawaii's delegate, Victor S. K. Houston, has been asked to oppose this because it would be detrimental to the sugar and pineapple industries there.

The possibility of suspending immigration for two years was discussed with President Hoover last night by Senator Reed, who said after the conference he had "received the impression such a movement would meet with approval."

The Pennsylvania senator added that his bill and that of Representative Johnson could be harmonized in conference after both measures had been passed.

POLICEMAN KILLED AS STUDENTS RIOT

Cuban University Classmen Protest Against New School Head.

50 YOUTHS ARRESTED

Havana, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—One policeman was killed and another wounded at noon here today as students, protesting against the reopening of the National University by presidential decree this morning, clashed with police.

No students were reported wounded, but 50 were arrested after the rioting, among them four girls who had led the parade from the campus to the business district, carrying a Cuban flag.

The rioting began at the university when classes were to have been resumed after a shutdown of the institution during the November elections and the eighteen days of martial law, which ended 48 hours ago.

Resent Appointment.

The students assembled in front of the offices of Dr. Rodriguez Molina, newly appointed dean, in place of Dr. Martinez Prieto, to whom students objected.

Dr. Molina's appointment was believed to have had the approval of the students, but students this morning urged his rejection because he had presided over the university court, which several years ago ruled against students accused of communistic activities. These students were deported.

A black powder bomb was placed under the dean's offices, but failed to explode. Several students then entered the building and wrecked the furnishings. Windows in Dr. Molina's offices were broken and furniture was upset.

Headed by Girls.

The procession that clashed with police was headed by several girls. The police attempted to disperse the marchers and fired several shots in the air. A return fire greeted them, causing the death of the one policeman and the wounding of the other.

The students arrested will get a hearing tomorrow. Indications are that there will be no attempt to resume classes until agreement has been reached.

A student manifesto said the opening today by presidential order was "to create among American bankers an impression of normalcy in the republic so that negotiations for consolidation of Cuba's national indebtedness might proceed."

Hungary Denies Pact Revisions Are Sought

Paris, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The Hungarian Legation tonight issued a communique asserting that the Hungarian government has no interest in any bloc of nations to revise post-war treaties nor any intention of forming such "a revisionist group. The communique was in answer to "various organs of the international press which are continuing to spread reports concerning the creation of a so-called revolutionist bloc."

Basel newspapers carried reports from Budapest yesterday that Premier Bethelen, of Hungary, had announced a formal agreement among Hungary, Italy, Albanit, Turkey and Bulgaria for treaty revision.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT becomes increasingly apparent that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, made a most unfortunate and impolite remark when he was leaving the White House several days ago about the Secretary of Labor post having to go to a federation member.

He was apparently nettled over his conference with the President and in no mood for deliberate or calm thought.

To newspapermen at the White House he said that the federation created the Labor Department, that it was the federation's baby, so to speak.

ABOUT two days later Mr. Hoover appointed William N. Doak, of the Railroad Brotherhoods, and on whom Green had turned thumbs down. Green's statement made it impossible for him to do anything else, the President explained.

It was apparent at the time that Green's ill advised statement had given the President the very out he wanted, had made it possible for him to appoint a man he had been longing to appoint ever since his work in the 1928 campaign.

THAT this is true has now become quite evident. Because it develops that Green had a most excellent case, one that would have swung the public forum with him had he only been able to present it.

It develops that Green's opposition to Doak was not simply that he was associated with the railroad brotherhoods instead of the federation; it was not a case at all of the federation trying to hog all the patronage, as it appeared.

It is simply that the railroad brotherhoods have no relations with the Labor Department whatsoever, and the Labor Department has nothing to do with them.

* * * *

THE railroad brotherhoods have entirely different Government agencies with which to deal, the Interstate Commerce Commission for one and various mediation boards for others. I am advised on good authority that not ten minutes' business concerning the brotherhoods has been transacted by the Labor Department since it has been in existence.

And it was because the brotherhoods had made so much progress in having Government agencies created to protect them that the federation began agitating for a separate Labor Department years ago.

This being the case, it can easily be understood why the federation was insistent upon the Secretary of Labor coming from its ranks. Indeed, one wonders why he should have come from anywhere else.

He would likely not have, had Green not made his slip. Now that he is appointed, he will probably be confirmed because the senators do not want to get caught between a labor cross-fire. However, the brotherhoods should be ashamed of themselves.

DISTRICT TO GET DAVIS AND CAREY

Appointment of New Senators to Local Committee Due Today.

MORROW NOT TO SERVE

Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Robert Davis Carey, of Wyoming, newly elected to the United States Senate, are expected to be named today to the Senate committee which is especially charged with the conduct of the Nation's Capital.

Appointment of the senators to the Senate committee on the District of Columbia is expected to be made at a meeting of the Senate committee on committees which has been called by Senator Charles L. McNary (Republican), of Oregon, chairman, to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

The new members of the Senate District committee will fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Senators Robsion, of Kentucky, and Baird, of New Jersey, both of whom are Republicans.

There had been a suggestion that Senator Dwight L. Morrow (Republican), of New Jersey, elected to succeed Senator Baird, might be appointed to the District committee, and there were many influential persons in the District who wished for his appointment because of the national prominence he has attained in his meteoric political career.

Senator Morrow was sworn in as a senator yesterday and himself put an end to whatever aspirations his District admirers may have had. He did not lay down the law but he did make it clear that he did not wish to serve on the Senate committee devoted to District affairs. That ended that.

Senator Davis is not new to Washington. He has been an outstanding public figure here for years as Secretary of Labor.

Senator Carey was born in Cheyenne, Wyo., on August 12, 1878. He went to school in Pennsylvania and was graduated from Yale University in 1900. He fills the Senate seat made vacant by the retirement of Senator Pat Sullivan, Republican.

FEDERAL BUILDINGS COST $15,000,000

Amount Given in Budget Covers 20 Months for District.

WORK GREATLY SPEEDED

More than $15,000,000 is to be expended in the District on the Federal building program in the 20 months from November 1, 1930, to June 30, 1932, under the program submitted to Congress by President Hoover yesterday in the annual budget.

Expenditures to October 31, this year, amounted to $13,234,030.45 and about $7,600,000 will be spent during the remainder of this fiscal year, the President said.

Expenditures in the 1932 fiscal year are estimated at upward of $7,500,000 additional and, of this, $5,000,000 is provided for in the budget.

Altogether the budget carries $111,871,500 for purchase of sites and construction of buildings in the next fiscal year and responsible executive officials are authorized under the budget to contract for an additional $3,000,000. This total for buildings includes activities of the Army and Navy, the Veterans' Bureau, Department of Justice and other Federal agencies throughout the country.

$2,000,000 to Be Spent Abroad.

An item of $200,000 for new construction at the National Training School for Boys is among prison construction totaling $2,514,000 carried in the budget. The Department of State estimates includes $2,000,000 for continuing construction of houses and offices for United States representatives in foreign countries.

"The progress made by the Treasury Department under the program to house Federal activities in Washington and throughout the country in Government-owned buildings," President Hoover told Congress in the budget message, "has been greatly accelerated during the past year by a considerable enlargement of the program, expedition in acquiring sites, and the removal of restrictions on the employment of outside architectural services.

"The original public building act of May 25, 1926, authorized the expenditure of $15,000,000, in addition to sums already provided, for the completion of 69 projects authorized prior to 1926. It also authorized the expenditure of $50,000,000 for buildings in the District of Columbia and $100,000,000 for the country at large. An act approved February 24, 1928, amended the original act by increasing the authorization for building outside the District of Columbia $100,000,000.

$320,000,000 for Buildings.

"A recent act, approved March 31, 1930, further amended the two prior acts by increasing the District of Columbia program for construction $100,000,000, and the program outside the District, $115,000,000. The purchase of land in the District of Columbia at an aggregate cost of $40,000,000 has also been authorized. The total public buildings program, therefore, under present authorizations, amounts to $320,000,000, to which should be added whatever amounts are derived from the sale of obsolete sites and buildings.

In furtherance of the purposes of this legislation, specific authorizations have been made for 535 projects at limits of costs aggregating $376,560,000. To finance the projects on the basis of providing for maturing obligations, appropriations have been made to the amount of $149,586,000.

"The total expenditures to October 31, 1930, amount of $77,027,825.80, of which $8,481,550.29 is chargeable to authorizations prior to 1926, leaving a balance available for further expenditure of $72,558,379.09. The amount which will be expended during the remaining eight months of the current fiscal year is estimated at $56,000,000.

Expenditure Increases.

"The appropriation balance then remaining, added to the $60,000,000 carried in this budget, will permit expenditures somewhat in excess of $76,500,000 during the fiscal year 1932. The expenditure program for the 20-month period from November 1, 1930, to June 30, 1932, therefore amounts to upward of $132,500,000, and it is fully expected that this program will be carried out.

"In addition to the building program as above outlined, appropriations amounting to $23,660,000 have also been made under authorization of $40,000,000 for the purchase of additional land in the District of Columbia.

"The expenditures to October 31, 1930, amount to $13,234,030.45, and approximately $7,600,000,000 will be spent during the remainder of the current fiscal year. The expenditures during the fiscal year 1932 are estimated at upward of $7,600,000, and for this purpose provision for an additional appropriation of $5,000,000 is carried in this budget."

DISTRICT IS GOUGING NATION, CRITICS SAY

REBUTTAL IS PLANEND

Hearings before the special House committee on fiscal relations between the Federal and District governments got under way yesterday with attacks on alleged propensities of District residents to gouge the taxpayer in the hinterlands of the Nation and on the support given this by Washington newspapers.

Representative Robert Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, was the first witness, and Representative Louis Cramton (Republican), Michigan, was the second. Mr. Cramton had not concluded his statement when Representative Carl Mapes (Republican), Michigan, chairman of the fiscal committee, adjourned the hearings until 9:45 o'clock this morning, when they will be resumed in the House District committee room in the House Office Building. Mr. Cramton will conclude his statement today.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners, is expected to follow. Dr. Reichelderfer will lead the defense of District taxpayers, but from indications at the end of the hearing yesterday the Commissioners fail to see themselves as any St. George setting out against the dragon.

Commissioners Plan Statement.

A "brief general statement" is planned by the Commissioners, who listened to Mr. Simmons and Mr. Cramton yesterday, and whatever fireworks are forecast from District officials apparently are to be fired by William P. Richards, assessor.

It is not planned to put Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, on the stand as a District Government witness, it was said, although, of course any District official will be available for questioning by the committee, the Commissioners said.

Both Mr. Simmons and Mr. Cramton, before the committee yesterday, made it plain that they felt they had been unfairly treated by Washington newspapers and both professed a much greater love for the people of the District than Washington newspapers accredited them with, but both went on to say that there was no question but that the District resident enjoyed a very special benefit from the Federal Treasury and paid lower taxes than were paid by owners of similar property any place else in the Nation.

Potential Taxes Seen Evaded.

Mr. Simmons pointed out how many taxes could be imposed on District residents which were not imposed. He cited opposition to the proposal of the District Commissioners' traffic committee to double the gasoline tax as proof of his contention. He referred to the absence of inheritance and income taxes in the District.

"Washington is the only city in the United States and probably the only one in the world, that takes the position of demanding something from the Federal Government or the Government agencies in their midst," Mr. Simmons said.

Washington also is the only city, Mr. Simmons added, which has made no effort to curtail its expenditures but has counted on getting an increased amount of Federal money.

Both the witnesses were in accord on the principle that Washington residents should be glad to have the Government in Washington. Mr. Simmons said the committee should take cognizance of the fact that property values in Washington were enhanced because this was the seat of government.

School System Held Expensive.

The Nebraskan bluntly told District taxpayers that so far as he was concerned they would have to pay for their own school system. "It is one of the most expensively maintained systems in the United States," he charged. "We are paying here for schools that ought to be above the average. Why should the people of New York or California be called on to pay for Washington's schools?"

Fair play must be done the people of the country as well as the people of the District, Mr. Simmons said, and urged the committee not to lose sight of the burden placed on the outside taxpayer for maintenance of the National Capital.

Mr. Cramton, who followed, outlined the development of the lump-sum appropriation in preference to the 50-50 or 60-40 percentage basis of sharing expenses of the Capital.

"Acres and acres" had been developed in the war-time boom in Washington and at the end of the war there was widespread need for sewers, street paving, lighting and other improvements, Mr. Cramton said. Continuation of the percentage arrangement would have meant delay in appropriating for necessary public improvements and he proposed a lump-sum appropriation of $8,000,000, plus about $800,000 turned into the Treasury out of District revenues under the percentage arrangement, he explained.

Sum Not "Slipped Over."

He resented intimations that the lump-sum arrangement had been "slipped over" without due consideration and pointed out that the House had approved the plan after a month of consideration by a vote of 307 to 16, representing approval by more than 95 per cent of the House membership.

Unlike Mr. Simmons, Mr. Cramton deprecated the question of District tax rates. He said that District tax rates were lower than were in effect elsewhere, but, and he emphasized his point, there was no reason why the lump-sum appropriation should mean an increase in taxation in the District.

Representative Edwin L. Davis (Democrat), of Tennessee, sat with the committee. He was appointed in place of Representative Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, who was appointed to the committee originally by Speaker Nicholas Longworth (Republican), of Ohio. Mr. Crisp asked to be excused from serving.

Love Letter Writing Brother Sued by Man

San Francisco, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—If Trygve Bertelson wants to write love letters to his brother's wife the law can't stop him, Superior Judge Thomas F. Graham ruled today. Bertelson's brother, Krist, had asked for an injunction and 10,000 damages because he found Trygve had written his wife a love letter.

In denying the petition, Judge Graham said:

"This is a unique suit, but the Constitution is clear no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the right of free speech. No matter how much we may sympathize with this man in his attempt to protect and safeguard his home we must deny his applicatoin for an injunction."

RED TREASON TRIAL VERDICT DUE SOON

Death Sentence With Later Commutation to Ten Years Expected.

DEFENDANTS ARE CALM

Moscow, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Eight Russian engineers accused of plotting overthrow of the Soviet government may know before the week end whether they must pay with their lives for their acts of treason.

It was generally admitted that Prosecutor N. B. Krilenko will demand the death penalty in his summation tomorrow night but some doubt existed whether the extreme penalty would be exacted from all the defendants.

There was a strong belief the death sentence would be imposed on all eight, but later would be commuted in the cases of some of the defendants to ten years imprisonment. This is considered a long prison term in Soviet Russia.

Workers Demand Death.

Workers and peasants throughout the nation have almost unanimously demanded death, but in view of the fact that most of the defendants have bared complete details of the plot for foreign intervention and have aided the Government in rounding up hundreds of others as conspirators it is thought probable some degree of leniency may be shown.

None of the defendants seemed apprehensive over his fate today. Prof. Leonid Ramsin, the leader of the conspiracy, placidly smoked cigarettes, smiled occasionally and studied documents relating to the case. The others listened imperturbably to the court proceedings, more like casual spectators than defendants.

The greater part of the day was occupied by a closed session at which activities of two agents attached to a "certain French institution in Moscow" were gone into in greater detail than permitted by the court at the open sessions.

Red Soldiers on Guard.

Red soldiers guarded every entrance to the building and all doors to the courtroom where the four judges are understood to have been furnished by the defendants with the names, dates and places concerning the alleged transmission of Soviet war information to agents "K" and "R" through whom the defendants contend the information was relayed to the French general staff.

The closed session convened shortly after 1 p. m., but adjourned early in the evening until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The closing speech of the prosecutor is expected to begin at 5 p. m. tomorrow and continue all evening. The attorneys representing Vladimir Ochkin and Xenephon Sitnin, probably will speak for their clients Friday. The other defendants refused counsel and threw themselves on the mercy of the court.

BRITAIN WILL PROTEST MOSCOW'S BROADCAST

of Soviet Socialist Republics). The program began with the Communist slogan, "Workers of the World Unite" and the playing of the "Red Flag" and the "Internationale," followed by a long statement of the "crimes" of the eight engineers and professors now on trial for treason in Moscow, including the reading of their "confessions." Then came a long talk about the alleged desire of capitalists to start another war greater than the World War. The announcer next read an "open letter" by Maxim Gorki, famous author, addressed to the workers of Great Britain, also about the Moscow trial. The British workers were urged to demand expulsion of white Russians who are "buying up your masters and ministers with promises to divide with them spoils" to be derived from invasion of Russia and subsequent exploitation of its wealth.

FINANCIAL REFORM IS ISSUE AT BERLIN

Opposition to Fight Plans of Bruening at Critical Session Today.

STOP SPENDING, IS RULE

Berlin, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The Reichstag, meeting today for the first time since last October, listened for an hour while Hermann Dietrich, the finance minister, outlined a program of financial reform which would cut Germany's expenditures by $345,000,000 a year, then adjourned, postponing debate until tomorrow.

He warned his countrymen that they must make up their minds to live like Spartans until Germany is on her feet again.

"I know it will be unpopular to reduce salaries," he said, "but every department is going to feel these reductions and they must extend not only throughout the national government, but to every state government."

Tomorrow's session probably will be a battle royal. The government party is ready to support Chancellor Bruening's program to the last ditch. The National Socialists, and the other opposition blocs are prepared to fight his proposals to the bitter end. The Social Democrats, in the role of innocent bystanders, probably will get a drubbing from both sides.

Repeal of Reforms Sought.

When the general debate begins at noon the points at issue will be both the 1931 budget and the opposition demand for revocation of Bruening's emergency decree enacting a series of harsh financial reforms over a period of three years.

Some of the Communists interrupted Dietrich at several points in his speech, but on the whole it was a quiet session.

The new budget, Dietrich said, has slashed expenses by about $265,190,000, but its measures can be made to stand up only by the Bruening decree, which cuts government salaries and appropriations for the states, places unemployment insurance on a self-supporting basis and taxes cigars and cigarettes.

Stop Spending, Is Decree.

"Even if we should have a greater income than we expect in the next three years," Dietrich said, "we shall have to use any such excess to get ourselves out of debt. Under no circumstances can we spend more than 10,687,000,000 marks (about $2,458,010,000) a year. Our taxes have been pushed up to the very limit. We can't go any farther that way. We've got to stop spending."

Of the total budget of nearly $2,500,000,000, $920,000,000 will go for domestic and foreign war burdens. Dietrich explained in a brief analysis of the expenditure side of the budget. Interest and redemption of the national debt will account for $230,000,000 more. Allocations to the states and communes will total $690,000,000.

ARLINGTON GRANTS GAS COMPANY TIME

Extends Until January 1 Permission to Lay Main in County.

HAD STOPEPD ITS WORK

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone: Clarendon 500. Clarendon, Va.

Rescinding its action in stopping the Rosslyn Gas Co. from laying extensions to its gas mains in the county, the county board of supervisors, at a special meeting yesterday, granted the company until January 1 1931, to complete the work.

Frank A. Woodhead, vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co., of which the Rosslyn company is a subsidiary, said that in addition to about 2000 feet, the company has one other application for service, that of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps Club. With continued good weather the work could be completed by the time granted.

The trouble arose at the last meeting of the board over the condition in which it was said the Rosslyn company left the roads. This led the board to order all work stopped and made about 100 men jobless, the company said.

"It is neither our desire nor intention to do any work in your county that is not satisfactory to you," said Mr. Woodhead.

"We had an unusual summer because of the draught. We have been pressed for service and perhaps some of the ditches, after back-fills, have not looked so good, but I believe Engineer Kinnier will agree with me that neither have some of the backfills after the laying of water mains, been as satisfactory as they might have been with a little rain.

Have Spent $100,000.

"Since October 30, we have spent in laying extension, $100,000, and before the end of the year we will have spent in your territory $200,000."

Discussing the gas rate, Commonwealth Attorney William C. Gloth told the board he is advised by the State Corporation Commission that they have set January 20 as the date for holding a public hearing on the question. Whether the hearing shall be at Richmond or at the Arlington County Courthouse has not been determined. Mr. Gloth was instructed to try to have the hearing in Arlington County.

Calvin Kephart, secretary to the Arlington County Public Utility Commission, who was appointed by the board to make a study of rates of all public utilities said the commission was convinced the county was entitled to a greater reduction than has been offered.

"We did have some conferences with the officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. on the subject, but they did not appear to be in accord with us, and we got nowhere," Kephart said.

G. A. G Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., said: "At the conference Mr. Kephart mentions there were three persons present, the chairman of your commission, J. W. Head, Mr. Kephart and myself. The chairman of the commission was not in accord with Mr. Kephart's views.

"The Public Utility Commission of the District of Columbia sets the rate we shall charge the Rosslyn Gas Co. We set 50 cents, but the commission made it 60 cents.

"We have no fear as to how the Corporation Commission of Virginia will act on this question. This is not the tribunal to try rates.

Bond Issue Comes Up.

The board assured representatives from the town of Falls Church they would be safe in going ahead with their plans for a bond issue to defray the expenses of laying water mains with the town, with a view to getting a water supply from Arlington County.

As explained by the board, the only trouble now was the question of raising a needed $40,000 to enlarge the supply main across the Chain Bridge. This question was settled when Chairman Edward Duncan, Jefferson District, said he could borrow the money.

Charles G. Gage, heading the committee from Falls Church, told the board their plan was to erect a 200,000-gallon tank and a pumping station, and that the tank would be filled every midnight so as not to cause unnecessary drain on the county supply during the day.

Harry A. Fellows, former mayor of the town, said there was much work to be done in preparing for an election on a bond ssue question. Frst, the circulating of a petition signed by the required number of freeholders, holding an election by the resident freeholders only, and then obtaining the circuit court order for an election of all qualified voters.

Mr. Fellows said after the meeting steps will be taken immediately to prepare for an election. The amount of the bond issue would be $115,000.

Harry A. Fellows, of East Falls Church, for many years chairman of the executive committee, was elected president of the Arlington County Civic Federation, at its annual meeting in the Lyon Park Community House. Other officers are: Mrs. Claude S. Semones, Jefferson District, first vice president; Robert N. Anderson, Arlington District, second vice president; Frederick E Mann, Washington District, third vice president; Grover E. Payne, Ballston, treasurer. The members of the executive committee are: Mr. Fellows, Mr. Payne, Mrs. Semones, C. K. Lewis, John C. Gall, Mr. Mann, Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Julian D. Simpson.

Congressional action aimed to place control of rates for interstate sale of gas and other public utility commodities under the jurisdiction of a Federal or other agency was asked in a resolution adopted by the federation.

The legislation and legal action committee was instructed to take any steps necessary to obtain enactment by Congress of such legislation.

Definite locations for about 5 miles of State highway mileage remaining to be allotted to Arlington County are set out in a resolution offered by by Arthur Orr, delegate from Lyon Park.

The resolution recommends to the State highway commission that approximately 1.55 miles be made to afford a connection between the Lee highway and the new Memorial Bridge, beginning at the Lee highway at some point between Spout Run and Villa road, running thence to Wilson boulevard, thence east along Wilson boulevard to Washington avenue, and along Washington avenue through Fort Myer Heights to the bridge.

A second recommendation takes care of approximately 3.25 miles of the proposed allocation, and offers a connection with the bridge. This route is designated in the resolution as follows: Columbia Like, from the Arlington-Fairfax County line, eastward to the vicinity of the southeast corner of the Arlington National Cemetery, thence northerly, in the direction of the Memorial Bridge, to thhe most suitable connection with the Federal highway approach to the bridge.

BALTIMORE POLICE HELP IN YEGG HUNT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Dec. 3.—Baltimore detectives were called on today to aid in the investigation into the robbery of the Annapolis postoffice Monday night, when yeggmen used an acetylene torch and nitroglycerine to wreck the main steel door of the vault and doors of compartments within and made away with cash and stamps estimated at $10,000.

The Baltimore detectives aiding are Lieut. William P. Burns, fingerprint expert; Leo Vogues and James Coleman. They are cooperating with Harry L. Connor, investigator for the Postoffice Department, who has been working on the case.

Mr. Connor has completed a checkup of the loss in funds and stamps.

Thus far the officials have no tangible clew to the identity of the yeggmen, evidently professionals, because of the systematic way in which they went about their work.

The Baltimore detectives are trying to trace the source of the heavy acetylene gas tank and a smaller oxygen tank that were used.

Inspector Connor interviewed Miss Evelyn Vanous, night telephone operator in the Chesapeake & Potomac exchange building, opposite the postoffice. She told of having heard two automobiles drive to the rear of the postoffice. She had paid little attention to the incident. She fixed the time at between 1 and 1:30 Tuesday morning. The authorities also have received reports of other automobiles being heard in the vicinity.

The investigators feel they will soon gain a lead that will result in an early roundup of the cracksmen.

MURDER HEARING WAITS

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 3.—Almost a week after she was killed by the discharge of a double-barrelled shotgun during a desperate fight between members of her family and peace officers at her home in the mountains west of here, the body of Mrs. Caroline J. Orndorff, wife of Blanton Orndorff and mother of eleven children, is to be interred tomorrow in the Gravel Springs Graveyard, it was indicated today.

Mrs. Orndorff was killed late Friday. Her body has been in the morgue here ever since. Her husband and three of their sons, arrested by Frederick County authorities on blanket murder warrants and held in jail, will be allowed to attend the funeral under a sheriff's guard.

Since the tragedy, the younger children have been cared for by neighbors.

Home Untouched.

By order of the authorities, the interior of the mountain home remains as it was left after the encounter between the Orndorffs and the officers who had gone there to get a dog, held by a court order to belong to Chester Hockman.

The entire lower floor bears marks of the battle, which raged for nearly an hour. Windows were knocked out with sticks of wood and chairs. Fragments of milk crocks, used as weapons, were strewn around, as were kitchen utensils and broken chairs and tables.

A hearing for the Orndorffs, father and sons, has been postponed from day to day because of the inability of George Pingley and Hockman to appear, as the result of injuries. They had been deputized to accompany Constable George Bageant to the house, to get possession of Hockman's hunting dog.

Find Little Evidence.

Meanwhile, the authorities continue to gather such evidence as they can but admitted they have made little headway in determining who was in posesession of Hockman's shotgun when Mrs. Orndorff was killed.

Woodrow Orndorff, one of the boys in jail, shot off a toe in a hunting accident a day or two before his mother's death. He suffered so much last night that he was taken to a physician for treatment.

The authorities said today that the date for the hearing would depend upon the ability of the injured to be present. They have been discharged from the hospital, and are now at their homes.

Waterford, Va., Dec. 3.—Funeral services were held today for Oliver Townsend Costello, 58 years of age, farmer, of Loudoun County, who died Monday morning, of acute indigestion. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Rebecca Symons; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Fawley and Miss Iva Costello, of Waterford, and two sons, Thursman and Norman, also of Waterford.

The Order of Fraternal Americans, of which he was a member, conducted the services at the grave, and burial was in Leesburg Union Cemetery.

Larger School Planned At Woodberry Forest

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 3.—The trustees of Woodberry Forest, one of the leading preparatory schools in Virginia and the South, have completed plans for an enlargement of the institution.

This development is to include a building program which will include the construction of a new gymnasium, two new dormitory buildings, a dining hall and infirmary, and an administration building. The school recently dedicated a new athletic field, field house and fountain, valued at $35,000.

Cotton Report Received.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The United States Department of Commerce in a Bureau of Census report received here today shows that 35,117 bales of cotton were ginned in Virginia during the year 1930. In 1929, 26,792 bales were ginned. Southampton County led the Virginia counties with 8,263 bales ginned this year.

COLLECTIVE SALES BEST, GRANGE TOLD

Chief Hope for Relief, Says Denman, Addressing Maryland Body.

SESSION CLOSES TODAY

Organization and collective selling by dealers in individual commodities is the chief hope of advancement for the farmer, C. B. Denman of the Federal Farm Board, told the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the Maryland State Grange yesterday in the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring. He mentioned the milk producers' organization as a sample of what can be accomplished by organization of individual commodities.

Mr. Denman declared that the milk producers are probably in the best shape of any class of dealers because of their intensive organization. He spoke in place of former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, who was unable to be present.

The 300 delegates and members completed their second day of the three-day session yesterday with an initiation and social hour. The sixth degree was conferred on 150 candidates by the State degree team, headed by T. Roy Brooks, State organizer, last night.

Urges Support of Fund.

Dr. T. B. Symons, chairman of the endowment fund committee, appealed for support of the fund by both individuals and granges. Pledges of $400 were made by delegates at the meeting. This fund is used for extension, organization and publicity work.

Mrs. J. Enos Ray, wife of the chairman of the Maryland Democratic State central committee and a director of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, urged that an hour each evening be devoted to a family conference, in which the members of the family could become better acquainted and talk over mutual problems.

Prof. Charles S. Richardson, of the public speaking department at the University of Maryland, urged more attention to literature. He declared that the student does not acquire an education in college, but merely learns how to absorb an education by reading.

Finds Women Different.

In the course of a discussion on "The Grange and the Home," Miss Venia M. Kellar, State home demonstration agent, declared that the woman of today is as different from that of 1915 as the radio is from the telephone, because of the many new interests which have entered her life.

Mrs. H. L. Davis, of Monrovia, president of the Federation of Rural Women's Clubs of Frederick County, told the assembly that the backyard of the farm should be even more beautiful than the front yard, because the farm wife sees it oftener. She pointed out the advantages of beautifying the farm home and its surroundings.

The grange adopted a resolution thanking the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce, County Commissioner Lacy Shaw of the Silver Spring area, the Pomona Grange of Montgomery and Howard Counties and the Prince Georges County Pomona Grange for their cooperation with the State grange in arranging for the meeting.

Entertainment Offered.

The session was enlivened with readings by Mrs. Elizabeth Seidenspinner, of Riverdale, and musical numbers given by the student grange at the University of Maryland. Music for dancing in the evening was furnished by the Laurel Orchestra.

The meeting will close today with election of two members of the executive committee; revision of the constitution, in charge of Dr. H. J. Patterson; the final reports of committees and other business of a technical nature.

One of the most interesting subjects which it is expected will be discussed and acted upon today is the drought relief recommendation of the grange. Definite proposals are expected to be made in the report of the committee.

HYATTSVILLE GAS COMPANY IS SOLD

Plant May Be Scrapped and Fuel Supplied Town by Washington Concern.

TYPHOID CASES CHECKED

The Washington Suburban Gas Co., yesterday was added to the growing list of surrounding gas companies owned or controlled by the nationally powerful utilities investment and holding companies which bought the local gas companies through the organization of a Massachusetts trust company.

Harris, Forbes & Co., which arranged the sale of the Washington Gas Light Co., was a factor in the negotiations which preceded the change in ownership of the Hyattsville company. The completion of the agreement was announced by George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co.

The contract of change in ownership is dated December 1, but it is understood that the new owners will take over the plant this week. Frank A. Woodhead, vice president of Harris, Forbes & Co., made an inspection of the plant yesterday.

It was unofficially learned that the present plant would be scrapped, and it is probable that Washington gas will be furnished to the Hyattsville customers. It is not thought that there will be any change in personnel.

Alleging that her husband deserted her two months after their marriage, Mrs. Minnie Gray yesterday filed suit in Prince Georges County Circuit Court for absolute divorce from Floyd Gray. The couple were married in May, 1922, and the man left her in July of that year, the woman says.

Mrs. Gray gave her address as Fairmont Heights, and said her husband lives in Washington. They have no children. Lansdale G. Sasscer is attorney for the woman.

A petition for absolute divorce was also filed by Hewes W. Gibson, of Dupont Heights, who wants his marriage to Abbie Gibson dissolved. The man, through his attorney, Lansdale G. Sasscer, says that the woman deserted him in 1926, after five years of married life. She is now living in New York City, he says.

The mild epidemic of typhoid fever which attacked the county last summer seems to have been stamped out, according to the monthly report of the health officer, Dr. A. B. Hooton. The report shows that no new cases of typhoid were reported last month.

Twenty-three cases of scarlet fever were noted, however, although eleven of these were in one home. All these cases were in the northern part of the county. Establishment of a quarantine prevented a further spread of the disease.

Toxin-antitoxin has been given in two schools. Tests given children previously inoculated showed that only 10 per cent in one school and 20 per cent in another were susceptible to diphtheria. Plans have also been made for a tuberculosis clinic in Marlboro early this month.

Both deaths and birth were higher in October than they were in the similar month last year. Births numbered 65 this year and 59 in 1929. Deaths during October, 1929, were 52, while 53 children were born in the similar period this year.

About 9½ miles of snow fencing, to prevent the forming of drifts on the main roads, will be erected in the county. This is 4 miles more than was put up last year. More than half of it is already in place.

The fence is being put up along the Marlboro pike, the Crain highway, the Southern Maryland pike, Livingston road, the new Clinton-Piscataway road and the new gravel road from Largo to Marlboro. There will be about 3½ miles of it along the Baltimore boulevard and 2 miles more along the Defense highway. W. F. Lankford, in charge of erecting it in the northern part of the county, says that there is no danger of anything less than a 3-foot fall blocking the Baltimore road.

Two chimney fires and two brush fires yesterday kept the Hyattsville fire department busy. One of the chimney fires spread to the roof and did several hundred dollars damage before it was extinguished. Both the woods fires were in Magruder Park.

Bladensburg has employed a town policeman to be stationed at River road and Defense highway to direct traffic during the hours when school children are on the streets in the vicinity. The completion of the new Bladensburg Junior High School makes this direction necessary. He is on duty from 8 to 9 in the morning, from 12 o'clock noon to 1 o'clock and from 2:30 to 4:30.

West Virginia Cow Wins High Honors

Brings to East Its Only Championship From Chicago Show.

Chicago, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Investment of a Canadian with the purple robes of the wheat realm today brought near to completion the awarding of major honors at the Thirty-first International Live Stock Exposition.

Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alta., showed a sample of hard red spring wheat—grown 1,200 miles north of here in the Peace River Valley—to win the grand championship, repeating his victory of 1926 and giving Canada this distinction for the sixth time. A fellow countryman, George Avery, of Kelso, Saskatchewan, was declared the reserve champion for his sample of durum.

The coronation of Trelle was the last such ceremony in the grain show, the corn and hay championships having already been won by Indiana and the barley title by Montana. The Middle West amassed most of the purple ribbons in the animal judging today. J. H. Nickel & Sons, Arenzville, Ill., showed the grand champion Berkshire boar, and E. B. Moore, of Sheridan, Ind., the grand champion sow. West Virginia brought to the East its only grand championship, through the Hereford cow entered by C. A. Smith, of Chester.

PICKETS RESUME POSTS

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 3.—Sheriff Charles R. Murphy, of Pittsylvania County, said this evening that he would have "to think over" a recommendation made by Col. H. L. Opie, in charge of State militia in the Schoolfield textile strike zone, that the military forces be further reduced. Col. Opie made the suggestion this afternoon to Gov. Pollard, who said he would approve the plan if the sheriff would make a "written indorsement." The present military strength is approximately 700 men. Col. Opie admitted that he had permitted the withdrawal of several troopers in schools or colleges who had expressed a desire to continue their studies.

The soldiers will be paid off tomorrow for the five days they were on active duty before the end of the month. About $7,000 will be disbursed, each trooper drawing $2 per diem while on duty.

Organized picketing by the union forces was resumed this afternoon with six groups of men about the mill environs. In no instance was there over six at one place and each group was on a 4-hour shift. The vigil will be maintained day and night.

Picket Fires Banned.

While Sheriff Murphy has banned picket fires, union leaders were seeking to override him this evening by appealing directly to the State highway department offering guarantees that the State roads would not be damaged.

Lindsey W. Moore, who will head the new constabulary group to take charge at Schoolfield after the troops leave, entered upon his duties today by choosing men, giving preference to World War veterans. This brings the various groups armed with some official power at Schoolfield up to seven. There are the troops, the Danville police, used only for emergencies in Schoolfield, the sheriff's force a special force of deputies, mill guards with police power, the county police force and Moore's force now being created.

Miss Annabell Glenn, identified with the children's department of the American Federation of Labor, came here today to investigate child health in the striking families.

No Disorders Reported.

No disorders were reported today and the strike had settled down again to a stern tug-of-war with union spokesmen insisting that the strike will be continued until "settled right" and with the mill management operating with approximately as many operatives as were employed when the strike began.

In a statement issued by the management committee of Local Union 1685, United Textile Workers of America, tonight an offer is made to have the pickets for the strikers act as guards. The statement calls attention to the fact that five different units of peace officers are operating in the Shcoolfield area.

"The further fact," continued the statement, "that no arrests have been made and there have been no disorders since the military and other peace units have been on the job, causes the committee to suggest, in all good faith, that the county authorities dismiss the soldiery, the extra county police and extra deputy sheriffs and permit the pickets of the Union Textile Workers attend to the job under a guarantee that there will be the same good order and law observance in the strike zone as is now in effect and that at no cost whatever to the county, not even the cost of feeding the pickets."

Richmond, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard said today there was apparently nothing the State could do to mediate the strike of Danville and Pittsylvania County mill workers which is costing the Commonwealth upwards of $3,000 a day.

The governor said every attempt at mediation had failed and that his duty under the law was merely to see that the law is enforced regardless of whence the lawlessness comes.

HARRY BYRD NAMED BY HORTICULTURISTS

Succeeds Brother as Head of Virginia Group at Unusual Election.

HE CRITICIZES TARIFF

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 3.—Former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd was chosen today to succeed his brother, Thomas B. Byrd, as president of the Virginia Horticultural Society, after one of the most unusual elections in the history of the organization.

The vice presidents—Ed Nininger, Roanoke; Dr. Homer Clarke, Massies Mill; L. P. Foster, Waynesboro; Dean H. I. Price, Blacksburg; J. Frank Jones, Washington, and Judge F. S. Tavenner, Woodstock—went into office according to the committee recommendations, but four votes were required from the floor before Gov. Byrd could be persuaded to accept the presidency.

Addressing the 400 members here for the annual meeting, Mr. Byrd sharply criticized the United States Government for enacting the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, and said complicated international tariff relations constituted the greatest problem before the American fruit-growing industry.

"Virginia has nearly 10 per cent of the commercial apple trees of the Nation," Mr. Byrd said. "She is the third apple State in production, and will soon become the second. In some years we are the first State in quantity of apples exported, and always the first in the percentage of our crop exported."

At the afternoon session the former governor's suggestion that Virginia apple growers have a special representative abroad to conduct a campaign to advertise Virginia apples, was referred to the resolutions committee. Such a representative, Mr. Byrd said, could adjust any controversies as between the grower and dealer, inform growers of each market's needs, and do much to popularize Virginia apples abroad.

A BALANCED BUDGET.

The executive budget for 1932, submitted to Congress yesterday by President Hoover, is noteworthy for its lack of controversial items. The executive departments and independent establishments have cut their estimates close to the line of actual necessity, as a result of which the President has been enabled to present a balanced budget which, if approved by Congress, will enable the Government to function efficiently through the coming fiscal year without incurring a deficit. A total of $3,932,842,411 is involved, as compared with appropriations amounting to $3,711,498,488 for the fiscal year 1931. That it has been possible to draft a budget in which expenditures have been kept under expected revenues, considering the unusual drains expected by the Treasury and the prospect of decreasing revenues, lends force to the President's statement made in submitting the budget that "Government finances are in a sound condition."

Ways have been found to include allotments for essential and highly desirable expansion of Government activity. The estimates for the Shipping Board, for example, include an item of $35,000,000 for the construction loan fund. Heretofore construction loans have been advanced from a fund built up of the proceeds of sales of vessels and other property, but with the sale of practically the whole Government fleet this source of revenue has been exhausted. The estimate for the Veterans' Administration is approximately $110,000,000 in excess of the appropriation for the current year, the principal items of increase being for the construction of new hospitals. The estimates for the Department of Agriculture include an item of $51,500,000 for the construction of roads, and the Treasury Department estimates include increases for furthering the public building construction program.

The Navy has been enabled to make large savings because of the reductions made possible by the London treaty, but the President points out that there is a large unexpended balance accruing under the appropriations for ship construction because of the delay in the program pending the result of the negotiations for modification of the Washington treaty. He recommends that "the construction of those vessels now authorized which are permitted by the London treaty should go forward without delay." Probably additional construction will be demanded in Congress.

The estimates of receipts are predicated upon the existing income tax law. The President points out that there is no possibility of retaining the 1 per cent reduction authorized by Congress for incomes earned during 1929, because of the "present outlook for heavy decrease in probable income and the necessity to increase public works as an aid to employment." Nevertheless, the budget contemplates continuing reduction of the public debt at what, to many legislators, appears to be an excessively rapid rate.

President Hoover says: "For the fiscal year 1932 the favorable margin between our estimated receipts and expenditures is small. It will not take much to exhaust the expected surplus. In fact, it is inevitable that some portion, and perhaps a considerable portion, of it will be required to meet the settlement of judgments and claims and the cost of other contingencies or emergencies which can not now be foreseen. This is not a time when we can embark on any new or enlarged ventures of government. I realize that there will be before Congress this session many legislative matters involving additions to our estimated expenditures for 1932, and the plea of unemployment will be advanced as reason for many new ventures, but no reasonable view of the outlook warrants such pleas as apply to expenditures in the 1932 budget." Here is solemn warning to Congress that raids upon the Treasury, in the name of unemployment relief or any other, will be fraught with grave possibilities in view of the thin financial cushion which the Treasury will have to fall back upon in the coming fiscal year.

DEMOCRATIC COOPERATION.

President Hoover's recommendations relating to unemployment relief are too extravagant and too penurious. Never before, outside of wartime, has a President asked for such power, but he shirks his duty and throws all the burden upon Congress. His proposed allotments are too specific, but he does not show where the money is to be spent, or by whom, or when. He favors drought relief, but entirely ignores the farmer. His message as a whole reveals that he has no conception of government or official responsibility. He would turn the Treasury surplus into a deficit, but he fails to rise to the national need of unemployment relief. His message is unintelligible, although perhaps his motives are not entirely criminal. Taken as a whole his attitude is a disappointment, his recommendations futile, and his message a meaningless Republican jargon.

With these exceptions, the spokesmen of the Democratic party in Congress renew their assurances of distinguished consideration and cooperation. They will consider the recommendations, with a view to changing them entirely. They will cooperate to the extent of considering unemployment relief at the same time that it is considered by the President. They will not hesitate to make valuable suggestions, in which the state of the Treasury will be ignored for the sake of improving upon Mr. Hoover's ideas, if, indeed, it should not be necessary to scrap his program in its entirety.

To the extent that the President proposes appropriations, the Democratic leaders will cooperate. To his proposal to limit appropriations within the bounds of sanity, they make mental, moral, parliamentary, legal and fiscal reservations.

Legislation proposed by a Republican President is necessarily subject to amendment by the Democratic party in order to improve its quality. True cooperation, it seems, implies that the cooperators shall substitute their own handiwork for that of the President.

CRISP'S NEW TARIFF.

Where was Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Americus, Ga., when the big chiefs of the Democratic party declared their legislative truce for the salvation of the country? Presumably he was basking in the solitude of Americus, forming benevolent plans of his own for the restoration of the country to prosperity. What else could the public believe when the Georgian breezes into the House on the opening day with an elaborate bill calculated to upset the whole harmony program?

Mr. Crisp has given the state of the Union some profound thought since his constituents decided to send him back to Washington. He perceives that what America needs is what Americus proposes—a happy combination of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act and the Smoot-Hawley act, both of which were fought bitterly by his party in their day. So he proposes to lift the agricultural schedule out of the Smoot-Hawley act and transplant it into the former tariff law which expired last June. The remainder of the Smoot-Hawley act would be discarded, and the lower industrial duties of the Fordney-McCumber bill again would become effective. A novel scheme, indeed!

To this legislative hybrid Representative Crisp would add generous trimmings. First, he would attach the export debenture amendment, which was rejected in all of its various forms last year. Then he would append the Norris antimonopoly clause, and a provision for a consumers' counsel to practice before the Tariff Commission. Mr. Crisp could hardly have done better if he had juggled together all the pet schemes put forth by the insurgents at the last session of Congress and chosen the last half dozen that remained in his hat.

Does Mr. Crisp claim that his measure is in harmony with the cooperative policy of his party? Has he ever seen that sentence in the "harmony" statement of the Democratic chieftains which reads: "Nothing is further from the minds of those who will direct legislation on the Democratic side than a general revision of the tariff?" Do James M. Cox, John W. Davis, Alfred E. Smith, Joe T. Robinson, John M. Garner, John J. Raskob and Jouett Shouse, who signed the statement, repudiate Mr. Crisp's effort to lift the pall of depression? What has become of the melodious harmony notes that were being sung just after election day?

When the famous Democratic pledge of "aid to Hoover" was made, The Post termed it a declaration of war. Even before the congressional debates have begun the elements of belligerency have been exposed. One of the oldest stratagems of war is to deceive the enemy with false pretenses.

DISPOSAL OF PUBLIC LANDS.

The final report of President Hoover's public lands committee is awaited with much interest. The findings of this committee will no doubt be the fulcrum on which will turn the future attitude of the Government toward the public domain. The question is whether or not Uncle Sam should step out of the role of landlord in eleven Western States, where nearly 190,000,000 acres of land are under Government ownership.

Before the committee was appointed Secretary Wilbur suggested that the surface rights to these lands might be yielded to the States. With that encouragement the States immediately demanded title to both the land and its minerals. Officials of such States as Nevada, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho pointed out that they can collect taxes on only a fraction of the total area within their borders, yet they must police the whole of it. In most cases they are willing to take the responsibility of administering these vast areas of submarginal land if the Government is willing to release them. But the administration seems to have had no thought of relinquishing mineral rights.

The remaining public domain is valuable chiefly for its minerals. Much of it is desert. Grazing on the public domain is a source of some revenue, but it is small in comparison with the potential value of mineral deposits. Furthermore, this land has been overgrazed, and is badly in need of rehabilitation. After allowing it to deteriorate, the Government proposes to turn it over to the States for restoration. But the States are not ready to accept the responsibilities of reclaiming and administering the public domain if the Government continues to draw the lion's share of revenue derived from it.

Apparently the committee has hit upon a compromise plan. Its tentative proposal is that the States be given sovereignty over these lands in matters of control, development and utilization of resources, but that the Government retain subsurface rights in known mineral areas. Whether this will appeal to either Congress or the State Legislatures remains to be seen. It seems probable that no immediate action will be taken. The committee's suggestion that surveys be made to determine the Government's needs for forest preserves, parks, national monuments, power sites and fuel supplies indicates the breadth of the question. Congress will be cautious about relinquishing title to these millions of acres that belong to all the people, and the States will certainly be wary about accepting any proposition that may prove to be a liability.

A Brooklyn baker found it impossible to give away 1,000 loaves of bread baked especially for the hungry unemployed. There's the rub in this depression; so many of us have become dependent upon cake.

A SPURIOUS PORTRAIT OF MARY WASHINGTON

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Washington bureau of the New York Herald Tribune sent out a dispatch published in that newspaper last week in which the announcement is made that "the George Washington Bicentenary Commission is advertising in art publications all over England, trying to locate the lost portrait of Washington's mother, the only portrait of her known to have been painted. Washington, just before his death, sent it to England for repairs and it is believed to have been sold for storage and cost of retouching when it remained unclaimed."

This fiction, the creation of an elaborate but bungled attempt to perpetrate a swindle late in the last century, has been authoritatively exposed so often that it is remarkable that the George Washington Bicentenary Commission should not have been informed regarding it.

George Washington did not send a portrait of his mother to England to be retouched "shortly before his death" or at any other time. It is well known that a fictitious letter was published in a pretentious book by one James Walter, "retired major, Fourth Lancashire (British army list)," entitled "Memorials of Washington, Mary, His Mother, and Martha, His Wife," published in 1887 by Charles Scribner & Sons, the whole of which has been proved to be a fabrication of Maj. Walter's devious mind; a part of his scheme fraudulently to sell to the United States Government or to some historical society or patriotic American his collection of so-called original portraits of Americans prominent in the latter part of the eighteenth century, which were proved to have been recent forgeries, pure and simple.

Among the paintings was one described as having been painted by "Middleton" and represented as a portrait of the mother of George Washington.

This collection, after having been hawked about, was offered to the Massachusetts Historical Society, which appointed a committee of some of Boston's most astute lawyers and investigators, notably Francis Parkman, A. B. Ellis, A. C. Goodsell, Edward Bangs, and Charles G. Loring, and also Charles Henry Hart, the leading expert on American portraiture of his time. This committee proved, beyond doubt, that these portraits were comparatively recent and fictitious likenesses of the subjects claimed by Walter, and that Walter had prepared and published his book, containing forged letters, &c., as a part of his scheme to further his swindle. However, it was completely exposed and frustrated by the above-mentioned committee. The space required for citations from the committee's findings, as published in the "Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Volume III, Second Series" is not available; but they are to be found in that volume on the preface page and on pages 136, 179 to 186, 215, 259 and 277.

Briefly stated, it was shown, among other things, that when Walter first brought his so-called portraits to the United States about two years previously, and exhibited them in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, the color of the eyes in the portrait of Washington was brown, and that in the portrait of his mother was blue. Two years later, when Walter again appeared with his forgeries, the investigating committee discovered that the color of the eyes in the portrait of Washington had been changed from brown to blue, and those in the portrait of his mother had been painted brown!

Walter, under the searching examination of the investigating committee, lamely attempted to explain that in the cleaning of the portrait of Washington, the original color of the eyes had been developed, when the old varnish and dirt were removed; but he was unable to make any explanation as to how the blue eyes in the mother's alleged portrait had turned brown.

The letter, purported to have been written by George Washington to one of his London agents, Charles Carter, sending his mother's portrait to them with instructions to have it repaired, &c., is published in Walter's elaborate book on pages 105 to 107; but Walter claimed that the letter had been accidentally destroyed by fire. Under the withering scrutiny of the investigators several solecisms were disclosed in this letter, none of which ever had appeared in any of Washington's known writings, but which frequently were made use of by Walter in the text of the pretentious volume written by and published for him.

One of the two authentic portraits of Washington's mother, representing her shortly before her death in 1789, was painted by Robert Edge Pine, the British artist then resident in America, who painted many portraits of Americans when he was working in Virginia, including portraits of Washington, his wife and members of his immediate family, and of his sister Betty, the wife of Col. Fielding Lewis.

The other portrait, painted by John Wollaston, about 1759, is referred to on page 728, Volume II, of "Dictionary of Painters and Engravers, Biographical and Critical, by Michael Bryan," in the reprinted edition of 1889; also referred to in "History of the Progress of the Arts of Design in the United States," by William Dunlap (born 1766, died 1839) in Volume I, page 103, first edition, and at page 144, Volume I, of the second edition, also referred to in Benezit's "Dictionaire Critique et Documentaire des Peintres, Sculpteurs, Dessinateurs, et Graveurs;" also referred to in Volume V of "Allgemeines Kunstler-Lexicon, Leben und Werke der Beruhmeston der Bildenden Kunstler," by H. A. Muller. This painting by Wollaston was made when the mother of Washington was in middle life, is well authenticated, and now hangs on public exhibition in the National Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, where the members of the George Washington Bicentenary Commission easily can examine it. They also can examine the documentary evidences of authenticity, if desired, by application to the writer, or to others.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

I THOUGHT HIM A CHURL.

I thought him a churl
And I left him alone;
As cold as a pearl,
As hard as a stone.
His frown seemed severe,
His manner seemed grim.
And so year after year
I stayed stranger to him.

He was just an old book
That I kept on my shelf,
But I liked not his look
And I flattered myself
I had friends just as good
Who were smiling and bland
Whom I liked, for I could
All they said understand.

So year after year,
With my pre-conceived whim,
Though he stood very near,
I stayed stranger to him.
Passed him by with a look
But no further I'd go,
Choosing always the book
It was easy to know.

Then I heard some one say:
"When you know him he's fine!"
So that old fellow gray
I read line after line
And I found I was wrong
Ere I'd come to the end.
That all the years long
I'd been slighting a friend.

At Last the Man Who Plants a Tree Can Live to Enjoy It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

THIS is the story of a tree.

Viscount Grey, in his contribution to post-war literature, says that no tree at Fallodon is sacrificed until it is condemned by the family in council after a fair trial.

In America, where men without a sense of beauty sacrifice century-old trees in the name of "development," a stranger might expect to find but few with the Fallodon understanding of values; but there are millions who regret the needless destruction of our heritage and now are making some effort to restore the beauty that was sacrificed.

They are handicapped—most of them—by their little acquaintance with trees. Whether they wish to plant a few saplings in their own front yards or a double row to border a newly opened street, they must consult a nurseryman and accept what he has to sell or make their choice on "hear-say" evidence and trust to luck for their reward in years to come.

A tree that thrives in one region will starve or be killed by frost in another. A tree that grows rapidly will be a soft and brittle thing soon to die, and the stately monarch that outlives generations of men will develop too slowly to benefit the man who plants it.

For generations, private citizens and Government agents searched the world over to find the ideal shade tree. Men of the Department of Agriculture, combing the waste places of the world's far corners for grasses and fruits, looked everywhere for a tree that would endure extremes of heat and cold—that would thrive in moist regions and survive the worst drought—that would become a giant, and yet, in violation of the accepted rule, would afford shade quickly.

Somebody found it in Siberia. It is called the Siberian elm. It has some of the characteristics of the American elm that lines the streets of quaint old villages, but it grows like Jack's beanstalk.

I planted several of them—mere switches the size of a man's finger—three years ago. Now they have the girth of my arm and are 15 feet in height—a phenomenal growth in view of the fact that they have lived through two years of drought that parched field crops and gardens.

Graceful and sturdy, their dense foliage an honest green, their leaves last to fall and among the first to appear in the spring, they have every virtue to be found in a tree and no faults at all.

They are for sale in all parts of the country now and apparently thrive in all parts.

At last the dwellers in barren places can plant trees without feeling that they are martyrs to posterity.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Senator Davis Wins.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

While there never was much doubt as to the ultimate seating of Senator Davis, the fact that 27 senators voted against allowing him to take the oath of office shows the persistency of the pernicious "Nye idea" in the so-called "upper house" of Congress. This idea, in brief, is that the Senate's whims or partisan and sectional prejudices may override the wishes of the people of a sovereign State as expressed at the polls. It operated for nearly three years to keep Pennsylvania a one-senator State, and if Mr. Nye and his fellow Insurgents and their abetters among the Democrats could have had their way the same scheme would now be working to deprive this State of its just representation. The welcome which Senator Davis received from his colleagues is echoed by the people of Pennsylvania who gave him such an overwhelming majority.

Ach, Worry, Worry!

The Republicans are sitting up nights worrying over what to do about prohibition. And the Democrats are sitting up nights worrying over how they can make the Republicans worry harder.

Partisan Sniping.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Beginning its last session, the Seventy-first Congress faces conditions which prevent any confident prediction with respect to the results of its labors. The December sessions of outgoing Congresses usually disappoint the country. This one should prove an exception if its leaders and members are willing to give the public welfare right of way over partisanship, personal grudges and "pet measures." Whether a majority in each house will adopt that course and hold to it until the supply bills and other measures "conducive to the country's welfare" are carried, will have to be seen. Proposals made to that end have been met by counter proposals of various sorts, and discussion of the subject has been marred by partisan "sniping" from sundry individuals in all the party camps.

The Wickersham Report.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

The Wickersham commission has gone on another vacation. Possibly aspiring to go the Supreme Court one better in the matter of periodical rests. But from those members of the crime survey group who can be induced to talk for publication, it has been learned that the commission hopes to have a report ready on prohibition enforcement by January 1. If the report comes in on that date, about two months will be left in which the present Congress may discuss it. What action, if any, is taken will depend, no doubt, on the nature of the recommendations. From all information available, it is improbable that the findings will contain any recommendation for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Nor is it likely that there will be any suggestion for repeal of the Volstead act. It would not be surprising if changes or even outright repeal of the Jones "five-an'-ten" law were proposed.

Three Vexed Questions.

New York World.

All of the controversial questions now confronting Congress the President either proposed to assign to new commissions of investigation or else discussed too briefly to recommend a course of action.

Only a few of these questions are likely to come before Congress during the short session, but there are three which will plainly be debated at some length. These three are the World Court, Muscle Shoals and prohibition.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Is Thanksgiving Over? Not at All, Observes a Philosopher.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Millions of families throughout this Christian land gave thanks last Thursday at home or in church, and for what? When we chanted "Praise be to God from whom all blessings flow" some of us thought of the new car standing so imposingly in front of the house; some smiled approvingly in looking around the cozy bungalow or the palatial mansion; others heaved a sigh of satisfaction in glancing toward the mirror, for there sat the reflection of a prosperous man, or a perfectly groomed woman, or a beautiful girl, or a snappy youth; and all were thankful for the stately bird with its retinue of appetizing dishes which satisfied the yearnings of the hungry and fulfilled the ambitions of the cook. Even the poorest, most forlorn creatures no doubt found something to be thankful for. Yet many self-styled Christians scoffed at this custom of rendering thanks, because of their wrong conception of Thanksgiving Day; because they wished solely for pleasures that could give only a transient content, a counterfeit happiness.

But the wisdom of the sages and the experience of a long life frequently fail to implant the splendid trait of gratitude. To those blessed with the spirit of appreciation the day set aside for thanksgiving means only a public observance of an habitual custom. To the ungrateful Thanksgiving is but an annual holiday consecrated to hilarity, turkey and cranberries.

To the wayfarer who has passed many milestones in the journey of life there appears a different classification of blessings according to the viewpoint of three periods: The earliest, that of childhood and youth, which regard the longed-for object alone worthy of thanks; the second, that of maturity, still longing but also thankful for things possessed; and the last period, that of the "sere and yellow leaf," which teaches us to be thankful not only for what we have but for much which we have not.

So, Thanksgiving is not over.

NOMA THOMPSON.

Turn the Rascals Out and Put in Men Who Forget Politics!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by the papers that they are just beginning to find out about the rackets in New York and elsewhere. It won't be long before they tumble to the largest and most crooked one in existence—the "prohibition racket," run and managed by the Republican machine. The Wickersham committee is another fair racket which will probably stay together until the next election for the purpose of seeing which way the wind is blowing. The Republicans have simply got to get all they can now as they are about all through.

Look at the handicaps this country is laboring under. No wonder there is a business depression. Racketeers and gangsters, prohibition, crooked politicians, the Republican machine and the tariff, which gives all the countries a kick in the back and reacts on our own business, and our leaders are so weak headed they can't see it. The people in this country are simply disgusted and are hanging on to their money. They will not spend their hard-earned cash under these circumstances. Get rid of these traitors of America! Put some men in power that can forget about votes and do something intelligent and the people will do the rest.

JOS. R. BREWER.

Middle-of-the-Road Candidate Will Win Next Presidency, Predicts an Observer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: My advisory opinion is that what the party platforms have to say in 1932 about prohibition will not be of first importance in that year's election. The voters are already pretty well fed up on wet and dry pros and cons, and the motley array of amendments and modifications which the wets in Congress have begun to dish out will be just about enough to fix the business of the electorate insofar as the pleasures of the political banquet table are concerned.

When I say voters, I am thinking of our sober-minded citizenry and not of bone drys and dish-rag wets. Stuffed into a state of indigestion, the former class are in proper shape to consider men and not partisan flubdubs.

In other words, by the time election day rolls around these aforesaid sober-minded citizens, overfed on bunk, will be ripe to follow sober-minded leaders. I have no idea as to the who's who of the situation, but the white plume of a paladin not afraid of his sober second thought looks to me like a mighty good gonfalon to follow in the impending strife.

Peaceful Assembly of Morons Set Upon by Police, According to a Protesting Patriot.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one whose forefathers fought and suffered to found this country for the preservation of certain liberties which they considered fundamental I wish to register my shocked protest at the actions of the Capitol police and the tone of Washington newspapers yesterday. I do not defend the so-called Communists in any way. From the accounts they seem to have been irresponsible morons and their leaders cheap demagogues. Yet, from every account, this was a peaceful assembly in exercise of the fundamental constitutional guarantee—a peaceful assembly to protest against wrongs, or imaginary wrongs, and to ask redress. No police regulation can supersede this constitutional guarantee. The "violence" and "rioting," of which the newspapers made a Roman holiday, were all instituted by the police. And we now hear that from now on the Capitol police will bear shotguns to repel peaceful protesters.

ZIMBALIST SHARES SYMPHONY GLORY

ORCHESTRA IS PERFECT

Efrem Zimbalist, renowned violinist, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, conductor, proved a trio of musical attractions last night which made the second performance of the Beethoven Festival even more notable than the opening concert on Tuesday night. The festival is being held at Constitution Hall under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene and is part of the jubilee celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

At the start of this review it is well to state that the performance of Beethoven's masterpieces by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the inspired leadership of Dr. Koussevitzky is a reading of these scores with spirited loftiness, soulful expression and beauty of sound. It is easily seen that the orchestra has spent many hours in perfecting the Beethoven selections presented at the festival, which is making it a red-letter event in the history of Washington music.

The charming overture to "Leonore No. 3" was a fitting beginning of the evening's program. The nobility and poetry of the music were always in evidence and the entire overture was characterized by impeccable phrasing and rhythm.

Efrem Zimbalist, violinis , was in one of his happiest musical moods last night in the Violin Concerto in D Minor in which he played the solo portions. Every art of the violin was at the end of his bow and his skillful fingers. This violin concerto of Beethoven is one of music's classics and Zimbalist's reading of it on his incomparable violin, one of the finest instruments in the world, will not soon be forgotten by those privileged to hear it last night.

Mr. Zimbalist was obliged to return to the stage again to bow his acknowledgements of the tremendous ovations accorded him by a usually cold Washington audience.

The symphony of the evening was Beethoven Symphony No. 5, in C. Minor, with its fateful theme, a composition often called, because of its internal construction, an Iliad of the Soul.

In four movements, naturally, the second movement "The Andante con moto in A. Flat," is a set of lovely variations on a ravishing theme. The Scherzo and trio which followed it in the allegro, or third movement, came as a certain relief from the beauty and nobility of the Andante.

The finale with the magnificence of the full ensemble, the power and variety, the full realization of every exquisite detail and the glorious conclusion evoked great applause from the audience.

There will be no program of the festival tonight but the third one will be given tomorrow night in Constitution Hall with Josef Hofmann, pianist, as the soloist. E. E P.

TARDIEU'S CABINET FACES SENATE TEST

Financial Issue Will Be Pressed by Statesman at Session Today.

PREMIER IS CONFIDENT

Paris, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu's government is expected to face the most momentous crisis of its existence in the Senate tomorrow. An interpellation by Senator Rene Hery is viewed as threatening the life of the government because it will deal with internal politics—always dangerous to French ministries—and will take up the financial question which has bothered the Tardieu cabinet of late, involving the resignation of one minister and two undersecretaries of state.

M. Hery is the senator who brought the government within one vote of defeat on a similar interpellation just before the summer recess of the Senate late last June.

The present offensive against the government in the upper house has been carefully prepared, and it is understood this is why Edouard Daladier, opposition leader, refused to interpellate the premier last week on the occasion when Tardieu won two votes of confidence in a single day.

At that time he remarked that silence was sometimes the best weapon, but political circles believed tonight that he was willing to let the question pass in the Chamber of Deputies in the belief that the government would fall before the Senate tomorrow.

Tardieu himself spent this afternoon in the Senate, attending the meeting of the mixed naval committee and then talking to numerous senators in the lobby.

"The cards are dealt and I have a fairly good hand," he told newspapermen tonight.

Asked whether he thought the government would survive, he replied:

"I believe so earnestly, but I prefer to abstain from making predictions about it."

Only three governments have been overthrown by the Senate in the history of the third republic—the Bourgeois cabinet of 1896, the Briand ministry of 1916 and the Herriot government of 1926.

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Society Listens To Musicale of Mrs. Townsend

Wives of Three Presidents Attend Brilliant Function.

BEDECKED in soft furs and formal gowns, feminine Washington turned out en masse for the first of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's musical mornings at the Mayflower yesterday, when a delightfully varied program was presented by Mme. Claire Clairbert, youthful Belgian soprano, and Mr. Richard Crooks, tenor.

Capital hostesses gathered beforehand in animated groups and lingered after the concert for luncheon parties, ever popular features at this annual series of musical events.

Over a cycle of many years, since the inauguration of Mrs. Townsend's concerts at the Hamilton Hotel, seldom has a First Lady missed the opening musicale, and Mrs. Hoover was present yesterday, as were the wives of two former Presidents, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. William Howard Taft.

Mrs. Hoover, who arrived at the last minute to avoid confusion, was becomingly costumed in brown. She wore a coat of cocoa color tweed, with a hat of darker brown velvet, and brown furs. Accompanied by Miss Mildred Hall, her social secretary, she remained until the close of the concert, when she returned to the White House to preside as luncheon hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Will Hays. Mme. Clairbert presented the First Lady with an armful of roses after she had rendered her final number.

Mrs. Stimson arrived early, in time for a chat before the concert. She was dressed in a coat of eggplant-color trimmed in black caracul fur, and a hat of black velvet. Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the senator from Pennsylvania, was a center of attention, receiving congratulations from all sides. No less interest was displayed in the presence of Mrs. William N. Doak, wife of the designated Secretary of Labor, who will succeed Mrs. Davis in the role of Cabinet hostess.

You might call this "before and after," said Mrs. Davis as she introduced Mrs. Doak, who was her guest at the concert and at luncheon afterward. Mrs. Davis' other guests were Mrs. Owen D. Roberts, wife of Justice Roberts; Mrs. Clyde Kelly, Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher, Mrs. William Randolph Coyle, Mrs. Henry W. Watson, Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips and Mrs. Harry K. Daugherty. Pennsylvania was well represented.

Mrs. Davis looked smart in a beige sport costume, and Mrs. Doak had chosen for the occasion a black ensemble.

Mrs. Edward E. Gann and Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall attended the concert, the former wearing a gown of blue crepe, with which she wore a brown fur scarf and brown hat.

Others noted in the audience were Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, in a dark tailored suit and small hat; Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Lawson-Johnston, Baroness von Below, Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Mrs. Paul Bastedo, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Katherine Prindeville; Mrs. Joseph Noell, the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert, Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, Mrs. Price Whitaker, Mrs. Joseph Byron, of Hagerstown, Md.; the Minister to Uruguay and Mrs. J. Butler Wright, Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Mrs. Arthur Lambert, Mme. Emmanuel Lombard, Mrs. Francis Whitten, who was in a box with the Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy, Capt. Notarbartolo di Villarosa, and Mr. Walter Wilcox; Miss Gertrude Bancroft, who accompanied Mrs. James Carroll Frazer; Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks and Mrs. James Chaney, Mrs. Alexander Legare, Mrs. J. Harry Covington, Mrs. Howard Sutherland and Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews.

Mrs. Townsend has always followed the pleasant custom of entertaining the artists appearing on her program at luncheon after the concert. Yesterday her ranking guests were the Belgian Ambassador and Princess de Ligne, who entertained earlier in the week for Mme. Clairbert, and attended the musicale.

Mrs. Townsend's other guests were Princess Elizabeth and Princess Antoinette de Ligne, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hagner, at whose wedding Mr. Crooks was the soloist; Mrs. Roy C. Megargel, of New York; Miss Natalie Mai Coe, Miss Loranda Prochnik, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Laura Tuckerman, Miss Margretta Wright; also Viscount de Lantsheere, First Secretary of the Belgium Embassy; Mr. Victor Podoski, First Secretary, and Mr. Witold Wankowicz, Commercial Counselor of the Polish Embassy; Mr. Ronald Ian Campbell, Counselor of the British Embassy; Baron Paul Schell of the Hungarian Legation, Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Counselor of the Legation of the Netherlands; Mr. William Phelps Eno, Mr. Walcott Waggaman and Mr. John Sweeney.

The President and Mrs. Hoover will hold their first state reception this evening when they will receive the heads of missions and the members of the Diplomatic Corps.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Will Hays were the guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at luncheon. They were en route to New York from their honeymoon in Hot Springs, Va., and will make their home in New York City.

Belgian Ambassador To Give Reception.

The Ambassador of Belgium and Princess de Ligne will give a reception and supper tonight, after the diplomatic reception at the White House, for the heads of missions.

Princess de Ligne will give a series of teas in December at the embassy, having selected December 8, 9 and 15 for that purpose.

The Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter will give a luncheon today in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. Butler Wright, who are making a brief stay in Washington. Mr. Wright, former Minister to Hungary, has been named Minister to Uruguay and, with Mrs. Wright, will leave soon for South America.

The Minister and Mme. Peter will entertain at dinner on December 17.

Mr. Augustin W. Ferrin, American Consul at Malaga, Spain, who has been on holiday in the United States, has left Paris where he arrived recently and gone to his new post. Mr. Ferrin was transferred from Teheran, Persia, where he spent two years.

The United States Minister to Honduras and Mrs. Julius G. Lay are at the Mayflower. They will go to New York about the middle of the month for a short visit and will return again to Washington for the rest of the month. Mr. and Mrs. Lay flew from Central America to Havana and thence to Miami.

Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was among the guests entertained at luncheon yesterday by Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett following Mrs. Townsend's musical morning at the Mayflower. Mrs. Jahncke has decided to leave Washington about December 20, and, accompanied by her debutante daughter, Miss Adele Townsend Jahncke, will go to their New Orleans home for the winter. They plan to reach the Southern city in time for the Christmas carnival and will be there, of course, for the Mardi Gras in midwinter.

Miss Cora Townsend Jahncke, Secretary and Mrs. Jahncke's other daughter, is a student in New Orleans. Their son, Midshipman Ernest Lee Jahncke, jr., is continuing his studies at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Representative and Mrs. Cordell Hull were the guests in whose honor Mrs. Samuel Beverly Williamson gave a dinner last night at Stoneleigh Court. There were ten guests.

Representative and Mrs. Frederick R. Lehlbach, of New Jersey, are at the Shoreham Hotel where they have taken an apartment.

U. S. Attaches Helping Rome To Play Polo

Collins and Shipp Line Up With Count to Form Club.

Spurred by the efforts of military attaches at the American Embassy in Italy, polo, the game de luxe of the true horseman, has come into its own in Rome, the city of brilliant horsemanship. Maj. James L. Collins, military attache, and Maj. William E. Shipp, assistant military attache, have "lined up" with Count Gallenga, of Rome, in the organization of a polo club. All three also have been taking an active interest this year in fox hunting in the environs of the Eternal City.

The committee, recently named to carry through the organized sport, is headed by Count Giacomo Antonelli, who will supervise the choice of the necessary field and plan the finances. As for Count Gallenga, principal promoter of the newly formed club, irony of fate also has made him president of the Rome Automobile Club, thus making of the distinguished associate of the Americans, sort of dictator over the movements of riding enthusiasts, four footed and four wheeled.

Both Maj. Collins and Maj. Shipp have been attached to the embassy at Rome for several years, having gone there in 1927 from the War Department, although Maj. Shipp preceded Maj. Collins to Rome by almost a year.

Mrs. Edge Guest at Mrs. Thomas' Luncheon.

Mrs. Walter E. Edge, wife of the Ambassador to France, was the guest at luncheon yesterday of Mrs. Sydney Thomas, who also entertained Mrs. Cary T. Grayson and Mrs. G. Howland Chase 3d.

Members of Congress who have recently arrived in Washington and are staying at the Hotel Hamilton for the present session of Congress are Representative E. H. Wason, of New Hampshire; Representative Don B. Colton, of Utah; Representative John H. Kerr, of North Carolina; Representative Charles Wolverton, of New Jersey, who will be joined by Mrs. Wolverton after the holidays; Representative Joseph Gavagan, of New York; Representatives W. J. Driver and Hearlsill Ragon, of Arkansas, and Representatives J. Lincoln Newhall and Elva R. Kendall, of Kentucky.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro were the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sim Lee entertained at dinner last evening in the Pan-American room of the Mayflower.

Representative Louis C. Cramton, of Michigan, will be the honor guest of officials of the National Park Service at dinner tomorrow at the Willard.

Mrs. James P. Curtis entertained at dinner last night in honor of Mrs. Louis Spears, wife of Gen. Spears, British M. P., known to the literary World as Mary Borden, who is visiting Mrs. Frank C. Letts. Mrs. Spears will leave town tomorrow for New York. Mrs. Letts entertained a small company at dinner for her last evening.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, attended the annual dinner meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, of which he is a vice president, last evening in New York.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

HAVING spanned the gap between the United States and Russia by wireless, the R. C. A. will next establish direct communication with China. This about finishes the job inasmuch as they are now in direct touch with every principal country in the world with the exception of Canada, Mexico and a couple of smaller nations in South America.

The last named are reached, indirectly, however. The complaint in the old days when the United States had to depend upon cables was that these passed through foreign countries and our messages were in danger of being tampered with en route.

No such obstacle is encountered in radio, whose messages are now sent to the four corners of the globe direct.

The voice of John McCormack, Irish tenor, will be wafted over the Atlantic Ocean from London next Monday.

Chick Godfrey will devote his broadcast tonight to highlights about the players in the Marine-Coast Guard football game for the unemployed on Saturday in Griffith Stadium (WJSV, 7:30 p. m.).

The "Three Little Sachs" are all more than 6 feet tall.

JAZZ will be surpassed in popularity by classical music within a few years, or the expectations of musical experts in radio broadcasting will be sadly disappointed, Dr. Julius Mattfeld, of Columbia, predicts.

Straws in the wind, ears to the ground and other methods of reading the future have given radio wise men reason to believe that the present preponderance of dance ballads is due to suffer a reversal.

When WOL goes on the air with its sixth anniversary program next Wednesday, it will have as guest announcer Robert V. Howard, who was with the station for three years in the early days. He will return from his duties as director of music in a school near Pittsburgh just for the occasion.

Sir Thomas Lipton gets his consolation cup today with Mayor Jimmy Walker doing the honors (WMAL, 12 noon).

Beginning as a radio sketch, "The Rise of the Goldbergs" has been made into a play now being tried out in dog towns.

SYNCHRONIZATION, or the operation of two or more broadcast transmitters on a single wavelength, will soon become a working fact, if the Federal Radio Commission grants applications filed yesterday by the National Broadcasting Co. and two of its associate stations —WTIC, Hartford, and WBAL, Baltimore.

This first permanent synchronizing plan under normal broadcasting conditions will enable WBAL and WTIC, which have hitherto shared a wavelength, to give full time service in their respective areas.

This is the plan, as outlined in the joint petitions now before the commission:

Instead of remaining silent on alternate days, WBAL and WTIC will synchronize with one of NBC's key stations in New York. WBAL will broadcast on the same wavelength as WJZ, and WTIC will coordinate its transmitter with WEAF. In the meantime, the two stations will retain the wavelength of 1,060 kilocycles now jointly allotted to them. WBAL will use this channel one day, while WTIC synchronizes with and accepts programs from WEAF; and on the following day the positions will be reversed, with WBAL and WJZ in the synchronizing roles.

LINGERIE!

By the way, pronounced "lan-ger-ee," not the last syllable pronounced "a" as we all have a habit of doing in America.

Well, lan-ger-ee, then, is surely the most feminine of all feminine indications of civilization. They say Eve commenced with fig leaves and it wasn't altogether from modesty, either, I'll bet, but from a natural desire for further decorative effects, and then acquired skins of animals and feathers of birds. Didn't her soft little pink skin complain against the harshness of these next to it? Probably not. But the day came when there was no denying the need for other garments between the epidermis and the outer covering—and the result was the first lingerie.

Lingerie has passed through all the stages between practicability, grotesquerie, and fragility, shuttling back and forth between these three, according to the dictates of the times. Hast ever seen grandmother's multi-ruffled, voluminous petticoat, which was starched as stiff as metal? Who wants to?

Today the modern woman wears lingerie of the fineness of cobwebs flung across the face of the dawn—but of the durability of spun steel. And she wears just enough, and no more! Just enough to follow Fashion's dictates and present a smooth, unruffled and unbumpy silhouette to the world, not enough to detract from her svelt smoothness of contour.

Interesting, in lingerie, as an indication of the refinements of the times. Interesting in individual cases and as infallible indication of the refinement of the wearer as well as of her good taste.

Everybody just loves crystals! And everybody, nowadays, has so many crystals, the while they want millions more all the time. So-o-o-o I just figured out some ways to give crystal gifts, and Mamzelle worked and worked, and finally we had some of the most adorable things you can imagine! They are easy to make, too, these lamp shades, candlesticks and other things that we figured out—and while crystal decorations cost hundreds of dollars in shops, ours are fairly inexpensive, because we make them of crystal beads. Better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right away to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to make these things, because they make simply lovely Christmas gifts.

Here's a little secret—keep your lipstick warm in winter if it would go on smoothly and not crumble and cake. A very nice way to keep it thus is to keep it in your tiny muff of your suit or coat, or in a pocket rather than in a bag. And if it just does get cold, please don't try to use it anyway, but smooth it back and forth with you finger after it is on your lips, until it really does blend with your skin.

Bernard et Cie. in a luxurious mood, is what happened today in a coat. It was brown velvet and, oh, so lavishly trimmed in blue fox—and as to its unusual cuffs, interesting details and silhouette, I am just going to let you look at them yourself!

Now just to remind you again—Dare's weekly fashion letter is always in the big Sunday Washington Post.

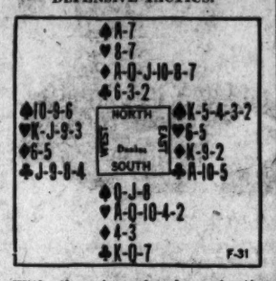
WORK ON BRIDGE

DEFENSIVE TACTICS.



With the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Heart, North two Diamonds, and South two No Trumps; East and West always passing.

At Contract Bridge South would bid one Heart, North three Diamonds to show strength and to ask South to bid again, and South three No Trumps.

In the play at No Trumps, with South the Declarer, West opened by leading the Four of Clubs, properly avoiding his Heart suit because that had been bid by South. The Four of Clubs was won by East who returned the suit. South won and led a Diamond, North finessing the Queen. East refused to take the trick, but the Declarer at once led the Ace of Diamonds from dummy and then another Diamond which drew East's King. East led a third Club which was won by South, who then led the Queen of Spades. North ducked, East won and led a Heart. South took the Heart with the Ace and led a Spade, won with the Ace in dummy and cashed dummy's three remaining Diamonds; so the Declarer won one Spade, one Heart, five Diamonds and two Clubs.

Where did the defense fall down?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

At trick 2 East, seeing the long line of Diamonds in the North hand and the Ace of Spades as an entry, should have led the King of Spades so as to force out the Ace. Then by holding up his King of Diamonds, he could block dummy's long Diamonds. Of course, if Declarer finessed twice, East would win the second round as there would be no more Diamonds left in the South hand and no entry in the North hand. Played in this way, game would have been saved.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf. What causes the blighted condition of the leaves, which are all in the condition of the one I am inclosing? Z. L. F.

The begonia of which you inclosed a leaf is suffering from too much or too little water, too little fresh air and too much or too little sun. This plant does best in a soil of good loam and leafmold. Your plant, being a flowering variety, demands some sunshine. When a begonia rots off at the roots or loses its leaves it is usually a sign that it is getting too much water. Better set the plant in a sunnier place and give it less water. If this treatment does not have the desired effect, cut the plant back to the root.

Please tell me how to care for an angel's trumpet. I have a young oleander and wonder if it will live if placed in a basement over the winter. MRS. E

I can express no opinion regarding the angel's trumpet, as I do not know any plant by that name. The oleander likes a sandy soil. It also likes a great deal of water when making its strongest growth, which is generally in the spring or the early part of the summer. You can hardly give it too much. It has enormous quantities of very fine roots, and these enable it to drink up water from the soil with great rapidity. After the plant begins to bloom it will not be necessary to do much pruning, as branches will start below each cluster of flowers the same as if the end had been nipped off. In the fall let the soil dry out considerably and in November put the plant into the cellar to remain until spring.

I have several clumps of iris which failed to bloom this season. Please tell me why two azaelea plants died when I placed two tablets of plant nourishment under the center of the root of each plant. My honeysuckle also became attacked by blight, all leaves fell off and the plant for the first time in years failed to bloom. Please state cause. New plants of phlox on the east side of my yard all died, while older plants on the western side of garden flourished. All dahlias planted failed to open buds and attained no height. Please answer my questions this week. My yard is on the north side of the street, the soil is well fertilized, but nothing grows well. J. C. K.

I believe the location of your ground has much to do with your failure to have fine flowers. All the plants you have mentioned require plenty of sunshine. Again, your soil may be too rich and perhaps a bit sour, due to lack of sunshine. Better at this time give it a good liming. I would also suggest that you spray all your plants with Bordeaux mixture at this time, and again in the spring before growth starts. I am sorry I could not answer your letter at once, but all letters have to await their turn.

Please tell me when to transplant hollyhocks. MRS. A. F. D.

As the seeds ripen in August, they should be sown in light soil and the seedlings grown in cold frames during the winter. The ground should be well prepared and the plants transplanted from their winter quarters as early in the spring as the ground can be worked.

Please tell me when the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf and flower can be transplanted. MRS. J. G. S.

The cockscomb, being an annual, is usually grown from seed sown in the open ground in early May. The seedlings can be transplanted at any time when they have attained such a height that they can be easily handled.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

KEEP UP WAR ON FLY.

JUST as we show signs of losing interest in the typhoid fly—being but little typhoid to carry—we begin acquiring an interest in the anemia fly, and they are one and the same. We have merely discovered a new talent for our old enemy, the house fly.

Dr. E. M. Smith, of Florida, supplies proof that the house fly sometimes causes people to have anemia. Just how often the anemia develops and just how severe it is remains to be determined. This is the method of operation. Nearly every one manages to eat a certain number of fly eggs during the season. They are found especially on fruits and vegetables, but they may be discovered, if searched for, wherever flies have been.

The fly ranks with the crow bird and the duck in carelessness in dropping eggs around. Whenever foods are eaten raw hatchable fly eggs are liable to be swallowed. If they get through the stomach they are liable to hatch in the digestive tract. Some of those that hatch adapt themselves to the conditions of living in some stretch of the digestive tract and continue there for a time. There is no tendency for the larvae to change to pupa, and this prolongs the period of life in the digestive tract.

The larva has the power of drawing blood from the walls of the tract. The continued abstraction of blood causes a secondary anemia. As a rule a single dose of oil of chenopodium, or worm medicine, followed by a saline, will get rid of the offenders. Rarely is a second treatment required. However, so long as there is a combination of flies, raw food and indifferent people there is liable to be reinfestation.

Chenopodium is the common worm seed which grows widely in America, and which has been in use always as a worm medicine. It is the best worm medicine against round worms. While ordinarily safe—as safe as any worm medicine—it is not foolproof. No worm medicine is.

The time has not come to stop warring on flies.

WHAT VITAMIN G IS.

E. K. writes: I would appreciate your giving a short talk on vitamin G. What foods are known to contain this vitamin?

REPLY.

That partial vitamin B complex which prevents and cures pellagra is sometimes called G. Goldberger called it P-p and most people call it the pellagra part of B complex. Among the foods rich in this protective substance are yeast, wheat germ, lean meat, eggs, canned salmon, peas, beans and milk products. In milk the vitamin is found in the skim rather than in the fat. The staple vegetables contain some of it.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. The hours for discretion and care are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight.

Painful experiences are predicted on this date through the treachery and gossip of so-called friends. It will be proven that adversity makes strange bed fellows, and you will find some unexpected allies. Tie a knot in your purse strings!

The children born on this December 4 will have obstinate, perverse natures. Their wills should not be bent, although they should be taught the differnece between blind stubbornness and decision. They will make strong characters, intelligent and successful adults.

Your wits may sometimes fail to bring results, but your smile almost never lets you down. A smile may bribe, but it never corrupts. You have ingratiating manners and enticing ways, and the world is usually glad to give you a lift if it can. Your hands, however, are extended with gifts as well as to give as receive, and you aim to do unto others as you are done by. You have an optimistic outlook, a kindly, tolerant heart and a sunny disposition. You are blessed with both hope and patience, the two sovereign remedies for all, and the softest cushions to lean on in adversity.

You are able to think for yourself, and you prefer your own to second-hand thoughts. You are not a copyist in your work and you can always do your best without supervision. You are a little deaf to suggestions from others and a little too resentful of criticisms, and a little too sure that your plan is the best of the lot. Experience is the one teacher for whom you have sufficient respect, and in whom you have sufficient confidence to obey.

The last half of your life will be better than the first. "Age is opportunity as well as youth, for at evening the sky is filled with stars invisible by day." You will often be called upon to sacrifice your own interests for the sake of duty. You seldom, however, whine about your disappointments and take them in good grace.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Afraid to Grow Up.

When children have reached that stage of development in which their hands and feet seem to grow faster than the rest of their bodies, when their bodies begin to assume the new curves and shapes which are signs of approaching maturity, there often appears a curious fear—the fear of growing up.

The specific causes of this fear where it exists must vary with each child. In all likelihood there are a number of factors.

There is the unfamiliarity of the swiftly growing body, the humiliation of awkwardness due to the fact that motor coordination has not yet caught up with growth, and perhaps most potent of all, the fear of becoming an adult with all its attendant responsibilities.

The fear of growing up is not a wholesome thing although many parents unconsciously foster it because they enjoy keeping their children dependent upon them. It brings the child with a negative, fearful attitude toward numbers of experiences which he ought rightly welcome.

How can we prevent the development of this wish to remain a child, this fear of maturity? We can minimize feelings of awkwardness and strangeness by dressing him as becomingly and comfortably as possible.

We can tactfully refrain from making fun of his clumsiness or in any way causing him to become more self-conscious than he already is. We can foster an attitude of pride instead of shame in his physical development. Throughout the years of later childhood we can try to cultivate an attitude of eager anticipation of reaching the adult state.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

JEAN MELBA, a small-town girl with big-city ideas, from Kelsey, Conn., She craves adventure and, a little girl at heart, wants Santa Claus to visit her this Christmas. Her small-town Romeo.

PHILLIP BALDWIN, hears the wish and promises to appear on Christmas with a marriage license. Spurning the line of least resistance by marrying him immediately, Jean decides to tackle New York and find a job there. Jean plans to live with

MOLLIE WILDER, a sophisticated friend, but upon arriving in the city learns that Mollie has married and left town. The situation is saved by

SANDY CLAUSE, a handsome, polished and enigmatical young man who not only protects her from a stranger's advances, but since she has lost her traveling bag, arranges for her to spend the night at the apartment of MARCIA WHITE, whose quasi-hospitality does not blind Jean to the fact that Marcia's apartment is no haven of safety. Sandy leaves, but Jean's fears are indorsed by the sudden appearance of two sinister men.

SLIM DIGGERS and

FARGESON, the latter of whom is seen to violently embrace Marcia. Jean flees the apartment and, while leaving, observes Sandy returning. The next day he gets her a job with the I. P. F. Jean learns that Fargeson was murdered the night before in Marcia's apartment, and Sandy tells her he did not return, although she is sure she saw him. The I. P. F. is the Institute of Practical Philanthropy, which Sandy manages. It aims to fulfill the wish of an eccentric but benevolent millionaire to encourage motherhood ideals among little girls by giving them Christmas dolls, to be known as miniature babies. Jean learns that Mollie's marriage did not last long; her husband deserted her, so the two girls live together. In the meantime Sandy goes to Boston on business; Lionel Gilman, his assistant, makes love to Jean, and during the course of her new work she discovers Hillie

ELLEN, the daughter of Fargeson, the man who was murdered.

One night when Mollie is out late, and Jean is trying to sleep, she feels something soft and warm brushing against her cheek.

It turns out to be some one seeking Molly, some one who immediately leaves. Jean received a letter from Sandy admitting that she had seen him the night of the murder returning to the apartment house but that he did not go back to Marcia's apartment. Jean finds Lionel embracing Miss Trelling, Sandy's secretary.

Lionel soon asks Jean to play the part of his wife for the benefit of his parents, who have just arrived and do not know that his wife has left him. Returning home, she finds Phil waiting for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVI.

Before she could free herself from his embrace, Jean stood off and gazed at Phillip appraisingly.

"You've changed, Phil," she told him, laughing happily, "or is it your new suit? But, I declare, you look broader through the shoulders."

"That's because you're used to all these little shallow-chested New York boys," he replied, a cumbersome attempt at levity. "You haven't forgotten your promise, have you? About Christmas morning?"

"You'd be swell-headed if you knew how constantly I've thought of it. Only it's seemed sometimes that Christmas was a long time off, Phil."

He shifted his weight from one foot to the other, uncomfortably. "We don't have to walk," he informed her, grinning. "Tomorrow morning would do just as well, as far as I'm concerned."

"Oh, but you don't know what I'm doing. Did you ever hear of a miniature baby? * * * But, of course, you haven't. Anyway, I'm actually in charge of a tremendously big program with oodles to spend on making little girls of New York happy on Christmas. * * * I'll tell you all about it when we've run out of other topics. * * * How's Kelsey?"

"Same old place," he told her. "Kelsey never changes."

They gazed at each other for a time in silence. Presently Jean said: "Mollie Wilder and I have just one room up here, Phil. I'll be glad to have you come up if"—

"But we'll have to go some place to talk."

"How about a show? Any matinees?"

"What is today? Thursday? No, but we can go to a talkie. What difference does it make?"

"Not a bit to me."

She turned toward the door. "I'll only be a minute. Don't run away."

He put a hand on her arm quickly and held her. "Tell me something * * * Do you * * * love me?"

Standing on the step, she was as tall as he. "At this very moment," she said softly, putting her face dangerously close to his, "I do, Phil. * * * But you'd have to know a lot about my very recent history to understand that. * * * And * * * it may not last."

In the doorway she looked back and blew him a kiss, and instantly disappeared into the dark hall.

Before 10 o'clock that night Phillip had brought her back to her door once more, noticeably refreshed by this contact with the old life. It had been a delightful afternoon and evening, a tonic to her confused brain and jaded nerves. But when, with a last "Don't forget * * * Christmas morning!" * * * he had gone, Jean went to her room and to bed knowing that however much she cared for Phillip, her brief experience in New York had put something between them.

December 4.

Seventeen more working days to Christmas * * * and I begin to wonder. * * * Every day I think that if life becomes any more involved, I will simply have to give up. * * * And within 24 hours, the complications have doubled * * * I certainly wished on the right star the night Phil and I drove home from the football game. * * * But when I wished for adventure, I wasn't asking for carload lots of it delivered all at once. * * * After an almost unbelievable session with Lionel in a Chinese restaurant yesterday afternoon, I came home to find Phil waiting outside the house. * * * We went to a talkie in the afternoon, had dinner on Seventh avenue, and took in "Black Boy" at the Granby last night. * * * The same old Phil, attentive and a darling, but * * * something is happening to me. * * * He didn't kiss me the whole time he was here and somehow I didn't mind. * * * Could it be that New York is turning my head? * * * At least half a dozen times he told me that he would be waiting Christmas morning with the marriage license * * * and if he is? * * * But what will I do about Lionel? He is in a dreadful predicament and wants me to pose as his wife while his folks are in New York. * * * He told me yesterday that he had found his wife but that she refuses to live with him, even for the month that his parents are here. * * * What a strange attitude toward marriage * * * Lionel's father was most distinguished looking. * * * They must be fairly wealthy. * * * But if I should agreed to his plan, and then, when he had divorced his wife, decided I did not love him, what? * * * It is all a terrible mess! * * * I suppose I ought to feel flattered that I have two men anxious to marry me. * * * But I'm afraid I don't. * * * If Sandy would only hurry back, I could think more clearly. * * * He gives me a sort of balance that I haven't without him.

It was after 7 when Jean awoke next morning. Mollie was standing before the mirror pulling on her hat.

Jean sat up and saw Mollie's face in the mirror. Her eyes were red, and under them were little dark crescents that she had attempted to cover with powder.

"Mollie!" Jean cried, suddenly crossing the room and putting an arm about her friend. "You've been crying!"

Mollie continued to stare in the mirror. "Don't be silly," she said, trying to speak casually. "I've been getting too little sleep. Go on back to bed, honey."

"But * * * something's wrong, Mollie. It's in your eyes. Can't you tell me?"

Mollie pushed her away a little roughly. "You're cuckoo," she snapped. "I'm all right, but I mean to turn in early tonight. So long."

Jean was not deceived, but she hesitated to say anything more. She wondered if something had happened at the store. Or perhaps * * * but the thought of Mollie worrying over her husband brought a smile to Jean's lips. Mollie wasn't that kind. She seemed to take the New Yorker's view of marriage * * * wed 'em and leave 'em, as Lionel had. Lionel's wife had left him, and, until his mother and father had come from Missouri to upset his plans, he had thought very little of his erstwhile bride. Mollie's husband worried her even less. She had left him and she apparently had forgotten him.

Jean's shoulders lifted meaningly. That wasn't her idea of marriage. When she went to the altar with a man, he was taking her for better or worse, and it would be worse for him if he ever tried to leave her.

When she had dressed she took a magazine from the table and stretched out on the bed again. Lionel had said he would drive by for her.

An hour later a knock brought her to her feet. "Just a minute!" she called out cheerily and, fastening a hook on the shoulder of her frock, ran to the mirror to rake a comb through her yellow hair.

Suddenly she was motionless, listening. Voices came to her from outside her door * * * men's voices. Then it wasn't Lionel. But who? The voices, still indistinct, grew in volume, as if raised in anger.

The broad light of day gave her courage. She crossed the floor boldly, and jerked the door open.

Lionel, red faced, stepped in, or tried to; but immediately a long arm from behind grasped his shoulder and jerked him out again.

Jean, dumb with astonishment, looked up into the angry face of Phillip Baldwin.

"Phil!" she cried. "I thought * * *"

But neither of them saw her. Pulled back into the hall, Lionel had suddenly struck out, his clenched fist landing solidly on Phillip's chin. Instantly Phillip was a maddened animal. With set jaw, he charged upon Lionel, his fists shooting out in rapid succession. Caught by the first blow, Lionel quickly jumped to one side and drew his fist back * * *

But the blow was never struck, for as the two men closed in and clinched they discovered at the same instant that it was not each other that they tore at, but Jean, badly frightened, but determined.

Phillip, blind with rage, made an effort to push her aside roughly, but it was useless. She clung to him, saying nothing, but staring into his blurred eyes with all the hatred of her being.

Lionel was the first to speak. Adjusting his disarranged tie, he said quietly: "I'm very sorry, Jean. He was standing outside your door when I came up. I merely asked him if he was looking for some one. And he seemed to think I had insulted him" * * *

"Was it any of your business what I was looking for?" Phillip shot at him, his eyes still blazing. "What are you coming up to a young lady's bedroom for?"

Lionel replied, "I might ask the same question of you?"

"I came up," Phillip said thickly, "because I * * * because this young lady is going to be my wife" * * *

Lionel caught his breath sharply. He turned to Jean, the question in his eyes.

But Jean was staring curiously at Phillip, her head shaking slowly * * * "No, Phil * * *" said soberly * * * "I'm not going to be your wife * * * not * * * after this * * * Do you think I'll ever recover from the humiliation of having" * * *

Phillip interrupted angrily. "Who in this * * * fellow?" he demanded.

"I won't make a ridiculous situation more impossible by introducing you. He's one of my two bosses at the office. Aside from that he's * * * a friend of mine." * * * And a moment later, "I thought you told me you were going back to Kelsey last night" * * *

Phillip's head gave a little upward jerk, a gesture of contempt." * * * "Oh * * * I see. You thought you had me out of the way, so." * * *

Jean's blue eyes flashed fire. A slim hand shot out and pointed to the stairs. "Will you please leave here * * * at once!"

Abruptly Phillip swung about and walked off.

"Gee, but I'm sorry, Jean," Lionel said earnestly when Phillip had gone down the stairs. "I really am. * * * Are you about ready to go to the office?"

Jean had stepped back within her room. Now she turned and looked at him coldly. "I'm not going to the office," she told him evenly. "Not with you." * * *

"But, good Lord! I * * *

"You were as much to blame, as he was," she cut him off, and closed the door in his face.

HOW IT BEGAN... By Russ Murphy

"I HOPE TO DIE IF IT'S UNTRUE.."
IN ANCIENT TIMES A PERSON ACCUSED OF CRIME WAS GIVEN A PIECE OF BREAD OVER WHICH A RITUAL HAD BEEN SAID.....HE WAS COMPELLED TO PUT IT INTO HIS MOUTH AND SWALLOW WHILE GIVING TESTIMONY, USING THE FORMULA, "I HOPE TO DIE, ETC." IF HE CHOKED HE WAS PRONOUNCED GUILTY...THE EARL OF GODWIN IS SAID TO HAVE CHOKED TO DEATH IN THIS MANNER.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Nutter" is of English origin. It may be traced back to four different sources. Perhaps its commonest original meaning is "the nut dealer," indicating an original occupation. It is frequently the modern form of the Anglo-Saxon "Nothgaer." "Nothgaer" was an old personal name meaning "compelling spear," "bold spear," or "swinging spear." In some cases "Nutter" represents the Anglo-Saxon "Nothers," which was another old personal name, meaning "compelling army" or "bold army." A fourth source of "Nutter" is the northern English "nowt-herd," a dialect form of "neat-herd" (cowherd), which indicates an original occupation. This name was especially common in Lancashire in earlier times. A certain George Nutter and a John Nutter are mentioned in a Lancashire register of the year 1617.

The family name "Northrop" (also spelled "Northrup") is merely a variation of "Northorp." "Northorp" (also spelled "Northorpe") is of English and Scandinavian origin. It means "the north farm" or "the north hamlet," and indicates an original place of residence. Many families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in the village of Northope in Lincolnshire. A certain Stephen de Northorp is mentioned in Hundred Rolls, and a Willelmus Northop is mentioned in an English register of the year 1379.

The family name "Heyden" is of German origin. Its full significance is "he who lives on the heath or uncultivated land." A certain Konrad Heyden is mentioned in a German record of the year 1283.

HOW TO REMOVE TEA STAINS FROM CLOTHING.

(Bureau of Chemistry.)

Tea stains contain a brown coloring matter which is not difficult to remove when fresh, but which become very persistent when allowed to remain a long time in contact with the fiber. Stains from tea containing milk or cream are removed more easily from cotton and linens than are stains made by clear tea. Use one of the following:

Borax and boiling water. If stains are on cotton or linen and only a few days old, soak them in borax solution (one half to one teaspoon of borax to one cup of water) and then rinse them in boiling water.

A strong soap solution. Use a half inch cube of soap to each cup of water, and boil stained material in it. Stains two or three weeks old can be removed if they are on small articles of white washable material which can be boiled in a small quantity of liquid.

Potassium permanganate. Use potassium permanganate for stains which resist other reagents.

Javelle water. For persistent stains Javelle water is slightly less satisfactory than the potassium permanganate and can not be used on wool or silk.

Lemon juice and sunlight. Keep the stains moist with lemon juice and expose them to the sun for a day or two. They will be practically removed.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Secrets in Hollywood, like all-night drug stores, are always open. Every one not only knows, or seems to know, what the other fellow is doing, but actually seems to anticipate his doing it. Personal as well as business secrets are not secrets long, but common property, discussed everywhere and quite openly, too.

JOAN BENNETT

A studio executive once overheard a gossiping group discussing his dismissal three weeks before he was to have been notified. He avoided embarrassment by resigning.

Domestic differences of stars and lesser notables are tea-time topics the day after. Impending divorces are thoroughly gone over before the lawyers are notified.

Studio secrets leak out because they must be made known to many departments and therefore pass through many hands. Then an exchange of confidences results in private and oftentimes valuable information becoming widely known.

Small Towners.

While place of birth has nothing to do with success in the movies, it is an interesting fact that more boys and girls from small towns than from large cities are getting ahead in Hollywood.

Considerably more than half those who have come to the foreground during the last year or so were born in small or medium-sized towns.

Among them, to give you an idea, are Frank Albertson (Fergus Falls, Minn.), Joan Bennett (Palisades, N. J.), Joe E. Brown (Holgate, Ohio), Marie Dressler (Coburg, Canada), Stuart Erwin (Squaw Valley, Calif.), Robert Montgomery (Beacon, N. Y.), Jack Oakie (Sedalia, Mo.), John Wayne (Winterset, Iowa), and Lawrence Tibbett (Bakersfield, Calif.).

Perhaps the explanation is that there are more small towns than big cities.

Want a Job?

Two years ago the actor we're writing these words about was almost broke. In fact, at the time he was called to take a test (that resulted in his comeback) he didn't know where the money to pay the next month's rent was coming from.

The other day he confessed to a friend he had saved only a few hundred dollars. What he needs is a keeper—his salary is $2,000 a week.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

She Calls It Love.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am 24 years old and have been married six years. I have a little girl 4 years old. For some reason my husband left me. I never knew why. But, although I loved him, it did not break my heart, and soon after I met a boy who is 21 and still going to school. We love each other, but he can not marry me for at least three years, as he has not even prospects of a job.

I am with my parents and have a good position and was doing all right until I met and loved this boy. Now should I wait for him or try to find some one better able to do for us?

I know if I give him up, I would go mad if I ever saw him with any one else.

There is no doubt that I love him. And he loves me. But he is only in law school. What should I do?

CLAIRE.

A boy of 21 is not equal to the burden you are planning to place upon the one you describe. Your first husband, who so inexplicably deserted you, was just one of the many youths who are simply submerged by the responsibilities of marriage, assumed prematurely. Thousands every year do what your husband did. Knowing they have no grounds for divorce, they just walk away. In many cases the girl, like yourself, loses no time in replacing her mate. Youthful marriages are rarely love marriages. They are merely accidents of adolescence. You did not love the first man and do not love this one. You are one of the thousands of girls who know nothing whatever about their own emotions. Whatever they feel they call love. You are susceptible. And you want to be supported. A boy has crossed your path and you are debating whether he or some unknown shall assume your support. That is not love.

Do you really want help? Then do this. Step up on a higher plane. You have a good position. Concentrate upon it and upon being a mother to your child. Cultivate your mental side. Put the brakes on the emotional. If you will give yourself a chance you could marry intelligently and successfully. But craving to possess a man and "going mad" at sight of him with another is not intelligent and leads to marriage that ends in desertion. If you rush this young boy into marriage you will regret it.

Avoid Pain

Nature never intended any woman to suffer intense or prolonged periodical pain. If you do suffer, build up your general health. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. Take it not merely to relieve pain temporarily. Take it to overcome the conditions which cause pain. 98 out of 100 women report benefit after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Mary H. Weisenbacher
960 E. Eldorado St.
Decatur, Illinois

"Two years ago I lost my baby at eight months. I suffered a great deal from pain and weakness. I wish I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I did. One of the waitresses where I used to work told me about it. I took it to build me up and it helped me in every way. I am now on night work and could not keep up without the Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Golda White
Blue Springs, Missouri

"I used to suffer everything with cramps. Once I was in bed three weeks. I took treatments but felt no better and people told me how bad I looked. My daughter had to do the work. One day on my way for a treatment I decided to buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instead. I had read the advertisements. The first dose I could feel touch my toes. Two bottles helped me wonderfully. I don't have cramps any more or periodical headaches. At that time I go right on with my work and I never could before. I have four children and we live on a farm, and I do my washing."

Mrs. Lula Walker
2203 Wibben Avenue
Louisville, Kentucky

"Ever since my second baby was born I have been irregular. How I suffered from female trouble. My sister told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my second bottle. I feel fine and am regular as a clock. Both married and single girls should take this medicine. It certainly will give a woman energy and strength and appetite."

"GIVE EARLY," SLOGAN OF CHRISTMAS FUND

able to meet such demands. But above all, send in your contribution to the fund. Even if you don't know any particular boy or girl in need, remember that the money you send will be devoted solely to the purpose of making the 1930 Christmas a real one for the children, no matter in what circumstances.

Face Dearth of "Goodies."

There are many children faced with a shortage of the "goodies" of the holiday season. Their parents are having a hard time keeping them clothed and fed. In some cases this has been impossible and aid from organized charities has been necessary. But the charities can not furnish toys or sweets, having all they can do to keep necessities on hand.

That is fine, but it does not keep the little ones from jumping out of their beds on Christmas morning to "see what Santa Claus left." And unless The Post's Toy Fund is big enough when it closes December 21 some of these expectant faces will be clouded with gloom when they discover their names were not on Santa's list.

To make sure the children receive the things on which they have set their hearts The Post's fund will be distributed through the parents who have read their children's letters and heard their requests.

Names of needy children are in the hands of the Council of Social Agencies and the toy fund will be disbursed through those organizations which are members of the council, so the entire city can be covered and as many children as possible share in the good times.

You have been advised to "shop early." The Post says "give early" and make some youngster happy.

Million to Aid Jobless Given by Rockefellers

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, and his son, John D., jr., today contributed their bit to aid New York City's unemployed. They gave $1,000,000 to the emergency unemployment committee, which is seeking to raise $6,000,000, to give employment to 15,000 men during the winter.

It was estimated the Rockefeller gift would give employment to 4,000 men for four months. It was the largest gift thus far recorded, the next largest being that of $500,000 made by Edward S. Harkness.

4-Year Term Given To Stock Swindler

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Accused by witnesses from Illinois, Florida, Alabama and other States of mining stock frauds, which the district attorney declared totaled from $800,000 to $1,000,000, Nathaniel Herbert Wheeler, 45, was sentenced today to four and a half years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

Wheeler, in jail here in default of $20,000 bail since his arrest last May in Boston, previously had pleaded guilty to five indictments of using the mails to defraud.

Wheeler's method of operation, it was testified, was to form stock purchase clubs of 30 members, each contributing $1,000. When he was arrested it was charged that he used matrimonial papers to obtain prospects.

SUCCESS REPEATED BY MME. CLAIRBERT

Coloratura Soprano Appears in Program of Operatic Selections.

RICHARD CROOKS AIDS

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, headed the audience which heard Mme. Clare Clairbert, Belgian coloratura soprano, and Richard Crooks, tenor, in Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's first musical morning of the season at the Hotel Mayflower yesterday.

Mme. Clairbert, who made her Washington debut last Saturday under the auspices of Mrs. Wilson-Greene, repeated the success of her first concert here. Her part of the program was made up entirely of operatic selections and she justified their choice by her swift and brilliant coloratura work. Again it was noted that Mme. Clairbert has a noteworthy vocal equipment, remarkable staccato powers, sparkle and brilliancy in the upper registers and a mellow richness in h[illegible] middle voice.

A daintiness of handling its lovely passages marked her presentation of an aria from Mozart's "L'Enlevement au Serail" and the ease with which trills and rapid measures flow from the throat of this singer was shown in the selections from Massenet's "Manon."

Mr. Crooks, who is an old favorite with Washington audiences, was accorded a warm reception when he appeared on the stage to open the concert with three Handel selections, a type of music particularly suited to his voice. In his duet with Mme. Clairbert, Mr. Crooks sustained his role with admirable tonal quality and histrionic ability.

At the forty-sixth musical morning next Wednesday the soloist will be Jose Iturbi, the celebrated Spanish pianist.

Take Time out in mid-afternoon and Eat something Sweet

You can revive your work-fagged system if you eat a piece of candy, a cookie or drink a sweetened beverage. A glass of water in which refined sugar is dissolved will "pick you up."

Half past three—an hour and a half to go! Take time out and eat or drink something sweet. Even though it takes five minutes, you'll be so revived by the snack that you'll finish your day at high speed.

This is no fantastic theory. Scientists have discovered by many experiments that a food product rich in refined sugar has no equal for quickness in nourishing the system. And when a tired system is nourished, fatigue is overcome.

Hot or cold flavored drinks, coffee or tea, sweet cakes or candy are available everywhere for business people. The Sugar Institute.

Girl on Way Home As Marriage Fails

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Her wedding interrupted by a detective, Miss Helen Fuhrman, 18, daughter of E. R. Fuhrman, vice president of the American Tobacco Co., was on the way to her home in Richmond today. Her father persuaded her by telephone to delay her marriage to Ivor L. Lloyd, 20, a musician.

Telling her parents she was going to visit a girl friend, Miss Fuhrman left Richmond Monday night and came to New York to meet her fiance. They decided to seal their acquaintance of two-years' standing and went to City Hall for a marriage license.

In the meantime, Mr. Fuhrman jumped at conclusions and asked police here to watch the license bureau. As a result, a detective intercepted the couple as they were filling out the application and took them to headquarters. After the talk with her father, the girl decided that Cupid would best be served by a Virginia wedding in January.

State Holds Back Important Testimony in Stabbing of Mrs. Bowles.

Portland, Oreg., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today heard contradictory testimony concerning the time a physician was called to attend Mrs. Leone Bowles, 33, Portland society matron, fatally stabbed November 12 in the apartment of the former secretary of her millionaire husband.

Nelson C. Bowles, 34, the husband, and Irma Loucks Paris, the former secretary, 28, are charged with murder. They declare Mrs. Bowles stabbed herself when she learned of their intimacies.

A piecework pattern of testimony was submitted to the jury of three women and three men. The State admittedly held back its most important witnesses. Detectives read from statements they said Mrs. Paris made, in which she asserted Mrs. Bowles reached the apartment first and Bowles five or ten minutes after his wife arrived.

Consent Decree Hearings Closed

Meat Packers' Case Taken Under Advisement by Justice.

Justice Jennings Bailey in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday took under advisement petitions of Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. for modificatoin of the decree signed in 1920 by which four of the Nation's biggest packing concerns agreed to divorce themselves from unallied industries.

The case has been on trial for more than two months and has been featured by the fact that economics instead of law has been the primary motive stressed by opposing counsel.

Special Assistant to the Attorney General Harold Teagarden, in concluding arguments in the case, declared that the fact that 60,000 retail stores have banded together into a chain store organization constitutes no problem in connection with mass buying. The packers, through Attorney Frank J. Hogan, contend that since the decree was signed merchandising conditions have changed and that they should be permitted to engage in the retail trade in addition to dealing in other products.

VICE SHAKEDOWNS BARED BY WOMEN

TRUE, INFORMER AVERS

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Inquiry into New York City magistrates' courts, with special reference to graft extorted from women accused of vice, was reopened today before Referee Samuel Seabury, and a series of dramatic disclosures resulted.

Five women told how they either had paid high tribute to lawyers, bondsmen and police or suffered punishment for offenses they never committed.

"Chile" Acuna, paid police informer, substantiated the testimony of the five to the extent that there was no evidence against them, and added to the list 52 other women, prosecuted despite the fact he had told police he was unable to get any evidence against them. More than 30 of the 57 served prison terms.

Exonerates Inspector.

Acuna exonerated Police Inspector Thomas T. Ryan, mentioned previously, and pointed out Lieut. Peter J. Pheiffer as the man who posed as "Inspector Ryan" and gave him elaborate instructions on the framing of cases. Pheiffer, on the stand later, denied he ever saw Acuna before.

The one time informer walked through the courtroom and picked out 26 policemen who had employed him, at one time or another, to gather evidence. The men were present by order of the police commissioner.

Lieut. Pheiffer, who heads the plainclothes men of the sixth division, in which Acuna worked, revealed on the stand that detectives spend an average of $35 weekly to pay informers and that the money comes from the public funds.

Informers are paid, $5 or $10 for each case, he said. In previous hearings, Acuna had told of receiving an average of $25 for cases from which police obtained graft.

Tells of Paying $575.

Mary Palmer told the referee she paid $575 to obtain the release of herself and her cousin, Elizabeth Wilson, after they had been arrested on trumped-up charges.

In at least two cases where women would not accept the marked money proferred by Acuna, he testified, the arresting officers pretended they had found the bills in the pocketbooks of the accused.

The inquiry was adjourned, subject to the call of the referee. Being conducted by the appellate division of the New York Supreme Court, it relates particularly to the Magistrate's Courts in Manhattan and the Bronx.

The first action to follow the disclosures at previous sessions came today with the arrest of Joseph Steiner, a bondsman, accused of overcharging for a bail bond issued to Sigrid Johnson, one of the women Acuna said was framed.

Under-Average Salaries To Receive $14,440,000

Budget of President Outlines Three-Year Program to Bring Contemplated Pay Up to Requirements of Law of 1923.

A three-year program calling for expenditure of $14,440,000 to bring under-average salaries paid Government employes up to the average provided by law under the classification act, was proposed by President Herbert Hoover in his annual budget message submitted to Congress yesterday.

Approximately 30 per cent of the total necessary to bring the average salary up to the point contemplated by law is provided for in the annual departmental estimates for the next fiscal year, the President said.

There are wide differences between the average salaries paid in the various Government departments the President pointed out, and, although the amount appropriated to eliminate the discrepancies might be changed, the situation should be corrected in general rather than through remedies applied to individual departments rather than to all.

"Under the classification act of 1923, as amended, and the application of that act to the field services by adjusting their rates of pay to correspond with those defined for departmental service in the District of Columbia," President Hoover said, "there has developed through the years rather a wide difference among the several departments and establishments as to the relationship which the average of the existing salaries bears to the average of the compensation rates provided by law for the various grades of positions.

"In some instances the pay rolls show that the average has been approximately attained; in others that the grades are at least one step below the average, and in many cases two or more steps below the average.

"With a view to commencing the adjustment of this situation the estimates contained in this budget carry for promotion purposes for each activity approximately 30 per cent of the amount required to bring all under-average grades up to the average.

"This will materially lessen the difference which now obtains between the many pay rolls and if the same principle is followed for the next two or three years will eliminate such difference.

"It is estimated that it will require $14,440,000 to bring all under-average grades up to the average and the estimates contained in this budget provide for approximately 30 per cent of this amount.

"While the percentage has been arbitrarily chosen and might be modified without affecting the purpose of eliminating discrepancies between and within the departments and establishments, I believe any deviation from the general principle stated or any application of it to one department and not to another will defeat the purpose of providing 'equal compensation for equal work,' which was the expressed intent of Congress in enacting the classification act of 1923."

BUDGET OF SCHOOLS FIXED AT $2,430,000

Hoover's Message Estimates $2,430,000 for Building New Additions.

$430,000 FOR PROPERTY

Of the $2,860,000 carried in the estimates for public schools, buildings and grounds, $2,430,000 provides for new construction and $430,000 for the purchase of additional school building and playground sites, study of the budget submitted to Congress yesterday shows.

The high lights of the school building program provided for in the estimates were outlined to Congress in the budget message of President Hoover. The building program, the President said, includes:

A total of $400,000 for continuing construction of the new Roosevelt High School; $100,000 for completing the first unit of the Young colored platoon school; $300,000 for completing the Brown Junior High School; $140,000 for an eight-room building in the vicinity of Connecticut avenue and Upton street northwest; $145,000 for an eight-room building in the vicinity of Burleith and Glover Park; $165,000 for an eight-room addition, including a combination gymnasium and assembly hall at the Douglas-Simmons School; $165,000 for an eight-room addition, including a combination gymnasium and assembly hall at the Harrison School; $80,000 for a six-room adidtion to the Orr School; $60,000 for a four-room addition to the Key School; $200,000 for the completion of the Macfarland Junior High School; $180,000 for an addition to the Paul Junior High School; $200,000 for beginning construction on a junior high school in the Brookland - Woodridge section; $200,000 for beginning construction of the Jefferson Junior High School; $40,000 for a gymnasium at the Randall Junior High School; $55,000 for a gymnasium and three-classroom addition to connect the Hine Junior High School and the Towers School.

"It is estimated," the budget message said, "that the new school buildings provided for in whole or in part in the 1931 appropriation act will, when completed, result in the elimination of 38 portables, 88 part-time classes and 95 oversize classes; and that the new buildings provided in the 1932 estimates (excluding therefrom the 1932 amounts for completing or continuing the 1931 items) will, when completed, accomplish an additional elimination of 12 portables, 26 part-time classes and 51 oversize classes.

"So that, upon the basis of the number of portables, part-time classes and oversize classes as of November 1, 1930, there would remain upon the final completion of all building projects to be initiated or completed by the 1931 act and 1932 estimates, 8 portables, 12 part-time classes and 129 oversize classes."

Including reappropriation of $100,000 previously appropriated but unexpended the total moneys provided for public schools in the estimates is $13,279,250. This is a decrease of $949,833 as compared with the 1931 appropriations plus reappropriations. The combined figure in the current appropriation law is $14,229,083. The amount allowed for buildings and grounds in the estimates for next year was $1,184,493 less than the total provided for buildings and grounds in the appropriation act for the current year. Against this decrease, however, is noted another instance of the continuously increasing annual bill for operating expenses of the public schools. The estimates for next year provide $10,419,250 for operating expenses of the schools. This is an increase of $234,660 over the amount appropriated for operating expenses of the public schools in the appropriation act for this year.

Naming of Postmaster Awaited at Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 3.—Henry J. Koelker, superintendent of mails, has been appointed acting postmaster of Cumberland, pending appointment of a successor to the late E. Lee Shaw. It is believed several months will elapse before Shaw's successor is named.

Applications will be acted on by the Civil Service Commission in the usual way, and it is assumed the indorsement of Representative Frederick N. Zihlman will go far toward filling the vacancy. It has been the rule to permit a member of Congress to name the postmaster in his home town, unless an extraordinary situation should arise.

SECRETARY STARTS WORK ON MEMORIAL

COLUMBIA ISLAND SITE

Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, of the Coast Guard; Brig. Gen. John T. Myers, of the Marine Corps, and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, were present at the ceremony. Secretary Adams, who is honorary chairman of the Navy and Marine Memorial Association, presided.

The memorial, which is to be dedicated to Americans lost at sea while in the service of this country, is to be built with funds raised by public subscriptions. It is to be of bronze. The design, which portrays sea gulls soaring above the crest of sea waves, has been officially approved and the memorial is now being cast.

The sculptor, Begni del Piatti, and the architect, Harvey Wiley Corbett, took a prominent part in the ceremony. Others present included Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury Department; T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, and Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the House naval committee.

AMERICAN WOMAN HELD BY FASCISTS

EMBASSY IN QUANDARY

Rome, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Twenty-seven persons, including the American-born Mrs. H. J. de Bosis, widow of a noted Italian poet, are being held for trial on charges of anti-Fascism.

These arrests, disclosed by the government today, bring the total made on similar charges within a few weeks, to several score.

Mrs. De Bosis, formerly Lillian Vernon, of St. Louis and Cincinnati, is specifically charged with spreading "calumnious anti-Fascist libels."

The government alleges that the accused planned a number of crimes against the government, which were to have been committed October 28, the eighth anniversary of the march on Rome. One of the accused is Renzo Rendi, correspondent for several newspapers in the United States.

In the case of Mrs. De Bosis, the United States Embassy here is uncertain what steps can be taken. Although born an American, she married an Italian and therefore is regarded by the Italian govenrment as a citizen.

Her son, Lauro de Bosis, secretary of the Italian-American Society in New York, was en route to Rome when word of his mother's arrest reached him. He halted his journey in Paris when informed that he himself was in danger of arrest, if he continued to Rome.

For it only exists in his mind—

Which he hopes some day he may find!

ON OUR EXPEDITION IN THE FLYING SUBMARINE TO SEARCH FOR THE SUNKEN CITY OF ATLANTIS, WE HAD SIGHTED A SWIMMER, MILES FROM LAND. I LEAPED OVERBOARD TO THE RESCUE BUT THE SWIMMER DIVED - AND THEN I WAS PULLED UNDER.
WHEN WILMA SAW ME GO UNDER, SHE LEAPED FOR THE DIVING ROOM.
WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?
GET IN A DIVING SUIT AND GO DOWN AFTER BUCK! GET BACK UP ON DECK AND TAKE CHARGE OF THE SHIP!
IN A MOMENT SHE WAS BACK ON DECK AND—IF WE DON'T COME UP IN FIVE MINUTES, SUBMERGE SHIP AND HUNT FOR US!
DOWN SHE PLUNGED - WEIGHTED BY HER HEAVY SHOES AND DIVING SUIT!
OH - I HOPE IT WASN'T A SHARK THAT TOOK BUCK UNDER.

NOTRE DAME HIT BY INJURY TO FULLBACK MULLINS

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Estimating the average per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages, exclusive of beer, at one pint, which I believe to be a conservative figure, and estimating the average football attendance at 1,000,000 on a big week end, I arrive at the conclusion that the beneficial effects of football on those who play the game are more than offset by the deleterious effects on others. There are those who will deny that the average per capita consumption amounts to as much as a pint, but there will also be others who will deny that it works out at anything less than a case.

In fact, I would guarantee to produce more than one enthusiast on the long side of the estimate who would promise to drink all liquor less than an average of one case per head. However, it is idle to consider the opinions of extremists and as I am what is known as a moderate in this matter, I will admit that my own guess, one pint, is about right.

Drinks From All Sections Represented.

It is to be conceded of course that some few eccentrics will not drink any stimulants at all during a football week end, but counterbalancing these lows in the record there will be the great achievements of others, who will drink one or more cases each, between Friday and Monday, four or five times every season, while they last. The more sophisticated stimulants will bear a wide variety of labels, most of them reading Old Something or Other and the bottle necks will be sealed with ingenious caps and revenue stamps manufactured by the Sicilian boys in New York and Chicago.

But, in the total of 1,000,000 pints, there will be a large quantity of sincere, unpretentious Georgia moon or mule in Mason jars, a large element of Texas sheep-dip, some boll-weevil spray from Mississippi, some Kansas jake, and some radiator fluid, this latter from Iowa, where it is regarded as the wine of the country. If these million pints were poured together in a heterogeneous mixture in an open reservoir the fumes would destroy all the vegetation within a 10-mile radius and all the cows of the region would give side cars, stingers, and old-fashioneds for the next five years.

The frank preference of the Georgia boy for his Mason jar, rather than the neck-and-shoulder bottle, once was explained to me by one such who had come up from Atlanta to watch Army play Illinois at Champaign.

"Down our way," said he, "we don't aim to fool around sipping our liquor. When we aim to do us some drinking we aim to get action, and the onliest way to get the mostest action quickest is to get you a wide-mouth jar so you can dip into it up to your gills."

New Tradition in Place of Old Election Habit.

Time was in my experience when election nights and New Year's eves were the only occasions on the calendar which were really set aside for serious and unrestrained drinking, but that was then and the present is now. My last study of the drinking habits of a city population on an election night and also on a New Year's eve disclosed to me the decline of a tradition, but my observation of the football customer during the week ends in the autumn in recent seasons reveals the rise of a new one. To be sure, drinks were drunk and drinkers also, as far back as the memory of the oldest football fan does not reach, but the new drinking customs of the football season distinguish these happy events of the autumn with a special significance.

I see drunker drunks and more of them nowadays in the hotels, on the trains, on the streets and in the football arenas than I ever saw on Broadway when Al Smith was being reelected governor or one year was merging into another at midnight, and the sense of the attendance seems to be that a football game is no dice unless it be seen as an alcoholic blur.

Not so much in the actual arenas, however, as in the hotel corridors and suites and along the sidewalks are the evidences of the new tradition to be observed. The night before a big game finds the celebrants demonstrating forward passes to persons unknown but no less acceptable socially for that, there is much random visiting from suite to suite, much exchange drinking, and great confusion. Then, also, there are blurry

Charity Game Crowd Seen As Record

Capt. Rowland, Star Quarter Back, Is Bears' Threat.

THE Marines and the Coast Guard will have the distinction of playing before Washington's largest crowd of the season next Saturday at Griffith Stadium when they clash for the President's Cup emblematic of the service championship, if pregame indications of the ticket sale are not amiss.

The annual game which had not stirred Capital fandom unduly less than a month ago, now takes shape as the choicest event of the local season. Developments have transformed the contest from a mere game between two service elevens into a spectacle, the entire proceeds of which will go to charity, with President and Mrs. Hoover already having announced plans to attend with other dignitaries and supplementary features planned on a pretentious scale.

Fifteen thousand persons attended the Georgetown-West Virginia game, which stands as the record crowd of the season, but this figure is expected to be exceeded by many thousands at the game Saturday. The ticket sale has been spurred by the activities of the Police and Fire Departments of the city, which have been given special permission by the District Commissioners to distribute the tickets and by the wholesale purchases of boxes by many fans.

As the game approaches, indications of a bitter struggle are well defined. The Marines will be seeking their fifth victory in these President's Cup contests, which they have dominated since President Coolidge donated the trophy in 1924. The Coast Guards will be making their second bid for the title and will be out to avenge a 19-0 defeat suffered at the hands of the Marines last season at Griffith Stadium.

Teams Limited to But One Officer.

Under the rules of the President's Cup contests, each team is restricted to one commissioned officer. For the Coast Guard the officer who will see most action is Capt. Rowland, quarter back and mainstay of the Bears' passing and running attack, the man the Marines must watch. Capt. Rowland earned his football spurs with Canisius College and was one of the most feared backs in his sphere of competition.

The Marines have a galaxy of commissioned officers to choose from, including many in the line as well as the back field. Lieut. "Peggy" O'Neil and Lieut. Joe Bauer, both satellites in former years with the Naval Academy Teams, doubtless will bear the brunt of the burden in the back field.

163 Golfers Enter San Francisco Open

San Francisco, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Amateur and professional golfers, 163 strong, will match strokes here tomorrow in a 36-hole qualifying trial for the 32 places in the San Francisco $7,500 open match play tournament.

Such nationally known pros as Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Leo Diegel and Harry Cooper will pair off with some of the leading amateurs of the coast in the 72-hole event.

Among the simon pures entered are H. Chandler Egan, of Medford, Ore., twice national amateur champion, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago; Fay Coleman, of Los Angeles and Jack Neville, of Pebble Beach, winner of many California titles. George Von Elm, former national amateur titleholder, now self-styled "business man golfer," will seek a share of the purse.

With the qualifying rounds over, eighteen-hole match play rounds will be held Friday and Saturday, with the 36-hole finals Sunday.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Six teams are represented on the fifth annual all-Southern Conference honorary football eleven as selected for the Associated Press today by Dixie coaches and sports writers.

Three University of Georgia players were named, while Alabama and Tulane, conference cochampions, and Tennessee placed two men on the squad. Florida and Georgia Tech had one each.

Four 1929 Gridmen Repeaters.

Four members of the 1929 all-Southern played again this season, and all were named to the honor team for a second year. They were "Catfish" Smith, Georgia end; Roberts, Tulane center; Dodd, Tennessee quarter back, and Sington, Alabama tackle.

No sophomores were honored with first team selections, but two—Zimmerman, of Tulane, and Cain, of Alabama—rated the second eleven, and numerous first-year varsity men received honorable mention.

The best-liked men in the order of their popularity were Dodd, Sington, Dalrymple, Suther and Roberts, of Tulane. Virtually every ballot named these men either on the first or second teams.

The closest battle for positions came between the guards and the half backs. Steele was an outstanding choice for guard, but the votes for Leathers, Maddox, Bodenger, Thayer and Forquer were close. Suther also was a sure shot for one half back post, but Buddy Hackman, one of Tennessee's "Hack and Mack" touchdown twins of last year, barely won first team honors over Kelly, Zimmerman and Bethea.

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Notre Dame, Ohio State, Purdue and Ohio University football teams will play next season in the Indiana University Memorial Stadium. The 1931 gridiron schedule was announced today by Z. G. Clevenger, director of athletics.

The body was sent to Charlotte today, accompanied by his wife and a daughter, Mrs. John H. Kline.

Transatlantic Yacht Race Listed on July 4

London, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A transatlantic yacht race to start at Newport, R. I., and end at Plymouth was announced today for next summer by the Ocean Racing Club of Great Britain. The starting date was fixed at July 4 next.

MINORS HEAR OF NEED OF MAJORS

13 Small Leagues Go on Rocks, Rickey Tells Meeting.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 3 (A.P.). Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, told the National Association of Professional Leagues today that minor league baseball, or at least a large part of it, could not survive without help from the majors.

Rickey appeared before the first session of the national association to discuss relations between the majors and minors, particularly from the so-called "chain store" angle. The Cardinals operate the largest chain of "farm clubs" in the game.

The Cardinals' representative, one of the canniest business men in the baseball world, told the association that thirteen minor leagues had gone on the rocks and that others also were in financial difficulties from which only the majors could extract them.

The majors are ready to come to the rescue, he said, but require guarantees that players on minor league clubs, which are owned by major league clubs would be treated exactly as the players on clubs owned by independent interests. He also would make it lawful for a player on a minor league team owned by a major league club to be transferred by another club owned by the same major without being regarded as out on option. The rules provide that the majors may keep the same player out on option for not more than two years.

Renewal of Agreement For 10 Years Sought.

Just before the meeting was adjourned a motion suggesting renewal of the national association agreement for ten years was offered. Charles H. Graham, a director of the Pacific Coast League, suggested the renewal be made for one year only.

He pointed out that the three AA leagues—the Pacific Coast, International and American Association—were in the midst of a battle over the draft question with the majors and would prefer that the association agreement be renewed for only one year. This would leave the AA leagues with their hands free and in a better position to bring about an understanding with the majors, he said. The resolution was amended in accordance with this suggestion and a vote will be taken when the meeting reconvenes tomorrow morning.

Portland Wants Quinn; Seeks Special Ruling

Montreal, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Few trades marked the annual meeting of the minor league club owners today, but the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League is understood to have asked special permission of the league to use Jack Quinn.

Quinn is a spit ball pitcher and the Coast League rules provide that no new hurlers in that category can enter the league. Quinn recently was given his release by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Army Slow to Buy Seats for Navy Game

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the United States Military Academy here, announced today that the ticket application closing date for Army Athletic Association members will be December 5 and that all applications made after that date would be rejected. Only about 10,000 tickets of their allotment have been taken by Army Athletic Association members up to date.

Tickets at the rate of $5 each, with each member entitled to purchase two, were reserved by Maj. Fleming for Army Athletic Association members. The funds derived from this sale will be turned over to the Salvation Army, and the tickets not sold to members will be given to that organization for sale at such price as it deems proper.

Coaches, Impersonating Irish Stars, Swamp S. California

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 3 Notre Dame stars, Schwartz and Conley, rode through the University of Southern California football eleven's pass defense in uncomfortable fashion today as Coach Howard Jones put his men through their last strenuous paces for Saturday's gridiron gigantic.

Two former Trojan stars, now coaches, impersonated the Rough Riders on the reserve team during dummy scrimmage, with Rush Saunders doing Schwartz's back-field chores and Francis Tappan playing Conley's end in a fashion which resulted in the three touchdowns.

Ralph Wilcox, last of the injured absentees, was back in uniform, but did not take part in the heavy work. He is not expected to start Saturday and will play only a few minutes of the contest under present plans.

Following defense drill, defensive but pointed offensive tactics were tested. Reports of new plays being developed behind locked gates failed to disturb general opinion that Southern California with its superior weight will do considerable line pounding from the noted power formations.

Possibly a storm brewing off the coast of Oregon might move south to catch the game in a downpour of rain failed to disturb betting, which moved on apace with no odds available either way.

The official forecast was "partly cloudy tomorrow and Friday." However, if prevailing easterly winds shift south a wet gridiron is almost certain.

The Trojans will take a light workout tomorrow and again Friday morning, after which they will go to a suburban hotel, where they will remain until game time.

After two workouts at Tucson, Ariz., tomorrow, the Notre Dame squad will move on to Los Angeles, arriving late Friday.

Weller, Haskell Star, To Play on Two Teams

Arkansas City, Kans., Dec. 3 (A.P.). Louis (Little Rabbit) Weller, darting half back at Haskell Institute, Government Indian school at Lawrence, Kans., will play on both sides in a charity football game here December 9.

Weller will lug the ball for the Arkansas City Junior College eleven one half and for the Chilocco Indian School the other.

Hudkins Files Answer To Suit for $160,000

Los Angeles, Dec. 3 (A.P.). — Ace Hudkins, middleweight boxer, filed his answer today to the $160,000 damage suit brought by Miss Rhea W. Hill, denying he promised to marry her, or inflicted beatings, as she had alleged.

Miss Hill's suit, filed several weeks ago, accused the boxer of refusing to marry her after making the offer, and asked $100,000 damages. In addition, she demanded $60,000 for alleged beatings she declared Hudkins administered.

Middies Complete Training For Penn Clash Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3.—Adhering to his program to guard against injuries to any of the regulars with the Penn game just around the corner and the big battle with the West Point Cadets for charity to be staged in New York on December 13, Bill Ingram put his Navy football pupils through a comparatively light workout today and the tapering off process will be more pronounced tomorrow and Friday.

The regulars and second stringers engaged in a scrimmage session which for a time was quite lively, but devoted for the most part to punting and running back punts. All of the players likely to see action against Penn and Army were given a chance to show their stuff.

No further changes in the line-up were indicated as a result of today's drill. If there are any positions that are giving the coaches the slightest bit of worry, they are the ends, but Byng and Steffanides occupied the flanks when the big team took the field today. Torgerson, however, is not out of the picture as Byng's mate.

In the two big games that remain, there is no question but that the Navy contingent is looking to Bullet Lou Kirn and Jumping Joe Tschirgi to bear the brunt of the attack, although both Bauer, at quarter, and Hagberg, full back, are fair ball carriers. Then there are Gannon and Hurley, half backs, both of whom have shown

Weary Maryland U. Squad Eased as Last Test Nears

AFTER three gruelling football games with Navy, Johns Hopkins, and Vanderbilt since November 22, and 54 hours spent on the train last week-end in traveling to and from Nashville, a weary Maryland football squad has been taking nothing but light workouts this week in preparation for its important clash with the undefeated Western Maryland Team Saturday in the Baltimore Municipal Stadium. The contest is the last of a twelve-game schedule for Maryland.

Coach Curley Byrd deemed it advisable to give his squad a complete rest Monday considering the hard week-end they had gone through. Tuesday and yesterday the College Park mentor put his players through light signal drills and probably will do so again today, giving his players the customary pregame rest tomorrow.

Maryland supporters were furnished occasion to rejoice last night when it was learned that Jack Norris, stellar wingman, who has been ailing with intestinal influenza for the past two weeks, has sufficiently recovered to be available for regular duty against the Terrors. Norris was taken ill shortly before the Navy game and faced the Middies only for about ten minutes. He then was confined to a local hospital for several days, to be discharged in time to make the trip to Nashville and to participate in the Vanderbilt contest for less than a quarter. He has completely recov-

Knee Hurt in Army Game Shows No Improvement.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's hopes of scalping the Trojans of Southern California Saturday fell sharply today when Coach Knute Rockne announced that the injury to Full Back Larry "Moon" Mullins' knee was such that it would be impossible for him to play in the important game.

Rockne made the announcement as the team hopped off its special train here for a two-day practice. Mullins wrenched his knee badly in the Army game last Saturday, and, although it has been given constant care ever since, it has not responded to treatment.

Mullins' absence will be a heavy blow for the Rockne raiders, although two substitutes of merit, Dan Hanley and Al Howard, will be available for the important battering job. Mullins, though "brittle," was regarded as one of the best line smashers in the Notre Dame line-up and his defense work has been excellent. He stepped into the first-string line-up following the departure of "Galloping Joe" Savoldi.

Hanley Has Shown Flashes of Promise.

Hanley has shown flashes of great promise in several recent games, but, like Howard, is not regarded as a finished product necessary for a game like Saturday's battle promises to be. Howard has been operating with the "shock troops" off and on for two seasons.

Outside of Mullins, the Notre Dame reported in fine shape for today's drill, which was held on the University of Arizona field. All of them reported they were recovered from the shell shock suffered while storming the Army fortress and were ready to play.

Today's practice was open to the public, but Coach Rockne said the two scheduled for tomorrow on the same field would be strictly private. During tomorrow's drills he expects to run through all the Notre Dame plays and polish up the off-tackle play that has carried the team through two tight victories against Northwestern and the Army.

Rockne Having Busy Trip West.

Rockne, visibly worried yet confident of Saturday's game, has experienced anything but rest during the past two days of travel. Telegrams have been literally pouring into his compartment from well wishers and various chambers of commerce and alumni groups along the route, requesting the Notre Dame team's presence at banquets, &c.

"I'll speak anywhere at any time," he promised, "if they only let the team alone. We're in for a tough battle and we need all the rest and leisure possible."

At today's workout, almost the entire citizenry of Tucson and surrounding territory turned out to watch the Rockne Raiders run through signals and other football fundamentals.

Rockne Asks Walsh To Drill Irish Stars For Charity Contest

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, who called off a charity game scheduled here for December 14 between a team of his old football stars and the New York Giants, professional eleven, telegraphed the committee today he had asked Adam Walsh, now coach at Yale, to get the team together for the game.

Rockne, en route to California, where Notre Dame plays Southern California Saturday, wired Daniel M. Daniel, chairman of the committee in charge of the game, from Tucson, Ariz., that he had ordered "the boys" to get together with Walsh at South Bend and play the game. Rockne gave "doctor's orders" as his reason originally for retiring from his part in coaching the former Notre Dame stars, including the "Four Horsemen," for the match with the professionals.

Mayor James Walker, head of the unemployment committee, said today that there had been a misunderstanding and that Rockne's original telegram, cancelling the game, merely had meant the coach himself would not be here to direct the team.

8 GAMES OUTSTANDING ON SATURDAY'S GRID CARD

Colgate Plays N.Y.U. for Charity

Penn-Navy Fray Also Expected to Attract Capacity Throng.

Georgia-Georgia Tech and Duke-Carolina Clash in South.

ALTHOUGH most of the leading college football teams have brought their campaigns to a close, several important contests are scheduled for the coming Saturday. These will be played in various sections of the country, and among them are the New York University-Colgate, Pennsylvania-Navy, Notre Dame-Southern California, Maryland-Western Maryland, Carnegie Tech-W. and J., Florida-Tennessee, Georgia-Georgia Tech and North Carolina-Duke games.

The New York University and Colgate elevens will face each other in a postseason game on Saturday at the Yankee Stadium, New York, for the benefit of the unemployed. As these are two of the strongest teams in the East, the contest is attracting wide attention, and it is expected that a capacity crowd will attend.

New York U. Lost Only to Fordham in East.

N. Y. U. brought its regular season to a close ten days ago, when it triumphed over Rutgers at the Yankee Stadium by a score of 30 to 0. Chick Meehan's players have compiled a record of seven victories and two defeats this season. The only Eastern team by which they were beaten was Fordham, and their other setback came at the hands of the University of Georgia.

Led by the brilliant Len Macaluso, the Colgate eleven has won eight games and lost only one this year. The one defeat was inflicted by Michigan State by 14 to 7. Coach Andy Kerr's players have piled up a total of 376 points this season, to only 21 for their opponents. The only teams which have scored against them are Michigan State and Syracuse.

The coming game between the Penn and Navy elevens will be staged at Franklin Field in Philadelphia, and this contest also is expected to draw a capacity throng. This will be the final contest of the season for Penn, but the Navy will start preparations for its struggle with the Army, which will be staged at the Yankee Stadium a week from the coming Saturday for the benefit of the unemployed. The Army eleven, which invaded Chicago for its annual battle with Notre Dame yesterday, will not get back into action until it tackles the Navy next week.

Carnegie Tech to Battle Presidents.

Neither the Navy nor Penn has made a particularly impressive record this year. The Navy has won five games and lost four, while Penn has scored five victories and suffered three defeats.

In another Eastern game to be played on Saturday Carnegie Tech will meet Washington and Jefferson in Pittsburgh. This game was originally scheduled for yesterday, but it was postponed on account of cold weather.

Bringing to a close one of the most difficult schedules ever arranged for a college football team, the Notre Dame eleven will invade Los Angeles on Saturday to take the field against the powerful University of Southern California Team. When these teams met in Chicago last season, Notre Dame was victorious by 13 to 12.

Both Maryland and Western Maryland will bring their campaigns to a close by facing each other in Baltimore on Saturday. In last season's game between these teams Western Maryland was the winner, by 12 to 0.

In the three most important games scheduled for the Southern teams on Saturday the University of Florida will tackle the University of Tennessee at Jacksonville, the University of North Carolina will oppose Duke at Chapel Hill, and Georgia Tech will face the University of Georgia at Atlanta.

Two Intersectional Games In South.

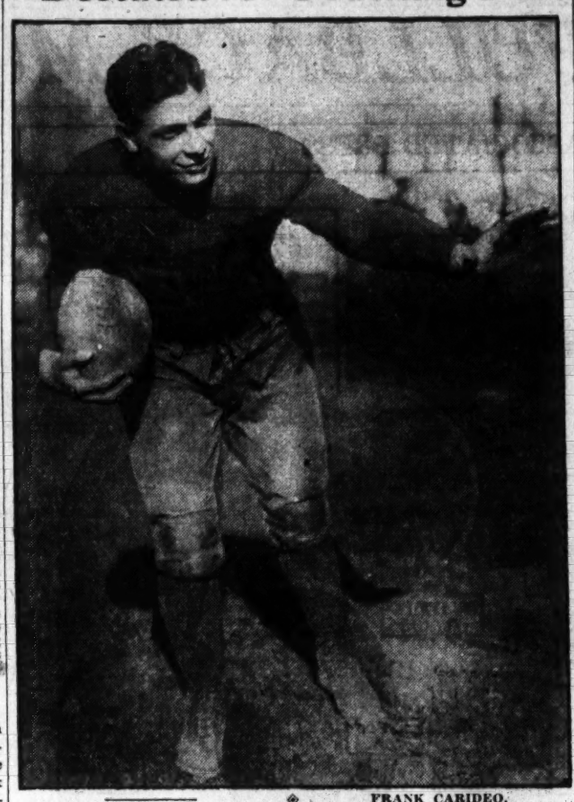
Two intersectional games are listed for the South on Saturday. In one of these the University of Detroit will meet the Loyola eleven of New Orleans in the Crescent City, and in the other Iowa State will play Rice at Houston.

Thus far this season the Duke eleven has sustained only one defeat, and that came in its opening game with the University of South Carolina by 22 to 0. The Duke players then gained seven victories in a row. They defeated the University of Virginia by 32 to 0, Davidson by 12 to 0, the Navy by 18 to 0, Wofford by 14 to 0, Villanova by 12 to 6, the University of Kentucky by 14 to 7, and North Carolina State by 18 to 0. In their ninth game they were held to a tie at 13 to 13 by the Wake Forest eleven. In their game with Washington and Lee last Thursday they were victorious by 14 to 0.

RUNNING BILL.

Durham, N. C., Dec. 3.—Carolina will be intent on stopping "Smiling Bill" Murray, the greatest half back Duke has produced in modern football, when the two teams meet Saturday. Bill has run 174 times this year and carried the ball for a total yardage of 982, an average of over 5 yards per trip.

Carideo, Back Field Genius, Destined for Coaching Post



FRANK CARIDEO, directing genius of the Notre Dame Varsity Team, noted for his clever conduct of the team and his punting ability, who is rated among the best quarter backs in football history.

Notre Dame's Brainy Quarter Is Ranked Among Best.

By GEORGE DALEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Frank Carideo, of Notre Dame, is the general choice of all critics as the best quarterback of a football season running out its course with only a few of the many teams still in action.

His all-around value as a triple threat in running, passing and punting combined with his sound tactics, quick grasp of situations and mental poise has been generally recognized as was the case a year ago. He will play his last game as an undergraduate against southern California on Saturday. His college gridiron will be over in four days but not in all probability his football career.

Carideo is likely to join the army of Notre Dame men in the coaching field who are carrying out the teachings and system of Knute Rockne. It is possible that Rockne will hold him as one of his assistants. On the other hand, the temptation of a fat salary may lead him into the professional ranks. It is safe to say that football will not lose one of its brightest stars.

Takes Place With Best Of All Time.

Walter Eckersal, of Chicago, whose death a year ago robbed the game of one of its best officials, Charley Daly, of Harvard and West Point, and Tad Jones, of Yale, earned lasting fame as quarter backs. Their names are among the first to come to mind among many other fine field generals when leaders in the sport are under discussion. On his record of two years in which he has directed Notre Dame through eighteen games without a single defeat, Carideo takes his place with the best of all time. In my opinion he is outstanding in the modern game.

The late Percy D. Haughton, one of the master coaches of the game, set so much store on brains and directing genius that he kept his quarter back out of the running offense and even defensive play as much as possible to save him from the bumps which might hamper his thinking. He was willing to sacrifice other assets for a quarterback to have a quick thinker and capable tactician.

Has the Brains That Haughton Demanded.

"Carideo has the football brains that Haughton demanded, perfect control of his nerves under high pressure, rare judgment and quick responses. He also is a good ball carrier, although he does comparatively little in the running attack, an accurate passer, a dependable receiver of punts, a fine blocker and one of the headiest punters of recent years.

Next to his generalship the punting he does has been an outstanding asset to the Notre Dame team unbeaten over two full seasons. He can place the ball to what is called the "coffin corners" with uncanny accuracy and the value of this is beyond price in preventing an elusive safety man running it back and in putting an opposing team in the position of being forced to punt from behind its own goal line with the danger of having the ball blocked.

Not Long Punter, But Accurate.

Carideo is not the longest punter of the present season. Much has been heard of the booming punts of Sam Cooper, of St. John's; Walter Masters, of Penn; Wesley Fesler, one of the ranking ends of the country; Stanley Bodman, the Illinois tackle who kicks them a mile; Stud Stennert, of St. Mary's, who showed against Fordham that he could average close to 50 yards even with a wet ball, and several others can get more distance, but Carideo can average around 40 yards and is a second Kipke in placing it where he wants it, as Army players for two years will testify. He is human and one of his punts was blocked last Saturday which opened the door to Army's touchdown, but he has had few blocked in the run of his playing days.

Among the leading quarter backs who have been fighting for the honors of this season against Carideo are Albie Booth, of Yale; Barry Wood, of Harvard; Bob Dodd, of Tennessee; Harry Newman, of Michigan, hailed as a second Benny Friedman; Lee Hanley, of Northwestern; Phil O'Connell, of Holy Cross; Cy Leland, of Texas Christian, and Irving Mohler, of Southern California, to mention only a few of the candidates advanced by their boosters.

Booth Rated Second To Carideo.

Of these, Booth, in my opinion, comes closest to Frank Carideo in all-around value and inspirational force. He is too light for effective blocking and interference, at which the Notre Dame star excels, and lacks the latter's accuracy in punting, but he passes almost as well and is a shiftier and more elusive runner—a marvel when he can get loose in the open. He punts well, too, from close to the line, but, as said before, he is behind Carideo in placing the ball.

SAKS VS. PRINTERS.

Saks Clothiers and the Union Printers, crack basket ball teams, will meet tonight in Eastern High School Gym at 7 o'clock. It is the Printers' initial start of the season, while the Clothiers have been successful in their two starts.

652 ENTRIES IN DOG SHOW

41 Breeds in Record List; Show Starts Tomorrow.

SIX hundred and fifty-two dogs, embracing 41 distinct breeds, will be on view Friday morning at the opening of the All-Breed Show which will run through Saturday night at the Auditorium under the auspices of the National Capital Kennel Club.

Featuring several breeds of dogs rarely, if ever, seen in Washington, the local show's entry list has been exceeded but once in the East in the last two years and then by the famous Westminister Show in New York.

Another Show in Spring Is Planned.

Joseph O'Hare, president of the National Capital Kennel Club, stated last night that the entries had surpassed the club's fondest hopes and that, in view of the destined success of the venture, plans are already going ahead for another meet to be held next spring during cherry blossom time.

Among the unique dogs entered are four Eskimo Huskies, six Doberman Pinschers, one Schipperkes (a rare Belgian Boat Dog), one Dalmatian, three Boxers, two Bedlington Terriers and two Japanese Spaniels.

In point of numbers, the ever popular Boston Terriers lead the field, showing 92 of this variety vying for the title of Best Boston. Close on their heels come 62 of the ancient and respected breed known as bulldogs.

Finkel's Mary Ann Draws Local Interest.

Local interest centers around Finkel's Mary Ann in the Boston Terrier division. Owned by Joseph O'Hare, the 2-year-old thoroughbred has been successful in eight shows this year and needs but scant recognition in the local show to gain her the coveted 16 points, which go to make up dog champions.

SPORTING DOGS—Pointers, 19; setters (English), 24; setters (Gordon), 4; setters (Irish), 16; Spaniels (Cocker), 37; Spaniels (English Springers), 21.

SPORTING DOGS (HOUNDS)—Beagles, 12; greyhounds, 3; whippets, 23; wolfhounds (Irish), 6; wolfhounds (Russian), 9.

WORKING DOGS—Collies, 23; Eskimos, 4; German shepherd dogs, 34; great danes, 12; pinschers (Doberman), 6; samoyedes, 15; Shetland sheep dogs, 5.

His run of 3,000 is a mark that any two-armed billiardist would be proud of.

BLOT was allowed to rate to the final quarter mile, where he closed with a rush on the outside to win going away by a neck. CELTIC PRINCE followed early pace closely, raced THEO ROCHESTER into defeat and held on gamely. RAIN OR SHINE, on the outside to the stretch, took to the inside and tired. THEO ROCHESTER had speed for five furlongs, then quit badly. GUIDE RIGHT was well up for a while.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Harahan Purse is the Jefferson Park headliner today, a 6-furlong dash. ELIZABETH BOLLA a much-improved filly, only has to repeat her last race of a few days ago to win this. OUTPOST may be the contender. He ran on New York tracks this fall. At Belmont Park he was beaten only by a head, Sepoy winning, and Naylor and others finished behind him. The Caskey horses are generally in good shape. HOT TIME should hold SNOOZE and WAR INSTIGATOR safe for the show money. The track is fast and the weather clear.

graduated from the maiden class at Aqueduct last spring for W. R. Coe in a field of about twenty, and was the favorite in this large field, appears the class in the first race today for juveniles. She is a bay filly by Sweep On, and she beat the Break, Francock, Brandon Dare and others regarded as promising juveniles. GALLOPETTE did not run to best form the other day, but should be the contender, although KENTUCKY BILL was made favorite and finished in front of her. KENTUCKY BILL is again in this race and should

FIRST RACE—SOAREE, which hold the others safe. NERVATOR probably will be well backed.

SECOND RACE—FAVORITE II appears much the best in the second race, which is notable for the absence of quality. He is a consistent plater, and should beat these most any distance. KING HALMA is rated next best. BIG SWEEP should be in the money and may be closer than third. EXTREME, if he were the horse of two years ago, would be 1 to 2 in this field, but he has been relegated to cheap claiming races, and is almost buried anyway in the eligible list.

THIRD RACE—There is a standout in the third race is GREENWALD, winner of most of his starts for M. Lowenstein. The race is for 2-year-olds. His last race was his worst, but he was at a very short price, and the track was heavy. The race is at six furlongs. CHARLIE, winner in his last race, should be closest to the pace on that effort. WEST VIRGINIA, which graduated from the maiden class this week, should hold the others safe. SUN PORTER has a chance.

FIFTH RACE—AVIATOR looks best in the fifth, at 4 mile and a furlong. SPANFLOW may be dangerous. He ran a good race or two in Maryland on the flat and previous to that ran in steeplechases. His best race at Bowie was third to Cane Heart. AVIATOR will be the favorite, and has a consistent record among this class of horses. SUN ROMAN should get the third money.

SIXTH RACE—ANGER is selected to win the sixth race for C. V. Whitney. This sportsman cut loose yesterday at this track with a double winnine, Blot and Skirl, and may repeat with ANGER, as these horses are fit and have the advantage of class over the run of the many horses in winter racing. GRIFF W, a consistent winner, should be the contender. BARDALID was backed in his last race and ran fourth. He should be closer in this event.

SEVENTH RACE—TORCHER is selected to win the seventh race at a mile and a sixteenth. His last race was good. He was fourth to The Ortleanian Tuesday and was the favorite in the large field. KEYDET should offer chief contention. His racing has been good this year in the East among his own class. SCHLAF WOHL was scratched the other day, and may be dangerous here. On some of his races he should be close to the leaders.

DUNDEE BOUT FEATURE AT FT. MYER

Baltimorean to Meet Grady in Opening Show Dec. 15.

VINCE DUNDEE, Baltimore's scrappy Italian middleweight, designated by the New Jersey State Athletic Commission as the logical contender for Mickey Walker's title, will feature the opening of the newly organized Fort Myer Boxing Club on December 15 at the riding hall at the fort.

Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn has secured the services of Joe Grady as a foe for Dundee. The 21-year-old battler from Scranton who was managed for two years by Jimmy DeForrest, veteran trainer, has been making a name for himself around the Scranton region. His two best performances are his draw with Pete Euske, who held Jackie Fields at bay on the Pacific Coast, and his defeat of Billy Franklin, New York National Guard champion.

While the card has not been completed it appears certain that Sailor McKenna, local battler developed at the Naval Air Station, will again be seen by local fight fans. His opposition will come from Buster Brown, Baltimore battler.

Maj. George Heads Boxing Club.

In a statement yesterday at the Army and Navy Club Maj. George summed up the character of the new organization in the following terms:

"The Fort Myer Boxing Club will be conducted within the law in every respect. Spectators at the exhibitions, which will be run twice a month, will be members of the club.

"The exhibitions will be run for the benefit of the men at the post and for Arlington County charities, not as well organized as in the District of Columbia.

MOHAWKS FIND NEW SPIRIT WITH COMING OF ABBEY

Sandlot Team Inspired by Collegian

Star's Love of Game Gives New Morale to Mohawks.

Ends Apaches' Monopoly of Spirit But Will Not Play.

WHAT follows is not an attempt to create a new edition of Frank Merriwell, the fair-haired boy who romped to thousands of imaginary touchdowns off the end of the well-worn pen of Burt L. Standish.

It is proof, however, that there is just a little more involved in big-time sandlot football as played hereabouts than the mere formality of dividing the gate receipts at the end of the season.

It had rained the night before and it was still raining. A crowd hardly large enough to pay the visiting team was huddled in the stands. Two teams of mud-spattered gridmen were struggling near the goal line. There was two minutes left to play. It was first down with the ball on the 5-yard line.

Two Players Watch Mates Try in Vain.

Two players stood in front of the bench wtaching the progress of their teammates. Three times the offensive club swung a back into the line and three times the goal defenders stopped him with no gain.

The tallest of the two players slapped the other on the back and said, "Let's put that ball over." And with that the pair splashed their way out to the ball. The touchdown was made on the first play. Just the thudding and swishing of his body hurling through a hole in the line opened by his smaller partner.

One would imagine that the result of the game hinged on that touchdown, made under such conditions that few in the stands could distinguish the scorer. The truth is that it only allowed the Mohawks to win by three touchdowns instead of two!

It was love of football and not mental pictures of dollar bills that carried Eddie Abbey, the former collegian, and Fee Colliere, the born sandlotter, into that contest, and it was football instinct that sent Abbey's body hurling over that goal line.

Apaches' Monopoly Of Spirit Ends.

And this true story is reflected in every Mohawk player. Time was, before the coming of Abbey to the Mohawks, the Apaches had a monopoly on all the team spirit displayed in the annual battles, another edition of which will be staged this Sunday at Griffith Stadium. This year the Apaches will have to do more than match the football ability of the Mohawks.

Unfortuntely, Abbey will not be able to play. An effort to pick up one more yard against the Irvington team two weeks ago resulted in a mass tackle and a broken leg. He will coach the team from the bench Sunday. His playing days are over.

And that little drama in the rain lays emphasis on the fact that Washington sandlots have lost in Abbey more than an ordinary player.

BUCKNELL MELTING POT.

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 3.—Many Pennsylvania high schools and academies contributed the material for the crack freshmen football team developed at Bucknell University this fall by Malcolm Musser. The 26 boys who are on the "first string" yearling squad come from 23 different training grounds.

NEAR GRID FINALS.

State College, Pa., Dec. 3.—While no games were played during the past week on account of the Thanksgiving recess, Penn State's intramural football league will enter the final flight this week. Twenty-six teams entered the league at the beginning of the season four weeks ago. Most of the games have been played at night under the varsity practice field floodlights.

MOHAWK COACH

EDDIE ABBEY,
Former Mount St. Mary's star, who will direct the play of the Mohawks against the Apaches from the bench Sunday, due to a leg injury.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

DISSATISFIED alumni have begun popping about unsuccessful, or allegedly unsuccessful, coaches, so we probably will see the roster of football mentors changedd in many places before the fall of 1931.

It looks as if Earle "Greasy" Neale will take the seat of Ira Rodgers at West Virginia University, in which case two old enemies will work together.

Of course, they're not enemies now; obviously they're good friends, which makes this story about Neale and H. A. Stansbury, W. Va. graduate manager of athletics, especially timely.

It is said that about 15 years ago both were connected with West Virginia Wesleyan, Stansbury threatened to quit his job as graduate manager of athletics if Neale did not quit as a member of the basket ball team.

Ordered Off Court By Referee.

During a game at Georgetown University, Neale's actions on the court were such that he was ordered off by the referee. His banishment so ired him that he turned bolshevistic during the intermission and his words incited his team mates. The immediate result was that the referee ordered so many of the Bobcats out of the game that they did not have sufficient numbers to continue playing.

When a Georgetown official began to pay the Bobcats' expense guarantee, Stansbury refused to accept on the grounds that his team had not lived up to its contract by failing to finish the game. Incensed at the turn of events, so the story goes, Stansbury, pointing at Neale, said: "Either that man gets out or I do."

Neale's Long Home Run At Hilltop Recalled.

The longest home run ever hit on the Hilltop diamond is credited to Johnny Murray, a Georgetown pitcher, in 1915. The ball struck the wall of the gymnasium beyond deepest center field on the fly.

Bergman Burns Wires For Boxing Schedule.

Dutch Bergman, Catholic University's hustling athletic director, is burning the wires in search of boxing opponents for the Cardinals. When Bergman assumed charge this fall he found that boxing had been stricken from the C. U. sports curriculum. He decided it should be restored. But when he commenced arranging a schedule he found that most of his prospective rivals already were dated up. He still hopes to give the Brookland school a representative schedule, consisting of four home matches and two in foreign rings.

Thus far he has secured Temple, a 1929 foe, and Massachusetts Tech, a newcomer, for home matches, with Bucknell, a former visitor, listed as a host. Eddie Lafond, director of intramural sports and former Cardinal football and boxing star, may be named as boxing coach if an outsider is not hired.

Mooney Punts 99 Yards Against Giants.

Jim Mooney is up to his old tricks—booting 'em sky high and out of the park. The former Georgetown football captain, standing on his goal line, punted the ball 99 yards for the Brooklyn Dodgers against the New York Giants last Sunday in a pro league game. The ball sailed 86 yards and bounded 13 more, going outside on the Giants' 1-yard line.

After that the Giants' safety man started running like mad to the rear whenever Mooney was ordered to punt. And the fans were yelling, "Get over the fence if you want to catch it." The Dodgers won, 7 to 6, Mooney's kicks proving decisive.

Lightweight Togs For Columbia Eleven

New York, Dec. 3.—Despite the bulky appearance of a football uniform, with its pads and heavy shoes, the well-dressed football player these days wears lighter clothes on the field than off it. For instance, the playing uniform of a Columbia University gridironer weighs 11½ pounds, while the average weight of a 6-footer's civilian outfit is about 15 or 16 pounds.

The aim of your modern football coach is not to increase the weight of his players, but to decrease it, paradoxical as that may sound. The coach, of course, likes big, sturdy men, but he insists that they be as lightly garbed as possible. To save a few pounds the college athletic authorities will spend several thousand dollars and consider the money well invested.

This is illustrated in the case of the Columbia squad. Each player has in his locker a light-weight, warm-weather uniform and a cold-weather uniform. The difference between the two is 4 pounds, and even the heavy, cold-weather outfit is 6 pounds or more lighter than the uniform that college elevens wore only a few years ago. The latter weighed from 17 pounds up, whereas the Columbia light-weight costume displaces only 11½ pounds.

WOODWORTH HAS LIGHT QUINTET

Little Business Five Is Built Around Speed of Capt. Lucas.

"IN THEIR CLASS" they show signs of being one of the best little outfits in Washington, easily the equal of last year's Business Team, which formed the nucleus of Pratt's Whirlwinds, winners of the 145-pound section of the District A. A. U. basket ball tourney last year, argues Coach Lyan Woodworth, mentor of Business High's basket ball team.

Whether they can hold their own with the bigger and presumably better teams from the other high schools is a matter to be cleared up a little later in the year.

Business, who lost four games in the high school series last year by the margin of three or fewer points, will have another light squad this year, and just as the Orange's football team was molded around the end-running proclivities of Billy Duryee, so will Coach Woolworth's current basket ball team circulate in satellite fashion around Capt. Bobby Lucas, Woodworth's crack forward.

Squad Reduced To 21 Players.

Woodworth has reduced his squad to 21 youths, not one of whom exceeds 140 pounds, and is concentrating on drilling them to flawless perfection in team play before sending them into their first battle December 12 against Emerson.

Among the football men who still remain on the squad after numerous cuts have been made are Levy, Kengla, Johnson, Jacobson, Duryee and Cavanaugh. Of these Duryee appears to have about the best chance of making Woodworth's team, showing good from at center and a reasonably good shooting eye. Johnson and Levy, a pair whose aggressiveness stood them out in the high school football series, find basket ball a different proposition and one demanding a certain degree of finesse, but will probably be used before the season is out.

Essenstadt May Pair With Lucas.

The improvement of "Sis" Essenstadt is marked and he is expected to team up with Lucas as the chief scoring threats of the Orange this year.

But on the whole, Lucas remains the hub of the Business Team and it is doubtful if Woodwort', or many other local coaches, ever fell heir to a faster and more imaginative basketer.

Among others who appear as likely to make Business Team are Odone, Pollinger, Chapman, Sherman, Nemerofski and Booth.

Penalty Rule Changed By Hockey Loop Body

Detroit, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The double major penalty for cutting an opponent with a stick was wiped from the books yesterday at the meeting of the governors of the National Hockey League here. The rule, which had been in force only since the opening of the 1930-31 season, was legislated out of existence effective with tomorrow's games.

In its place will be a rule distinguishing between intentional and unintentional slashes.

Sportsmen Approve Virginia Hunt Ban

Warrenton, Dec. 3.—Hunters and sportsmen here are unanimously in accord with the ruling of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries handed down Saturday by Maj. Willis Robertson, its chairman, closing the season on December 1. Fauquier hunters declare game, particularly quail, is very scarce. Sheriff Woolf stated to the commission that he had not fired at a bird this season, and he is regarded as one of the best shots in the county. Every effort will be made by land owners and by Albert Fletcher, supervisor, to take care of partridges throughout the winter. Twenty counties in northern Virginia are affected by the decision of the commission. Among the counties affected are Fairfax, Prince William, Loudoun, Fauquier, Arlington and Stafford.

ladies, of evident refinement but democratic, finding their way from one open room to another, constantly in search of somebody by the name of Joe, but not in such great haste to find him that they can not be induced to stop and accept the hospitality of those present.

Disorders of Past Now Rated As Custom.

Never since the last Democratic convention at Houston, when the Southern drys kept the ball boys running cracked ice and ginger ale around the clocks for a week, have I seen such hurried traffic in these little comforts as in the football seasons of the last two years and an accurate tally probably would show that the number of empty bottles, per capita, has reached several new highs since Houston, although this seemed hardly possible then.

A few seasons ago the management of a Los Angeles hotel expressed impatience with the adherents of a football team which had been victorious in a big game that day because these persons had dropped not only their empties out the high windows but some very substantial articles of furniture as well. At the time this implication of rude disorder on the part of a football attendance was regarded as something of a scandal, but I don't believe any hotel manager of any experience at all with football crowds would complain of similar routine pranks today.

The drinking customs of the football season are not local to any section of the country, but are national customs now, and while I would not undertake to say that the undergraduates take part in these festivities neither would I assert they don't. In fact, there is an odd, limp, obvious state of helplessness which seems to be the special style of the undergraduate when he has been squinting too earnestly at his liquor, and I feel almost sure that some of the Monday hangovers from the week-end football festivities are carried into the college classes.

Epidemic of Drunkard's Liver Feared by Pegler.

This is something that ought to be put a stop to, as the letters to the London Times so often say, lest the Nation one of these autumn days comes down with an epidemic of drunkard's liver, to say nothing of the expense of a million pints at an estimated average of $5 a pint.

4-State High School Court League Planned

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 3.—Official representatives of seven high schools from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia will meet Saturday at Handley High School here in an executive session for the purpose of completing basket ball arrangements for the 1931 season, compiling the schedule for the 1931 football season, and also naming a place and time for next year's track meet of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League.

The seven schools comprising the league are those of Cumberland and Hagerstown, Md.; Waynesboro, Pa.; Martinsburg, Berkeley Springs and Charles Town, W. Va., and Winchester, Va.

Recently Principal Hurley of Charles Town High School notified league officials that his school will not participate in the 1931 gridiron schedule, and as a result complete rearrangement of the card will be necessary in order to place the championship title competition between the other six schools. Charles Town withdrew early this season, after it was found that their players were lacking in experience.

The league basket ball schedule will get under way January 2, and it is necessary to make certain final arrangements pertaining to referees, which will be settled at the meeting here Saturday.

Glass High Gridmen To End Season Friday

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 3.—Robert Stump, roving center of the Glass High School football eleven, the man who doped the offensive of opposition teams during the season, is lost to the team for the final game Friday with Maury High at Norfolk. A bad knee, sustained in the High Point High School game last Saturday, has incapacitated Stump and it will be necessary to replace him with Dival Martin. Martin's experience has been small during the season, being sent in only late during several games.

The Glass squad, which has the State high school championship clinched for 1930, leaves here Thursday at noon by bus for the Norfolk game. A light workout will be held Thursday at Petersburg and the team will spend the night in that city, reaching Norfolk only in time for the game.

The record of Glass High for this year, which includes twelve victories with 395 points to 45 for the opposition is as follows:

Glass High, 60; Covington High, 0.
Glass High, 43; Lexington, 7.
Glass High, 60; Charlottesville, 0.
Glass High, 6; Salem High, 0.
Glass High, 13; Newport News, 6.
Glass High, 19; Hampden-Sydney Frosh, 0.
Glass High, 52; Danville High, 0.
Glass High, 19; Virginia Episcopal School, 13.

Sun Beau to Seek New Orleans Purses

Special to The Washington Post.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 3.—Victory for Sun Beau in the Southern Maryland Handicap when he captured a $34,000 purse for S. W. Kilmer, was particularly pleasing to Crescent City racing enthusiasts. The handsome son of Sun Briar is due here shortly to be trained for the $10,000 New Orleans Handicap, which will be decided on the afternoon of Saturday, January 31.

Sun Beau is regarded as the champion American racer at the present time. It is conceded by experts that he is the master of Gallant Fox under weight for age conditions over a distance. Owner Woodward was careful in picking the opposition to Gallant Fox and consistently refrained from a clash with Kilmer's wonderful cup horse.

It is quite possible that after he fills his engagements at the Fair Grounds that Sun Beau may be shipped to Agua Caliente to be a starter in the $100,000 race at the Mexican course. Sun Beau's winnings are now in excess of $246,000. He is surpassed in winnings by just three horses—Gallant Fox, Zev and Blue Larkspur—and his owner fancies he can forge to the top of the list if he wins the Agua Caliente Handicap.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 3.—Bill Hammond, hustling leader of the Pirate Athletic Club, has been named as manager of the Clovers basket-ball team for the coming season. Hammond will assume his new duties when the football campaign is ended.

Herbert Bryant, Alexandria athlete, has been awarded the varsity "V" at the University of Virginia for playing on this year's Cavaliers' football team. Bryant performed in the back field.

The Fredericksburg High School, championship football team of the Third District, will mix with the Clifton Forge High School eleven, winners of the Valley District for State honors in class "B" on Friday. This game will be played at Clifton Forge.

On Saturday night the Alpha Delta Omega Basket Ball Team will officially open its 1930 court season, mixing with the Central High School tossers on the Armory floor. The R. F. & P. All-Stars will play the preliminary game. The first game will begin at 7:15 o'clock.

Manager Charlie Corbett of the St. Mary's Celtics Football Team, is busy trying to arrange a grid contest for next Sunday with some fast team either in Baltimore or Richmond.

The Celtics' have three players on the injured list from the Mohawk struggle. Les McMenamin suffered a sprained ankle, Dick Allen hurt his shoulder, while Billy Padgett secured a broken rib.

An important basket-ball practice will be held by the Del Ray Athletic Club Thursday night in Armory Hall. Coach Heberlig requests all players to be present. The Redbirds hope to open their season within two weeks.

Harper Will Defend 3-Cushion Cue Title

Robert B. Harper, of Denver, will defend his national amateur three-cushion billard championship in the 150-point challenge match this week against Frank I. Fleming, of Champaign, Ill., at the Elks Club, in Champaign. Harper, a player of exceptional ability, has been made the favorite to retain the championship in the challenge match being held under the direction of the National Billiard Association of America.

Harper defeated Max Shimon, of Milwauke, in a 150-point match in Denver and won the crown for the first time. Harper finished third, trailing Shimon and Joseph Hall, of San rancisco, in the national championship tourney last March. Fleming, twice a holder of the national championship, was fourth in the national and thus qualified to meet Harper.

The Harper-Fleming match will be played in three blocks of 50 points each. The winner will be asked to defend the emblem within the next 60 days.

New York Displays Trophy for Lipton

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—The trophy which Sir Thomas Lipton, as "the world's best loser," will receive Thursday from the American people was displayed publicly for the first time yesterday.

It is an 18-karat gold cup, standing on a sterling silver base, the whole trophy 18 inches high. The gold is finished in a dull burnished color and the silver, sent from Utah, is darkly oxidized.

The cup is of simple lines, with two handles and a cover. On its front, beneath a rope border, is an escutcheon in bold relief, bearing in delicate detail a model of the America's Cup, which he tried for 30 years to take back to the British Isles. The model is superimposed upon the enameled shield of the United States, and at the left and right are shields bearing the devices of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club and the private insignia of Sir Thomas.

Around the edge of the cover, which is decorated with Shamrock leaves, is the inscription: "This symbol of a voluntary outpouring of love, admiration and esteem is presented to the gamest loser in the world of sports."

14 Warrenton Girls Seeking Team Berths

Warrenton, Va., December 3.—A squad of fourteen responded for the first practice held last night in the high school auditorium, for the Warrenton girl's basket ball team. With the exception of two, all of last year's regulars and reserves are ready for the winter sport. Kathleen Thoma, for years a star on the Warrenton five, will manage the team. A captain will be selected later.

John Benner, formerly of V. P. I. and coach of the Warrenton Athletic Club, will also coach the girl's quint. The first game will be played on the local floor on December 10 as a preliminary to the Warrenton five's first game.

Among those who responded to the first practice call were Kathleen Thoma, Catherine Pearson, Alma Pearson, "Bee" Tyler, Eleanor Thompson, Evelyn Moffett, Alice Johnson, Katherine Omohundro, Reba Kirson, Mary Fisher, Caroline Kirby, Mae Ferneyhough, Ethel Holmes and Virginia Eastham. All of the squad have had previous basket ball experience and a number of them were former high school stars. They have an attractive schedule in the making.

DUKE DRILLS NEW PLAYS FOR N. C.

Dixie's Big Five Title at Stake in Tarheel Game.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 3.—The new plays and formations which have been outlined to the Blue Devils of Duke since they met Kentucky here November 8 are receiving much attention this week in preparation for the game with North Carolina Saturday, at Chapel Hill, for the Big Five bunting.

The Devils have pointed for three games this year—Navy, Kentucky and North Carolina. They won the first two and are now in the midst of a work campaign which they hope will carry them to a victory over the third.

The Blue Devils are in top fighting form, with none on the injured list. In their own vernacular, they plan to "shoot the works" against the Tarheels. In the first place, because they have not lost a game since September; in the second place, because they want to whip Carolina for the first time in many years of football.

Finally, the Devils are out for a victory because Coach Jimmy de Hart will be watching a Duke team in action for his final time as head mentor. The "little man" wants a victory, and the Blue Devils want to present him with one.

Fans state that the Tarheels discovered themselves in the Virginia game and that Duke will not be in a slump when they play Saturday. With both teams slated to be in top season form, sports writers are naming the contest a "natural."

The senior classes of the two institutions have donated a set of miniature goal posts to be given to the winning captain by the losing leader. The ceremony will take place immediately after the final whistle, with the referee coming to the side lines for the award and handing it to the loser, who will then give it to the winner. It is a friendship award.

Navy Must Build New Court Machine

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 3.—Having lost the complete first team of last season, the quint which will represent the Naval Academy on the court in the initial game on December 10 with William and Mary will be almost entirely comprised of green players from the 1929 plebe team.

Head Coach John N. Wilson, who is Navy's chief grid scout and plebe coach of football, joined his charges today and settled them down to drill in preparation for the tussle with the Indians. However, the green squad has been working out for some time under Assistant Coach Dennett, a recent star, and a tentative team has been formed. Capt. Freshour, one of the outstanding men of last year's shock troops, will have either Rogers, a minor light of the squad, or Loughlin, brilliant forward of last year's plebe team, as his running mate in the inaugural.

Kastein, sub plebe center, is the only tall player on the squad. Hagenmeister and Bedell, plebe guards of last season, seem sure of varsity berths in the initial game. Both are promising though inexperienced players. Blimp Bowstrom, captain of the football team, is a regular guard, and Oscar Hageberg is not far behind. They will not be available until early in January, however, nor will Dale Bauer and Weston Byng, of the varsity grid squad, two of last year's substitute cagers.

'BAMA FINDS A USE FOR FLAT FEET

Flat-Footed Backs Trample Down Grid Foes.

Special to The Washington Post.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Dec. 3.—Flat-footed men are rejected from the Army, but, luckily, Coach Wallace Wade places no such restrictions on his football players. If he did, his four varsity back field men, two of whom have been named on various all-Southern and all-American elevens, would be barred from the field. With feet as flat as a stock broker, Alabama's regular back field has trampled roughshod over the outstanding teams in the South this season.

Johnny Cain, Monk Campbell, John Henry Suther and Ralph McWright all run on their heels. But every one of them is a speedster and has demonstrated his ball-carrying ability to the rueful satisfaction of Vanderbilt, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee and other Southern opponents.

John Henry Suther, the Flying Dutchman, is one of the outstanding half backs of the year. He has flashed in every game this season and has shown his heels to such fleet backs as Shipwreck Kelly, Red Bethea and Austin Downs, all of whom are renowned for their speed afoot.

Johnny Cain, the sophomore sensation, pounds through the line or around the flanks with equal ease. Cain is not so elusive as Suther, but he runs with more power. When tackled he digs in and drives for some kind of gain. Only once this year has he been thrown for a loss, by Georgia.

The gait of Monk Campbell can best be likened to that of a dray horse, but conference football players will vouch for his speed and deceptiveness. Ralph McWright, the fourth member of this archiesa quartet, is the blocking back, but he has showed his fleetness on several occasions in intercepting passes or leading interference.

Alabama's back field may be flat-footed, but a Southern Conference title is evidence that, like the old gray mare, "They get there just the same."

much improvement in recent performances, and who will undoubtedly see much service against the Red and Blue as well as the Grayleys.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Old and new injuries, the latter received in practice, cut down the number of Pennsylvania football players today as the squad worked out for the Navy game Saturday. Capt. Gentle's condition is a bit too "fine" and, in addition, he has a twisted knee. He was granted a layoff today and tomorrow. Others who are not expected to get into the Navy game are Raffel, Newcomb, Gette and Graupner.

Utz, last year's captain, donned a uniform and assumed the role of Bowstrom, star Navy tackle, in the scrub line. The scrubs played a high-standing, arm-swinging practice game to accustom the varsity to the Navy's style.

MILD DEPRESSION HITS STOCK SALES

1,217,460 SHARES SOLD

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Lacking leadership on either side, the stock market stumbled through an irregular session ending in a mild slump today.

Closing prices were a point or two lower, and trading became more energetic during the late reaction, which started about the time President Hoover's budget message appeared, but the day's volume of only 1,217,460 shares reflected the apathy in speculative circles.

If professional traders were downcast by the President's stand against retention of the present 1 per cent income-tax cut, they had compensating news in the announcements of higher steel prices. As it happened, however, the market had discounted that long-expected step by steel producers and publication of the new schedules failed to cause a flurry.

Even with the increases of $1 a ton next quarter, steel will be selling about $5 under last January's levels. Considerable importance is placed on the upward revision, nevertheless, for Wall street believes that such prominent interests and U. S. Steel and Bethlehem would not take such action unless they felt it would succeed. Uncertainty over prices has kept the industry unsettled for months, and it has been held that relief from such a condition would be found in restoring confidence.

Freight Car Loadings Drop.

Current steel operations are down to 39 per cent of rated capacity, according to Iron Age, while pig iron output in November was off 11 per cent from October, indications that seasonal declines have not been checked. The drop of 17.6 per cent in freight car loadings for the week ended November 22 was, with one exception, the largest in comparison with 1929, on the percentage basis, of the year. Loadings fell about 21 per cent from last year in the mid-October week.

The reduction in the Phelps Dodge dividend from a $3 to a $2 annual basis leaves only one important copper producer—Howe Sound—whose disbursements have not been affected by the depression. This was the first cut by Phelps Dodge; the stock was steady. United Carbon broke about 3 points when its quarterly dividend was cut to 25 cents from 50 cents. On the other hand, the Auburn auto board voted the regular payments in cash and stock and the shares were strong, closing 3 points higher.

The market opened on a slow decline, which extended throughout the first hour. On an equally slow rally the losses were recovered, but there was no vitality behind the improvement, and by early afternoon prices had begun the decline that carried to the close. The final dealings saw minor advances from the day's lows. Steel and metal shares were heavy, with losses of 1 to 2 points net in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Vanadium, Kennecott, Anaconda and International Nickel.

General Electric Off 2.

General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse and Allied Chemical also lost 2. Radio, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, United Corporation, North American, Electric Power & Light, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and National Biscuit averaged more than a point lower. Rails yielded ground in the last hour and there were new 1930 lows in Pere Marquette, off 6, and St. Louis, San Francisco.

The Senate's decision to investigate recent declines in cotton found that staple heavy and the active months finished with losses of 90 cents to $1.05 a bale.

Wheat was steady, making nominal declines on favorable reports of Kansas weather and a slack export demand. Corn lost about a cent a bushel, with final quotations the day's lowest. Selling in Chicago was in sympathy with larger contract deliveries and a lower Kansas City market.

Sterling Exchange was firm in common with most of the leading European rates, although the French franc reacted.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Sliding down nearly 2c a bushel, corn today suddenly reversed its higher trend and pulled other grain values lower. Heavy profit-taking in corn found demand inadequate and pit observers said the market had been overbought. There were also reports of enlarged rural offerings of corn here.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous, ⅞@1⅛c lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unchanged to ½ off, oats ⅝@⅞c down and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

Corn trade started with a rush of buying, but fresh price bulges met with realizing sales. Speculative selling was in evidence on the ground that upturns in corn values would lead to increased feeding of wheat to live stock and tend to restrict farm use of corn. Arrivals of corn were 1,201 cars, against 99 last week. Corn primary receipts totaled 765,000 bushels, compared with 739,000 a week ago.

Some deliveries of corn on December contracts were an additional curb on prices. Weather conditions were favorable to increased movement of corn to distributing centers. Oats also suffered from enlarge future selling, although heavy shipments from here were expected soon. Rye was relatively firm, deliveries being smaller than expected.

Wheat turned weak at the close in sympathy with corn. Earlier wheat temporarily tended upward on word that Russia had ceased offering shipments and confirmation of frost damage in southern Argentina. The estimated amount of North American wheat exported was only 300,000 bushels.

Provisions were higher, responsive to upturns in hog values.

Closing indications—Wheat: December, 75¾, 76⅛; March, 77¾, 78½; May, 79¼@79⅝. 80½; July, 73⅞, 75¾. Corn: December, 75⅝, 78; March, 78⅝, 80½; May, 80¼@80⅝, 81⅞@82; July, 81¼, 83.

BANK HAS ANNIVERSARY

By THOMAS M CAHILL.

At a special meeting of the stockholders of Woodward & Lothrop yesterday, it was voted to change the common stock from the present issue of 25,000 shares of the par value of $100 each to 250,000 shares of the par value of $10 each. No change was made in the present structure of the preferred stock or in the capitalization of the corporation The capitalization is for $4,500 000 and represents 20,000 shares of preferred at $100 each and 25,000 shares of common at $100 each.

Chevy Chase Savings Bank is celebrating its ninth anniversary of its successful existence this week. The bank opened for business December 1, 1921, with deposits of approximately $25,000 and now has deposits totaling $1,147,385.09

Gas Service Sales Gain.

Sale of modern gas appliances in Washington for the month of November showed an increase of more than 400 per cent, over sales of the corresponding month of last year. George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., announced yesterday. Notwithstanding this record, another record was broken in the sale of more than 1,000 gas ranges—almost half as many as were sold in all last year. In figures of dollars, sales amounted to $150,000 an actual increase of $103,000 over November, 1929.

With $7,000 worth of appliances ready to be installed November 1, in addition to the work caused by the record number of sales, 30 new men who were taken on temporarily in the fitting department have been constantly busy. These men are to be retained on the company's pay roll as long as business can be stimulated sufficiently to keep them in work.

So far this year sales have exceeded, by 80 per cent, sales of the same period of 1929. Most of this phenomenal amount of business has been created in the past four months. During that time, as compared to the same months of last year, an increase of approximately 400 per cent has been realized. Customers of the company already have saved approximately $20,000 through price reductions on all appliances, it has been estimated.

Dr. Anderson's Speech.

The year 1930 has not been as bad as the year 1921 by a great deal, was the statement made last night in an address by B. M. Anderson, jr., economist of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York. Dr. Anderson cited in illustration of this point the fact that the slump in the value product of American industry during the past year had not been nearly as severe as that of 1921, as measured by physical volume of production of goods multiplied by the prices at which these goods have ben sold.

Physical volume of production, according to Dr. Anderson, appeared in November, 1930, to have reached as low a level as the bottom reached in 1921, but for the year 1930 as a whole the decline has been much more moderate.

First reports on memberships in local 1931 Christmas Savings Clubs indicate that this year's record will be surpassed.

Edward J. McQuade, vice president, Liberty National Bank, and Eliot H. Thomson, Washington Loan & Trust Co., are prominent contributors to this month's issue of The Bulletin, magazine of the District of Columbia Bankers Association.

(a) Ex dividend.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

American Safety Razor.

G. K. T.—I have been advised to buy American Safety Razor. Please give me the latest information and an opinion of the stock.

Answer—Earnings for the first nine months established a new high record, equaling $5.48 a share, which compares with the preceding nine months' high record of $4.77 a share. For the September quarter profits were equivalent to $1.96 a share on the 200,000 shares outstanding, as compared with $1.74 for the same 1929 period.

Dividends are at the annual rate of $5 a share, so that the dividend requirements for the year were covered in the first nine months. It is conservatively estimated that profits for the year will approximate $8 a share, as the fourth quarter is always the best because of the holiday season. American Safety Razor is considered a depression-proof stock.

United Corporation.

N. L. K.—Kindly give me a list of the holdings of the United Corporation and your opinion of the stock.

Answer—Holdings of the United Corporation as of June 14, last include 1,673,250 shares of Niagara-Hudson Power; 959,921 shares of Public Service Corporation; 6,081,846 shares of United Gas Improvement; 2,345,263 shares of Columbia Gas & Electric; 1,798,270 shares of Consolidated Gas of New York and 33,105 shares of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co.

Common shareholders of record August 25 will receive on October 1, an initial dividend of 50 cents a share for the year 1930. Dividends ar expected to be small for some time because income from the company's investments does not amount to a great deal as applied to the common stock. Control of the company is understood to be with the Morgan-Drexel-Bonbright interests. Indicated book value of the stock, as of June 14 last, was $33.63 a share after allowing for the preferred stock at $50 a share. United Corporation stock may be classed as a speculative investment.

Bonds Versus Stocks.

W. G. O.—Is a bond a safer investment than a preferred or common stock? I am writing for your opinion, as I am a large stockholder, while a good friend of mine has all his money invested in bonds. Your reply to this question will be awaited with interest.

Answer—A bond, in many cases, is not necessarily a better investment than a good preferred or common stock, and in several cases it has not even proved to be an investment. A total of 748 major bond issues, for instance, involving in excess of $1,500,000,000, have been defaulted, either as to principal or interest, in the last seven years. Of the leading classifications, industrial bonds lead in the defaults with a total of 279 issues, involving $583,500,000.

The first ten months this year was almost the worst period for any of the past seven years for industrial bonds, with 53 issues, involving $120,884,900, defaulted. It can be seen, therefore, that bonds in many instances are not as safe as sound stocks.

Cudahy Packing.

H. B. S.—I will appreciate any information and an opinion on Cudahy Packing.

Answer—A dull market prevails for Cudahy Packing common stock. The stock is quoted around 42 and the yield from the $4 dividend is about 9½ per cent. It is generally believed that the company will earn its $4 dividend in the fiscal year which is nearing a close. Earnings thus far have been somewhat in excess of those of last year, and the dividend on the common stock is believed to be more safe than the current high yield might suggest. The stock may be classed as a speculative-investment with fair prospects and an attractive yield.

Seaboard Air Line.

W. S. F.—Please give me some facts and an opinion of Seaboard Air Line.

Answer—The three-year notes, due next year, may have to be extended. Traffic offered the Seaboard Air Line is small, which accounts for the unfavorable earnings, and there are no prospects of any immediate improvement. It is estimated that 1930 gross income will be less than three-quarters of fixed charges. Gross for the first seven months dropped 15 per cent and net operating income, after rentals, was down 44 per cent. While costs have been reduced with the cut in gross, these charges are taking up a larger proportion of gross than last year. The stock is highly speculative.

Polymet Manufacturing Corp.

C. S.—Would appreciate your information about Polymet Manufacturing Corp., Stock on Curb, what they manufacture, and their financial standing.

Answer—Company is a manufacturer of parts for radio units. It reported for year ended July 31, 1930, net income of $161,280, equal to 78 cents a share, compared with $486,707, or $2.98 a share in 1929. On new stock (after 3-for-1 split) quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share were paid beginning with October 1, 1929, besides 1 per cent in common stock on common. On September 10, however, directors failed to take action on quarterly cash dividend due at this time, only declaring the 1 per cent stock dividend. Balance sheet dated December 31, 1929, showed total current assets $1,338,587, total current liabilities $163,717 and net working capital $1,174,870. Stock is purely speculative.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today, with prices losing all of yesterday's gains under a renewal of liquidation or reselling by Tuesday's buyers, who appeared to be influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of an indifferent trade demand. March contracts sold off to 10.65, or 21 points net lower and within 3 points of the low level touched yesterday morning and closed at 10.66, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 18 to 21 points.

The opening was steady at declines of 4 to 9 points in response to the failure of Liverpool to meet yesterday's local advance. The initial offerings were fairly well absorbed by trade buying and covering, but the demand was supplied on very light rallies, and the market soon eased again under Southern, local and foreign selling.

Offerings were promoted by the continued weakness of the Liverpool market, while houses with Liverpool connections appeared to be selling here on the differences. Some trade buying was reported, but it seemed to be limited to scale-down orders, and the action of the market brought out liquidation or reselling by some of yesterday's buyers. New December contracts eased off to 10.30 and May to 10.89, or within 3 or 4 points of the lowest levels reached on the decline of yesterday morning and some 20 to 22 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

There was a little more trade buying at these figures and a spurt of covering which caused rallies of 5 or 6 points from the lowest, but the market weakened again during the last half hour under renewed liquidation and Southern selling. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest.

Another private crop report was published estimating the ginnings prior to December 1 at 12,757,739 bales and the crop at 13,665,000 running bales, or 13,853,000 equivalent 500-pound bales. These figures were below the average recent private reports, but were not generally mentioned in connection with the immediate fluctuations.

The weakness of Liverpool, which cable advices attributed to hedging combined with local and continental liquidation and a poor offtake, appeared to be the chief news factor on the decline. Exports today 73,000, making 3,328,421 so far this season. Port receipts, 44,167. United States port stocks, 4,114,794.

TOBACCONIST SAYS PITTS PAID $2,770 FOR CIGAR SUPPLY

DEFENSE IN CONSTANT OBJECTION DURING DAY

Raichle Charges Prosecution Attempts Prejudice by "Theatricals."

The case of the Government against G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former officers of the F. H. Smith Co., on an indictment charging conspiracy to embezzle funds of the company and to conceal records, began to shape itself yesterday in District Supreme Court. One witness introduced by the Government testified that Mr. Pitts, in January, 1929, had purchased from him a number of cigars totaling $2,770 in price.

The witness, Carl Wertheim, is a tobacco dealer in New York. He said on the stand that Mr. Pitts had sent him the check in payment of a bill covering 4,000 cigars at 41½ cents each and 2,000 cigars at 55 cents each. During Mr. Wertheim's testimony, Frank G. Raichle, a defense attorney, was almost constantly on his feet objecting to details of the witness recitation. Mr. Raichle conceded immediately that his client, the former chairman of the board of the Smith firm, had purchased cigars, and alluded to testimony produced Tuesday to the effect that Mr. Pitts had purchased clothing from A. Sulka, of New York, placing both purchases in the same category.

Objects to "Theatricals."

"The trend of the times is to encourage purchases," said Mr. Raichle in offering his concession of the evidence. "Everyone is being encouraged to buy, and there is no reason why Mr. Pitts should not have bought personal supplies as he needed them. I object to what seem to me to be theatricals on the part of the prosecution for the purpose of prejudicing the jury by making it appear that Mr. Pitts indulged in luxuries and extravagances."

Mr. Raichle, during cross-examination of the same witness, made this statement:

"If a conspiracy existed," he said, "it is proved if it is shown that money went to the defendants' accounts in their banks. What happened to it after that is irrelevant and incompetent to this trial."

Throughout the day, defense counsel kept firmly to their stand, previously made, that testimony relating to the acts of one defendant should not be accepted as relating to all three. In many instances their objections were ruled out by Justice William Hitz, presiding, and exceptions noted.

Testimony Gains Significance.

The testimony of Mr. Wertheim yesterday and that of the Sulka representative Tuesday gained additional significance upon the publication of the official record of the court yesterday. During a conference in court Tuesday between opposing counsel before Justice Hitz, Mr. Burkinshaw said, according to the record:

"We will show in the course of our case that upon about August 9, 1928, a check for $12,500 drawn on the deposit of the Smith company in the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., was deposited to the special account of Elbert Anadale, and that thereafter, on August 22, 1928, that amount was checked out by Anadale and applied as a payment on a $20,000 Rolls-Royce automobile bought by G. Bryan Pitts.

To Bring Auto Salesman.

"I will tell you what we are going to prove. We are going to bring this Rolls-Royce man down here to testify to the receipt of this amount; that it was $12,500 and that it was applied to a Rolls-Royce automobile to be turned over to G. Bryan Pitts. We will show, furthermore, that $12,500 came from the deposits of the F. H. Smith Co., in this city, and then it was deposited to the special account of C. Elbert Anadale, who paid for the Rolls-Royce."

It was further brought out during examination of a witness by Mr. Burkinshaw yesterday that the Government will base its case largely upon the alleged use of Smith company funds by the defendants for purchases of a personal nature.

During a lawyer's battle, while Mr. Burkinshaw had Mr. Wertheim under direct examination, the prosecution attorney stated that the Government will attempt to prove that Mr. Pitts used Smith company funds deposited to his personal account in the Southern Maryland Trust Co., for the purchase of private items.

Asks One Question.

At the conclusion of direct examination of Mr. Wertheim, the witness was turned over to the defense for cross-examination. Mr. Raichle asked him only one question:

"A lot of people buy cigars from you, don't they, Mr. Wertheim?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"That's all," Mr. Raichle said, releasing him from the stand.

Two witnesses placed on the stand by the Government declared that, as employes of the Smith Company, they were officers of so many corporations they couldn't remember all of them. One of these was J. Maynard Magruder, former manager of the Martinique Hotel. Under direct examination he declared that there was no instance in which he was instructed by officers or employes of the Smith company to decline to cash the firm's checks. He did say, however, that at one time he indorsed a check for $5,000 made payable to himself and which did not represent a payment on his salary.

Delivered Ledger Sheets.

The other witness was Herbert Plaster, who said he was vice president of the Southern Maryland Trust Co. until December, 1929. He testified that he at one time delivered ledger sheets bearing the accounts of Mr. Pitts, the Smith company, and Samuel J. Henry, former president of the company, to Joseph Howard, colored Smith company janitor, at the request of Mr. Henry. This delivery, he said, was asked for purposes of making out income tax reports. He added that the records were not irreplaceable, because duplicates could be readily made from deposit slips and other documents in the possession of the bank.

More than two hours in the morning were taken up in examination of Lewis E. Thomas, former Smith company treasurer, who proved to be a slow responsive witness. As Mr. Thomas pondered at length over the answer to every question of counsel, the jury squirmed and fidgeted in the box.

His testimony included statements that he had seen, at an unnamed time, several persons working in the security vault of the Smith company building, with a number of new trunks in evidence. On a later day, he said, trunks were again in the vault, this time "muddy and dirty."

Telegraphed $26,000 to Florida.

Mr. Thomas, shown a check for $3,179.19, signed by him and made payable to El Lado del Mar, Mr. Pitts' Florida estate, said that he could not remember for what purpose the check was drawn. He further testified that at one time he had telegraphed $26,000 to a Florida attorney, but could not say for what reason he had done so.

Yesterday was featured by sharp battles between attorneys. The defense, apparently, used every opportunity to place an exception in the record. In cross-examination of John S. Farquhar, former secretary of the Smith company, Mr. Raichle and the witness became frequently involved in verbal tilts.

At one time Mr. Raichle asked the witness, "Are you provoked at me?"

"No," said Mr. Farquhar, laughing.

Says He Burned Records.

The former Smith company secretary testified that he had burned records of the company and that later, under fear of losing his job, he had signed a false statement denying that he had burned them.

He testified further that, acting under instructions from Mr. Anadale, he had cashed "at least 30 checks" made out to "cash," had turned the money over to Mr. Anadale, and had later taken it back again and deposited it in the Southern Maryland Trust Co. to the account of Mr. Pitts.

Early in 1928, he declared, he was told by Mr. Anadale to take several boxes of papers from the Smith company offices and burn them in the basement. In this task, he said, he was assisted by Howard.

The defense adduced testimony showing that burning of old and useless records was a common occurrence in the office.

CONFIDENCE GAME IS EASY IN BRITAIN

High Pressure Salesmen Sell $5,000,000 Spurious in Short Time.

COME FROM AMERICA

London, Dec. 2 (A.P.). — Driven from American cities by prosecution and lapse of interest in the stock market, a clique of high-pressure stock salesmen has descended upon England and taken, authorities say, upward of $5,000,000 from British investors within six months.

The invaders used the same systems as the "binder Benny" boys of the Florida boom times and the telephone salesmen of the Coolidge bull market era, retaining even the tip sheets, or privately printed "financial newspapers."

From disgruntled employes of reputable financial houses the sharpers obtained lists of people who had invested in substantial securities. By trading spurious paper for the legitimate the tipsters defrauded their victims, just as they went after Liberty bondholders in America.

Another business arrangement, reminiscent of the "reorganization" practices in the heyday of Texas oil booms, was used to inveigle persons who had already been bilked, to put up money in a second spurious enterprise. The tipsters represented themselves as reorganizing the companies which had collapsed, taking the old stock and cash for stock in a new company generally just as spurious.

As fast as evidence is secured against the sharpers the home office revokes their permits and deports them.

20 Women Decline To Serve on Jury

Almost Half Who Appear Declare That They Will Never Take Oath.

Forty-one women appeared for jury service in District Supreme Court yesterday and 20 of them declared they did not care to serve.

Justice Peyton Gordon examined all the women who declined to serve, seeking to discover whether they were influenced by the fact that the Christmas shopping season is at hand. All denied this was the case and asserted their intentions of never serving on a jury.

The women jurors also denied that they had determined they would not serve because of the fact that jurors are locked up for indefinite periods as in the case involving the trial of three former officials of the F. H. Smith company.

LEGION MUSICIANS AWAIT PARIS TRIP

VISIT YEAR IN FUTURE

Sidi - Bel - Abbes, Algeria, Dec. 2.—(A.P.).—Music to be played in Paris in 1931 has already soothed the spirit and chastened the mood of a hundred hard-boiled legionaries.

The promise that the famous Foreign Legion Band would be a fixture at the International Colonial Exposition to be held in Paris next spring and summer, has made exemplary soldiers of the musicians.

Polishing up their copper and brass instruments several months in advance, the soldiers salute their officers with enthusiasm and alacrity and have even been known to speak gently to corporals and sergeants.

On Good Behavior.

Col. Rollet has warned that any bandsman guilty of a severe infraction against discipline or three minor breaks, would not make the trip to Paris next year. Rather than miss those six months in the "promised land" the soldier-musicians have chosen to be good.

The Foreign Legion musicians boast that, like their fighting ranks on the battlefield, they are first in the French army.

Among the men who enlisted in the legion for various causes are artists, who at one time were listed as stars in the European musical field. One of the cornet players is a Belgian who played in every capital of Europe and before most of the crowned heads. He is said to be a nobleman, who joined the legion after a shattered love affair.

Formed String Orchestra.

The numerous Russians who enlisted after the revolution in their country have formed a string orchestra, which, if permitted to play in concert halls, would achieve a reputation second to none among the renowned orchestras of the world.

Some of the instruments in the legion band have as romantic histories as the men who play them and several date back to a hundred years ago, the year of the creation of the legion.

A bugle brought back from Mexico is the proud possession of one of the band leaders. On a certain April 30, during the French intervention in Mexico, 75 men of the legion held a blockhouse against 2,000 Mexicans for fifteen hours. They killed 250 of the enemy and surrendered only when three officers were killed and 53 men had been put out of action. The bugler was one of the survivors and brought back his instrument to France.

"It will be great to get away from the Arab barkeeps of Sidi-bel-Abbes," one of the soldier-musicians replied when asked what was the most interesting thing he was looking forward to in Paris.

Creager Dismisses Suit Against Periodical

Brownsville, Tex., Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A $500,000 libel suit brought by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman from Texas, against the P. F. Collier & Son Co. and the P. F. Collier & Son Distributing Co. was dismissed in Federal court today on motion of Creager.

The suit was based on an article, "Job For Jack," which appeared in Collier's Weekly.

Another suit brought by Creager in which he complained of another article in Collier's was tried at Brownsville last January and a verdict returned for the defendants.

WEIHAIWEI ONCE MORE IS CHINESE

British Surrender Naval Concession to Nanking Government.

BELIEVED LOSING GRIP

Shanghai, Dec. 2 (A.P.).—Is Great Britain losing her grip in China? Not only Americans, Japanese and continental Europeans within the boundaries of Cathay are asking this question, but subjects of King George who have established their homes and businesses in this part of the world would like to know the answer.

Those who venture any reply at all, mostly give an affirmative answer to the query.

The subject has been discussed off and on for two years or more, but the return to China on October 1 of the Weihaiwei concession has pushed it further into the spotlight than at any time since the related subject of extraterritorial rights became a serious issue. The North China port, which for 32 years had served as a British naval base, was handed back to Nanking without even an argument.

Weihaiwei Now Chinese.

Weihaiwei still remains a base, but it belongs to the Chinese and they have assumed complete control of the place. Sir Reginald Johnson, the British commissioner, and other employes of the crown who helped govern the port and adjacent territory, have gone to other posts and the British troops there have been transferred to the Hongkong garrison.

Kulangsu, the British concession in Amoy, is also to be handed back to the Chinese within a few months and foreign business interests are wondering where the process is going to stop.

As a matter of fact, Weihaiwei was no longer needed as a British naval base, now that Tsingtao, former German possession, has been abandoned by the Japanese. Therefore, from a political viewpoint, the change in jurisdiction is not regarded as highly important in diplomatic circles. But commercial interests had hoped for years that the English would develop the business possibilities of the place, although no step was ever taken in that direction.

Used as Sanatorium.

This lack of commercial development was largely due to an agreement between Great Britain and Germany in 1898, whereby each promised not to encroach on the other's territory. Consequently, Weihaiwei was used chiefly as a sanatorium for the British naval forces in eastern waters, a purpose for which it was ideal.

The story of Weihaiwei was linked with the slow advance of Russia across Asia, a movement which added Siberia, or more than half the territory of the continent, to the realm of a czar who already governed half of Europe. The real scramble started in 1898, when Russian obtained a 25-year lease on Port Arthur and Germany got Tsingtao on the same terms.

Britain's acquisition of Weihaiwei was primarily an answer to the Russian move, but while the czar fortified his port until it was supposed to be impregnable, Britain laid down no fortifications in her territory, relying rather upon her mutual compact with Germany in that field.

The leased territory included Weihaiwei Bay with its many islands and a strip of land ten miles wide along the coast. A Chinese regiment was raised in the port and this unit marched smartly in London at the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria.

Coolie Recruiting Station.

During the World War Weihaiwei was used as a recruiting station for Chinese coolies, who rendered valuable noncombatant service in Europe to Great Britain. The regular remittances of pay from these men poured a stream of silver into the territory that greatly enriched the natives of the region.

That the people of the territory were satisfied with British control was evidenced when the time came to haul down the British flag. Sir Reginald Johnson found it necessary to make a lengthy speech to the headmen of surrounding villages, assuring them that the Chinese had promised to rule the port on the lines established by the English. The headmen loaded Sir Reginald with farewell gifts.

The Chinese authorities hope to open Weihaiwei to trade. A customs house has already been established there and plans are under way for improvement of the harbor and of the port facilities.

11,008 From District Given Federal Service

That 11,008 residents of the District of Columbia were appointed to classified Federal service from November, 1918, to June, 1930, was revealed yesterday in a report of the Civil Service Commission filed in the United States Senate.

The statement, listing the names of all civil service employes appointed in that period from the District and States having more than their quota, was filed in response to a resolution adopted at the last session of Congress. It was adopted on the motion of Senator Thomas Heflin.

WIFE WHO KILLED HUSBAND IS FREED SPEEDILY BY JURY

LES STHAN HOUR TAKEN TO RE PORT ACQUITTAL

Mrs. Myrtle L. Williams Is Held Irresponsible for Killing Last Junly 4.

A District Supreme Court jury, before Justice Oscar R. Luhring, yesterday acquitted Mrs. Myrtle L. Williams of second degree murder in connection with the death of her husband, Claude C. Williams, last July at a house on Tenth street northwest, near Park road.

The jury, out less than an hour, returned the verdict after hearing arguments in which testimony of alienists was emphasized.

Mrs. Williams, on the stand Tuesday, admitted shooting her husband, but insisted she did not know she had committed the act until aroused by the report of the gun.

Testimony yesterday was that the woman was irresponsible because of mental confusion resulting from arteric sclerosis. Much of this condition was superinduced by the torrid heat in Washington at the time of the shooting, it was said. This testimony was given by Drs. Raymond R. Foxwell and Albert Smith.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, appearing for the Government, however, contended the woman was entirely sane and responsible for her act.

Williams died eight days after the shooting, which the wife said followed various abuses and his refusal to give her money for food.

Assistant United States Attorney Irving Goldstein conducted the prosecution. Attorneys Welch, Dailey and Welch appeared for the woman.

NEW SENATOR OWES START TO MAD BULL

HAS UNIQUE METHODS

Beresford, S. Dak., Dec. 2 (A.P.).—A bull which gored and killed one of his neighbors put William J. Bulow, Democratic United States senator-elect from South Dakota, into politics.

Six years ago the Democratic party in South Dakota, without a chance of electing anybody to office in the normally Republican State, went through the motions of nominating a State ticket and put up a Beresford man for the governorship.

As the campaign was about to begin the nominee, a farmer, was attacked and fatally wounded by a bull in his pasture. The Democrats, just to fill the vacancy on their ticket, put the name of Bulow, an obscure lawyer of the town and unknown outside his own county, on the ballot.

Bulow was beaten, but his dry wit and his scorn for conventional political habits attracted attention, and his party renominated him for governor in 1926.

That year, thanks to a split in the Republican ranks, he was elected, and as the first Democratic governor in State history he won re-election in 1928.

His success in politics has been due to his personal popularity, and his victory for senator over W. H. McMaster, Republican incumbent, came in spite of the success of the rest of the Republican ticket.

"There aren't any issues," said Bulow in the McMaster campaign. "Mac's got a job and I want it."

He got the job.

OIL SHALE ROCKS BURN LIKE WOOD

Colorado Stone Is Called Geological "Stew" by Scientists.

FISH SCALES ON THEM

Debeque, Colo., Dec. 2 (A.P.).—Black rocks that can be burned in stoves much like wood have been brought from their scientific resting places by the controversy over administration of oil shale lands.

Thousands of years ago great lagoons covered a vast expanse in western Colorado and eastern Utah. Vegetable and water life flourished.

Then mineral matter was deposited in the swamps. The lagoons dried up and disappeared as streams drained away the water and cut deep arroyos that form the picturesque, book-like cliffs of today.

Baked by the sun for thousands of years and pressed hard by layers of earth deposited on top of it, this preserved mixture constitutes one of the world's oil resources. Layer upon layer of hardened mud, now friable rock, pile up in great thickness like the leaves of a book.

They are filled with the shells of small crustaceans and skeletons and scales of fish. When distilled this mixture of vegetable, fish and rock formation yields petroleum.

The United States Geological Survey classifies 952,239 acres in Colorado as oil shale land, the deposits centered in western Colorado with Debeque headquarters for experimental work.

Tests by the Geological Survey showed recoveries of 10 to 68 gallons of oil from a ton of shale. Numerous by-products, including ammonium sulphate, are contained in the shale.

Man Enters Guilty Plea To Holding Up Hackers

Carroll E. Burkett, 26-year-old taxicab robber, pleaded guilty yesterday before Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court to two indictments charging him with forays on taxicab drivers. Sentence was withheld.

The indictments charge the man with holding up drivers of two taxicabs whom he instructed to go to isolated localities. He faces a maximum penalty of 30 years, the sentence on each charge being six months to fifteen years.

AGED INDIAN SEES HEAP BIG POW WOW

SCORNS PALEFACE 'WAR'

Special to The Washington Post.

Ensenada, Mexico, Dec. 2. — Old Chief Cocupa, centenarian, who was recently lured from the fastnesses of San Pedro Martir Mountains for his first view of a civilized community—whereupon he mistook an amphibian plane above Ensenada Bay for a huge pelican—has again been enticed to the haunts of the white man with interesting results.

It must be borne in mind that for a century the old chief had been living an absolutely simple life, remarkably like that of the early white pioneer, which is to say that he rose each day at dawn to hunt and cultivate his crops, and retired to bed with the chickens, never enjoying a holiday—a regular Thoreau-at-Walden-Pond sort of life.

Accordingly, the chief entered on his first real visit to the noise, excitement and complexity of what is known as civilization in much the same spirit that the frugal and thrifty white pioneers visited their first Indian encampment, either voluntarily or as prisoners, or as a small, shut-in boy still imagines the Wild West to be. In short, this is a story with reverse English—or, rather, reverse Indian.

Amazed by Shriners.

The first thing the gentle Cocupa saw in Ensenada was the amazing antics of a delegation of Shriners from Los Angeles, guests of new Playa de Ensenda Hotel. Picturesquely garbed in their purple, white and gold costumes, they had taken the town by storm, with a brass striking it up on every corner. At sight and sound the chief's eyes fairly gleamed.

"Heap big pow wow," he muttered, and then a moment later, "Heap big war dance."

Cocupa entered into the familiar festivities with alacrity, despite a bit of rheumatism, was slapped on the back hard and often, and officially made a regular fellow. His joy knew no bounds when a fireworks celebration started on the beach, for now he knew that a real war was afoot, a raid planned.

From afar he made obeisance to Jack Dempsey, tallest and strongest white man and, therefore, Brave No. 1.

But unaccountably the fireworks ended, the variegated costumes became bleak black and white dinner jackets, the squaws, strangely enough, put clothes off instead of on as the chill of late evening impended. The chief shook his head. It was certainly a crazy way to go to war.

"Paleface squaw heap too paleface," he commented.

Visits Gaming Casino.

However, when the Indian was finally persuaded to follow the assembled guests into the casino of the hotel and saw the casino of the hotel and saw the poker-faced croupiers manipulating the various games of chance he thought there might be a war after all despite the protracted and illogical preparations. To him the croupiers were all medicine men, the one with the most medicine being undoubtedly the chuck-a-luck dealer, the gyrations of whose magical cage fairly awed Cocupa. Big medicine in that apparatus, thought not only the chief out of several discomfited white guests.

Through the evening all the customs and vices traditionally assigned the Indian race by the white man were viewed with surprise, pain and contempt by Cocupa, to whom the popping of champagne bottles was the liberation of firewater, goad to still more bacchanalian outbursts than he was witnessing.

At last the hour after hour concentration of the white players disgusted the chief, who was now certain no war was intended. "Heap big nothing," he said, striding off.

In the taproom he was captured for a final round of good fellowship. From it he finally managed to break away, uttering incomprehensible remarks.

"What is he saying?" asked some one.

Immunity May Bar Rum Prosecution

Embassy Janitor's Case Puzzles Prosecutor; Ruling Awaited.

Stanley M. Watts, Negro, may escape the penalty of the prohibition law because of "diplomatic immunity." He was arrested two days ago at a house on Willard street northwest near Seventeenth, while in the alleged act of transporting a bottle of liquor, carried openly in his hand.

At the time, he told police that the liquor had been given to him by a man at the "Polish Embassy." This report was submitted yesterday to Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, chief liquor prosecutor in Police Court, and that official will make a decision concerning prosecution today.

Watts appeared for arraignment yesterday, but was not forced to face a judge. Mr. Hart explained that the man claims to be janitor at the Polish Embassy and may have certain diplomatic privileges.

Bonds of Quartet Placed at $10,000

Four Accused in Robbery Series Are Held to Grand Jury.

Four persons, three youths and one man, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday and held for grand jury action under bonds of $10,000 in connection with a series of local robberies during the past few weeks.

Those held are: John E. Martin, 30 years old, of H street southeast near Sixteenth street; Vincent Delcher, 18 years old, and Clyde Fisher, 20 years old, both of Rochester, N. Y., and John A. Cross, of Nichols avenue near Twenty-ninth street.

Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keough asked Judge Ralph Given to assess the high bond, charging that the quartet had stolen almost $1,000.

Mrs. F. S. Dominey, of Enigma, Ga., figures she saved 252,800 steps during the last year by installing a kitchen sink.
